A draft of the rules and rates was published in the Calcutta Gazette of the dates noted in the margin, as Notification No. 51, dated the 12th February 1894.

The 14th, 21st and 28th February, and the 7th, 14th and 28th March 1894.

1. A map showing the area commanded, i.e., the area from which applications will be accepted, will be kept in the Collectors' office. Copies will be sold to the public at Re. 1-8 a copy.

2. Existing lease-holders may, provided the land covered by the lease is situated within the area commanded, exchange their leases for leases under new conditions: if beyond the area commanded, they may have their leases cancelled if they so wish; but no fresh lease will be granted. In either case the change will take effect from the 1st of April 1894, and a formal application in writing, signed by all the persons who have signed the original lease, must be presented to the Canal Officer before the 1st July 1894.

3. The area under long lease will be limited to 50,000 acres, of which 32,000 acres will be in the Burdwan and 18,000 acres in the Hooghly district. Long leases will, in all cases, commence from the 1st June in any year, and extend for seven years.

4. Leases for one season will be granted for any lands within the area commanded but long lease-holders will have a prior right to the water and season lease-holders will not be supplied until the area under long lease has first been watered.

5. No leases will be accepted for lands situated beyond the area commanded, but if water is available, single waterings may be granted.

The application must be for such an area as will probably be irrigated with existing appliances, and no lease will be accepted where it may be reasonably anticipated that lands beyond the boundaries specified will necessarily or probably be irrigated. Ordinarily the measurements taken in the year in which the lease is executed will be accepted for the remainder of the term, but in special cases the Divisional Canal Officer may by a written order authorize a re-measurement.

9. The Divisional Canal Officer may, under special circumstances for the convenience of the canal administration, sanction a long lease for a term of three instead of seven years.

If the lessee is not the zamindar or talukdar, a moiety of the amount due for the first year will be payable in advance. Leases under rule 6—VI, will be entered into with representatives of the actual cultivators.

12. No cross dams other than those the erection of which has been sanctioned as a permanent arrangement will be allowed without the written order of the Divisional Canal Officer issued with the written approval of the Collector. Every cross dam must be provided with a suitable and efficient escape, so that the flow of the water in the channel may not be interfered with.

13. The Canal Officer will not interfere with the fishery rights hitherto exercised by the proprietors of the river beds, but no stakes shall be allowed to be fixed for the purpose, excepting on and from the 1st of February to the 31st of March, and then only in such a way as not to interfere with the flow of the water.

Testimonials of Foreigners.

5. The testimonials of servitude of Foreigners and of British seamen serving in foreign vessels, which cannot be verified by the Port Officer, must be confirmed either by the Consul of the country to which the ship in which the candidate served belonged, or by some other recognized official authority of that country; or by the testimony of some credible person on the spot having personal knowledge of the facts required to be established. The production, however, of such proofs will not of necessity be deemed sufficient. Each case must be decided on its own merits; and if the sufficiency of the proofs given appears to be at all doubtful, the point must be referred to the Government.

Certificates as to age.

6. Should any doubt exist as to the age of a candidate, he will be required to produce a certificate of birth or baptism.

Foreigners to know English.

7. Foreigners must prove to the satisfaction of the Examiners that they can speak and write the English language sufficiently well to perform the duties required of them on board a British vessel.

In the case of natives of India who may not be able to speak English, their certificate shall be endorsed to the effect that they are vailed only for vessels manned and officered entirely by Asiatics.

Colour Tests.

8. The Government had made the following arrangements for the examination of persons as to their ability to distinguish colours:—

9. Examinations in colour are open to any person serving or out to serve in the Mercantile Marine.

10. Any persons including the holders of Certificates of Competency, or persons about to apply for Certificates of Competency, if desirous of being examined in Colours only, must make application to the Port Officer on Form Exn 2*a*, and pay a fee of one rupee.

11. He must on the appointed day attend for examination at the Examiner's Office, and if he passes he will receive a certificate to that effect.

12. If he fails, it will be open to him to be examined again in Colours as often as he pleases on payment of the fee of one rupee at each fresh attempt.

13. The application of a candidate who is presenting himself for examination for a Master's Certificate must be made on Form Exn. 2*b*. Such examination will commence with the colour test; and if the candidate does not, at the time of making application, hold a Certificate of Competency of any grade, and should fail to distinguish correctly any one of the colours used in the test, he will not be allowed to proceed with the examination.

14. The fee he has paid for examination for a Certificate of Competency will include the fee for the Colour test, and, with the exception of one rupee, will in such event be returned to him.

15. A candidate for examination for a Certificate of Competency who, at the time of making application, does not possess a certificate, and who fails to pass the Colour test, may not be re-examined until after the lapse of three months from the date of his first failure. If he fails a second time, he will be allowed a third trial at the expiration of another three months from the date of his second failure. A fresh fee must be paid at each succeeding examination.

16. It is therefore obviously to the advantage of Candidates for Certificates of Competency to apply in the first instance to be examined in Colours only on Form Exn. 2*a*.

17. A candidate who holds a Certificate of Competency, and who, on presenting himself for examination for a certificate of a higher grade, is unable to pass the Colour test, will notwithstanding be permitted to proceed with the examination for the certificate of the higher grade.

18. Should he pass this examination, the following statement will be written on the face of the higher certificate which may be granted to him, viz.—"This Officer has failed to pass the examination in Colours."

19. Should he ultimately fail to pass the examination, a like statement, relating to his being colour-blind, will be made by the Port Officer on his existing certificate before it is returned to him.

20. Holders of certificates which bear the statement of their having failed to pass in Colours, and who may desire to have the statement removed from their certificates, must obtain the special permission of the Government.

Qualifications for Certificates of Competency as First Class Masters.

21. Examination in Colours.—All candidates for certificates of competency must first be examined in Colours.

22. A candidate for a certificate as first class master of inland steam-vessels must be not less than twenty-four years of age, and must have served as second class master in charge of a steam-vessel for not less than three years, or he must be not less than twenty-two years of age, hold a certificate of competency as second mate granted under Act I of 1859 (for the amendment of the law relating to Merchant Seamen), or the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1883, or a certificate to which the provisions of any such Act have been made applicable under the Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869, and have served as mate of an inland steam-vessel or master of a river flat for not less than one year; or he must be not less than twenty-four years of age, and must have served either not less three years at sea and three years as mate of a river steamer or master of a river flat or not less than six years as mate of a river steamer or master of a river flat.

23. Each candidate will be examined apart, and viâ voce, in each and all of the following subjects:—

(1)—The rules of the road.
(2)—The management of river steamers under all contingencies.
(3)—The tide table.
(4)—Storm signals.

Candidates not to take books, &c., into examination room.

18. Candidates will be allowed in the time allotted to cancel any part of their work, and, when required, additional papers will be supplied by the Examiners These additional sheets must be attached to, and form part of, the examination papers.

19. In the event of any candidate being discovered copying from another, or affording any assistance or giving any information to another, or communicating in any way with another during the time of examination, he will be regarded as having failed in his examination, and will be turned back for three months, in the same manner as if he had failed in the practical part of the examination; and no part of the fees he may have paid for examination will be returned to him. Punishment for breaking rules.

20. If a candidate leaves the room before answering any question which has been given to him, he cannot afterwards be permitted to answer it, but the examiners may substitute other data or another question. Leaving examination room.

21. All applicants presenting themselves for examination for certificates of competency as engineers will be required to give written answers to eight out of a list of ten questions selected from Form Exn. 15*a*, "Elementary Questions for the first Examinations of Engineers for certificates of competency." These questions are intended to furnish a record to some extent of the candidate's knowledge at the time of his examination, and also to induce the candidates to pay more attention to their handwriting and spelling. Questions from Form Exn. 15*a*.

22. The Form Exn. 15*b*., on which these answers will be written, contains also some questions as to the experience of the applicant, to be answered by him in writing.

24. If at the expiration of the time allowed the candidate has worked out correctly the whole of the questions set to him, and given satisfactory answers in the viva voce examination, he will be declared to have passed.

25. If at the expiration of the time allowed he has not worked out the whole of the questions set to him, but if the result of the viva voce examination, taken in connection with the answers to such of the questions as he has worked out, is sufficient to satisfy the Examiner that the applicant is competent to take charge of engines, he will be declared to have passed.

26. In other cases he will be declared to have failed.

27. A report of the examination, and the examination papers, will be forwarded to the Government on the Form Exn. 15. Exn. 15.

Notification of having passed will be given to successful candidates Form Exn. 16

28. If the candidate passes, he will receive the Form Exn. 16 upon which the Government will issue the certificate to the candidate, whose testimonials, &c., will be returned at the same time. It is therefore important that the port of destination of the certificate should be the same on both the Form Exn. 16 and the Form Exn. 2. If circumstances should make any alteration necessary, the examiners should see that it is made in both forms, otherwise delay in the issue of the certificate may be caused.

Fees.

Fees to be paid by applicants for examination.

29. Candidates for examination, in making their application on Form Exn. 3*b*, will be required to pay the examination fees before any step is taken, whether by inquiring into their services or testing their qualifications, &c No part of the fee will under any circumstances be returned to them; but should it be found that their service is not sufficient to entitle them to be examined, or that their testimonials are unsatisfactory, they will be allowed to present themselves for examination without paying any further fee, when they have fulfilled the requisite service, or are able to produce satisfactory testimonials, as the case may be.

30. The fee for examination must be paid to the Port Officer. In any case in which a candidate offers money to any other officer, and in any place but in the Port Office, the candidate so offering money will be regarded as having committed an act of misconduct, and will be rejected and not allowed to be examined for twelve months.

31. If a candidate fails in his examinations, no part of the fee he has paid will be returned to him.

32. The fees are as follow:—

	Rs.
Engineers	12
First class engine-drivers	10

Failure.

33. If the applicant fails in the viva voce or practical part of the examination, he may not present himself for re-examination until he can produce proofs of three months further service afloat. If he fails in arithmetic or drawing only, he may come up again at any time. Engine-drivers may be examined de novo after six months, if the past examination showed that they might reasonably be expected to qualify.

General.

34. Certificates of competency of engineers and first class engine-drivers shall be made out and issued in the forms hereunto annexed.

35. Every certificate of competency shall be made in duplicate, and one copy shall be delivered to the person entitled to the certificate, and the other shall be kept and recorded by the Port Officer of Calcutta.

1. The examination is held annually at the Civil Engineering College, Sibpur, on the 1st Monday in June. The examination will be conducted either at the College or by an Examiner, Public Works Accounts (including Railway and Telegraph), in Bengal, Assam and Burma only. The examination will be ipso facto vitiated if it be not held (begun and completed) on the dates fixed, but the officer who will conduct the examination may make his own arrangements in regard to the place and hour of examination with the candidates.

Candidates will not be examined in any of the Calcutta offices.

A candidate already in permanent Government employ* may be allowed to compete in the examination even if he is more than 25 years of age, and may be appointed to an accountantship if he passes it, but if he is not already in pensionable service, he will be eligible only for appointment to the non-pensionable establishment on State Railways.

* This term includes employment under Local Boards and foreign bodies if such is pensionable by the British Government.

2. The candidate should apply to an Examiner of Public Works Accounts not later than 30 days previous to the date fixed for the examination, and obtain his consent to conduct the examination, if examination at the College is not convenient. The application must bear the address of the candidate, must be accompanied by a fee of Rs. 10 and the following certificates, and must forwarded by him, not direct to the Principal, but through the Examiner.

Certificates may be submitted in original, or true copies attested by an officer of the Engineer or Accounts Branch, but none will be returned :—

(1) Certificate of good character signed by applicant's immediate official superior or by the instructor under whom he has been educated, or by some other superior under whom he may have been brought up or employed, or to whom he may be well known. This certificate must have special reference to the two years immediately preceding the application.

(2) Certificate of age (baptismal or of birth not required if the candidate is already in permanent Government employ).

(3) Certificate that the application is in the candidate's handwriting.

It will rest with the Examiner of Accounts, to whom the candidate submits his application, on a consideration of these certificates, to decide whether the candidate should be registered for the examination or whether his application should be rejected. He will only forward the names of accepted candidates to the Principal together with their applications in their own handwriting, statement of their ages, and fees. These should be transmitted altogether under one covering letter on the last day allowed by the rule.

3. Examination papers that are issued for examination need not be returned.

4. Each examination is complete in itself. A candidate who has failed in an examination, and presents himself for examination on a subsequent occasion must undergo the full examination and furnish fresh fee and certificates.

5. Passed candidates should apply, not to the Principal of the College, nor to the Accountant-General, Public Works Department, but direct to the Examiner of Public Works Accounts in the province or railway under whom they may desire to be employed.

6. It must be distinctly understood that the passing of this examination does not give any claim to an appointment, and that in making appointments preference will be given to qualified persons who are already employed in the department.

7. The Civil Engineering College acts solely as an examining body in reference to admission to the 4th grade of Accountants, Public Works Department.

J. S. SLATER,
Principal, Civil Engineering College.

SIBPUR, the 30th March 1894.

N.B.—The attention of candidates is drawn to the alteration in Rule 2 (3). In future no candidate is to apply direct to the Principal for permission to attend the examination, but must send his application through an Examiner of Public Works Accounts, who will decide whether the candidate is to be admitted. The Principal will attend to no applications received direct.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

REVISED ADVERTISEMENT.

A Dictionary of the Economic Products of India
BY DR. GEO. WATT, C.I.E.,
Reporter on Economic Products.

Published under the authority of the Government of India in the Revenue and Agricultural Department.

The first five volumes and Vol. VI, Parts I, II, III & IV of the Dictionary are now ready at the Office of Superintend-set of Government Printing, No. 8, Hastings Street, Calcutta, and will be supplied to non-subscribers on receipt of the price for the complete set, which is Rs. 45 in India, and 3 guineas in England (exclusive of the Index, or which a separate charge will be made); packing and postage, in India, 8 annas per volume; for England, Rs. 2-8 per volume. For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, Rs. 6 and 8 shillings, respectively, will be charged extra for the whole set.

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral; each product being treated after a uniform plan, the paragraphs of which give the scientific, vernacular, and European names; habitat or source; history; properties and uses (both chemical and industrial); trade statistics; markets; &c. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader.

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks, and with a reference to the original publication. Numerous contributors have, however, furnished the results of new discoveries and confirmed the vernacular names, so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information, but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries.

Volume I contains the letters A and B, and consists of 559 royal octavo pages; Vol. II embraces the letter C in 689 pages; Vol. III contains the letters D, E, F and half of G. Vol IV latter half of G to middle of L; and Vol. V contains the latter half of L to end of O; Vol. VI, which will consist of four parts), Part I, contains letters P to R. The whole work will, it is expected, be completed in nine volumes (including Parts II to IV of Vol. VI) during the current year; but a tenth volume may also be issued, consisting of an Index to all the vernacular and other names contained in the Dictionary. The Index will practically be a Glossary of the vernacular and European names of the plants, animals and minerals of India, and as such will be a work of reference, which, it is hoped, may prove of considerable value.

Deposit for the protection of an estate from sale.

(2) So long as any money or securities aforesaid, sufficient to cover any arrear that may fall due, shall remain and be available as aforesaid, the estate or share of an estate, or the independent tenure, for the protection of which the said deposit was made, shall be exempted from sale for arrears of revenue.

(3) All money and securities so deposited shall be exempt from attachment otherwise than in execution of a decree of a Civil Court:

Provided that it shall be competent to the person making a deposit under this section, or his representative or assignee, at any time to withdraw the deposit and to revoke the pledge of the same.

Withdrawal of the deposit.

17. (1) Whenever any recorded proprietor of an estate or share of an estate, or an independent tenure, shall have paid revenue, together with the amounts and additional sum specified in section fourteen or fifteen, in respect of such estate or share of an estate, or the independent tenure, in excess of the amount proportionate to his own recorded interest therein, he may, within fifteen days of such payment being made, move the Collector by written application to make a certificate as provided by the law for the time being in force for the recovery of public demands, specifying the revenue, amounts and additional sum which have been paid by such proprietor on account of the recorded share or interest of any other proprietor in the estate or share of an estate, or the independent tenure.

Recovery of excess payments by certificate process.

(2) Such application shall be verified by the applicant in accordance with the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure for the verification of plaints, and shall bear a court-fee stamp of the same amount as is payable under the Court-fees Act for the time being in force, in respect of a plaint for the recovery of a sum of money equal to that stated in such application.

(3) The Collector may, if he thinks fit, make such certificate, and such certificate shall have the same effect as a certificate made for the recovery of a public demand; and the same notices shall be issued, and the same proceedings taken thereon, as in the case of such certificate.

18. (1) The Collector shall, at any time before sunset of the latest day of payment, determined by section six of this Act, receive as a deposit from any person not being a proprietor of an estate or share of an estate, or the independent tenure, in arrear, the amount of the arrear of revenue due, to be credited in payment of the arrear at sunset as aforesaid, unless before that time the arrear shall have been paid by a defaulting proprietor of the estate or tenure.

Deposits receivable from persons not proprietors.

(2) In case the person so depositing, whose money shall have been credited as aforesaid, shall be a party in a suit pending before a Court of Justice for the possession of the estate or share of an estate, or the independent tenure, from which the arrear is due, or any part thereof, it shall be competent to the said Court to order the said person to be put into temporary possession of the said estate or share of an estate, or the independent tenure, or part thereof, subject to the rules in force for taking security in the cases of parties in civil suits.

(3) In case the person so depositing, whose money shall have been credited as aforesaid, shall prove before a competent Civil Court that the deposit was made in order to protect an interest of the said person, which would have been endangered or damaged by the sale, or which he believed in good faith would have been endangered or damaged by the sale, he shall be entitled to recover the amount of the deposit, with or without interest as the Court may determine, from the defaulting proprietor.

(4) If the person so depositing, whose money shall have been credited as aforesaid, shall prove before such a Court that the deposit was necessary in order to protect any lien he had on the estate or share of an estate, or the independent tenure, or part thereof, the amount so credited shall be added to the amount of the original lien.

Claims against Government held by a defaulter not to invalidate a sale.

19. (1) No claim to abatement or remission of revenue, unless the same shall have been allowed by the authority of Government, and no private demand or cause of action whatever held or supposed to be held by any defaulter against Government, shall bar or render void or voidable a sale under this Act.

(2) Nor shall the plea that money belonging to the defaulter and sufficient to pay the arrear of revenue due was in the Collector's hands, bar or render void or voidable a sale under this Act; unless such money stand in the defaulter's name alone and without dispute, and unless, after application in due time made by the defaulter or after the written agreement mentioned in section sixteen, the Collector shall have neglected or refused on insufficient grounds to transfer it in payment of the arrear of revenue due.

CHAPTER II.

Separate Accounts.

Separation of shares held in common by the opening of a separate account.

20. (1) When a recorded proprietor of a joint estate or independent tenure held in common tenancy, desires to pay his share of the Government revenue separately, he may submit to the Collector a written application to that effect.

(2) The application must contain a specification of the share held in the estate or independent tenure by the applicant.

Separation of shares consisting of specific portions of land by the opening of a separate account

21. (1) When a recorded proprietor of a joint estate or independent tenure, whose share consists of a specific portion of the land of the estate or independent tenure, desires to pay his share of the revenue separately, he may submit to the Collector a written application to that effect.

(2) The application must contain a specification of the land comprised in his share, and of the boundaries and extent thereof, together with a statement of the amount of revenue heretofore paid on account of it.

Separation of shares consisting of interest in specific portion of estate by opening separate accounts.

22. (1) When a recorded proprietor of a joint estate, who is recorded as proprietor of an undivided interest held in common tenancy in any specific portion of the land of the estate, but not extending over the whole estate, desires to pay separately the share of the revenue which is due in respect of such interest, he may submit to the Collector a written application to that effect.

(2) The application must contain a specification in such form as may be prescribed by the Local Government, of the land in which he holds such undivided interest, and of the boundaries and extent thereof, together with a statement of the amount of revenue heretofore paid on account thereof.

Procedure in opening separate accounts.

23. (1) On the receipt of an application under sections twenty, twenty-one and twenty-two the Collector shall cause a copy thereof to be published in the manner prescribed for a notification under section ten.

(2) In the event of no objection being urged by any recorded proprietor within six weeks from the date of publication of the application, the Collector shall open a separate account with the applicant, and shall credit separately to his share all payments made by him on account of it.

Date of commencement of separate liability.

24. The date on which the Collector records his sanction to the opening of a separate account under the last preceding section shall be held to be that from which the separate liabilities of the share of the applicant commence.

No separate account to be opened for incorrect share or for share bearing revenue of less than ten rupees.

25. No separate account shall be opened under section twenty-three in respect of the share of any applicant otherwise than for a share corresponding with the character and extent of interest in the estate in respect of which such applicant is recorded as proprietor; nor shall any separate account be opened in respect of any share, the revenue of which is less than ten rupees, or if the revenue of any residuary share which would be formed by the grant of such an application, would be less than ten rupees.

If objection be made, parties to be referred to the Civil Court

26. If on the publication of the applications referred to in section twenty-three, any recorded proprietor of the estate, whether the same be held in common tenancy or otherwise, object—

(a) that the applicant has no right to the share claimed by him, or that his interest in the estate is less or other than that claimed by him; or

(b) (when the application is in respect of a specific portion of the land of an estate, or in respect of an undivided interest held in common tenancy in any specific portion of the land of an estate) that the amount of revenue stated by the applicant to have been heretofore paid on account of such portion of land or on account of the applicant's undivided interest therein is not the amount which has been recognized by the other sharers as the revenue thereof, the Collector shall refer the parties to the Civil Court, and shall suspend proceedings until the question at issue is judicially determined.

Application to close a separate account.

27. Whenever any share, in respect of which a separate account has been opened by the Collector under section twenty-three, shall no longer correspond with the character and extent of interest held in the estate by any proprietor, or jointly by two or more proprietors, any recorded proprietor of any interest in the estate for a share of which such separate account is open, may submit to the Collector a written application setting forth the circumstances under which such share no longer corresponds with the character and extent of interest held as aforesaid, and specifying the manner in which such share has been broken up and distributed among the proprietors of the estate, or the manner in which the said character and extent of interest have been changed, and praying that the separate account standing open in respect of such share may be closed; and if he so desire, that another separate account be opened in respect of any other share or shares which were wholly or partly included in the share in respect of which the previous separate account was open.

Illustration.

In a certain estate separate accounts have been opened under section 25 for the 4 annas share of A, and also for the 5 annas share of B, the accounts of the remaining 7 annas share being kept jointly in the names of the remaining proprietors C, D and E.

In course of time X has inherited A's 4 annas share, and also C's interest in the 7 annas share which amounted to 3 annas; X has also acquired by purchase 2 annas out of B's 5 annas share, so that the interests in the estate are now distributed as follows:—

X	...	...	...	9 annas.
B	...	...	...	3 ,,
D and E	...	...	...	4 ,,

X, if a recorded proprietor of the estate, may apply to the Collector to close the separate account which is open in respect of A's 4 annas share, and also the separate account which is open in respect of B's 5 annas share, as neither of these shares corresponds with the extent of interest held by any one proprietor or held jointly by two or more proprietors in the estate.

X may, in the same application, also apply for the opening of a separate account in respect of the 9 annas share which he now holds. Any of the other proprietors may also make a similar application.

Separate account may be closed and another opened.

28. (1) On receipt of the application mentioned in the last preceding section, the Collector shall cause a copy of the same to be published in the manner prescribed for a notification under section ten, and if within six weeks of the date of such publication no objection is made by any other recorded proprietor of the estate, the Collector shall close the separate account which then stands open, and shall open a separate account with the applicant as desired by him under sections twenty, twenty-one and twenty-two, as the case may be.

(2) If any recorded proprietor object that the share in respect of which any separate account is open as aforesaid has not been broken up and does still correspond with the character and extent of interest held by any proprietor or proprietors, the Collector shall proceed as provided by section twenty-six.

Collector may close an incorrect separate account suo motu.

29. (1) Whenever it shall come to the notice of the Collector that a share for which a separate account has been opened under section twenty-three, does not correspond with the character and extent of interest held in the estate by the proprietor with whom the separate account was opened, the Collector shall issue a notice to the said proprietor informing him of his intention to close the separate account, and requiring him to state in a written application any objection he may have thereto. Such notice shall be served in the manner prescribed for the service of a notice under sections ten and twelve.

(2) If within six weeks from the service of the notice, the proprietor shall not make such application, or if the objections made by him are not in the opinion of the Collector good and sufficient, the Collector shall record a proceeding stating his reasons for believing the separate account to be incorrect, and shall order that the separate account be closed, and it shall be closed accordingly.

Sale of separate shares.

30. (1) Whenever the Collector shall have ordered a separate account or accounts to be kept for one or more shares, if the estate shall become liable to sale for arrears of revenue, the Collector shall, in the first place, put up to sale only that share or those shares of the estate from which, according to the separate accounts, an arrear of revenue may be due.

(2) In all such cases notice of the intention of excluding the share or shares from which no arrear is due shall be given in the advertisement of sale notified under section nine.

(3) The share or shares sold, together with the share or shares excluded from the sale, shall continue to constitute one integral estate, the share or shares sold being charged with the separate portion or the aggregate of the several separate portions of revenue assigned thereto.

Entire estate may be sold under certain conditions.

31. (1) If in any case of a sale held according to the provisions of the last preceding section there be no bid, or if the highest offer for the share exposed to sale shall not equal the amount of arrear due thereupon to the date of sale, the Collector shall stop the sale, and shall declare that the entire estate will be put up to sale for arrears of revenue at a future date, unless the other recorded sharer or sharers, or one or more of them, shall within ten days purchase the share in arrear by paying to Government the whole arrear due from such share with the penalties specified in section fifteen.

(2) If such purchase be completed, the Collector shall give such certificate and delivery of possession as are mentioned in sections fifty-seven and fifty-eight to the purchaser or purchasers, who shall have the same rights as if the share had been purchased by him or them at the sale.

(3) If no such purchase be made within ten days as aforesaid, the entire estate shall be sold, after notification for such period and publication in such manner as is notified by section ten of this Act.

Chapter III.—Estates under Court of Wards.

Estate under Court of Wards exempted from sale.

32. Except as hereinafter provided by section thirty-eight, every estate, and subject to the provisions of section thirty, every share or part of an estate for which a separate account has been opened under section twenty-three, shall be exempt from sale for arrears of revenue which have accrued whilst such estate, share or part has been under the charge of the Court of Wards in accordance with the provisions of Bengal Act IX of 1879 or any similar Act for the time being in force:

Provided that all such arrears of revenue shall be a first charge upon the sale proceeds of any estate, share or part which may be sold for any other cause than such arrears of revenue.

Recovery of arrears of revenue due when estate ceases to be under charge of Court of Wards.

33. If at the time when such estate, share or part ceases to be under the charge of the Court of Wards an arrear of revenue is due on account thereof, the Collector may attach such estate, share or part and collect the rent, cesses, and other demands due, and all arrears thereof, managing such estate, share or part either directly or through a manager, or by farming it for a period not exceeding five years, as he may think fit:

Provided that when such estate, share or part has been attached under this section, the proceeds shall be paid to the Collector, and the Collector, after deducting the claims of Government for revenue and other public demands, together with any interest which has accrued upon such public demands other than revenue, and the charges of management due up to the date of making such deduction, shall release such estate, share or part from attachment, and shall pay any balance of the proceeds still remaining in his hands to the proprietor of such estate, share or part, or to his duly constituted agent, and shall furnish such proprietor or agent with an account of the receipts and expenditure extending over the time when such estate, share or part was under attachment.

Estate belonging to minors not to be sold for arrears of revenue.

34. No estate, the sole property of a minor or of two or more minors, and descended to him or them by the regular course of inheritance or by virtue of the will of, or some settlement made by, some deceased owner thereof, shall be sold for arrears of revenue accruing subsequently to his or their succession to the same, until such minor or one of such minors has completed his age of twenty-one years, but all arrears of revenue shall be the first charge upon the proceeds of such estate if the estate is sold for any other cause during such minority.

Collector may attach estate.

35. The Collector may, on an arrear accruing on any estate mentioned in the last preceding section, attach the estate and collect the rents and all arrears of rent due, managing the estate either directly or through a manager, or by farming it as he may think fit for a period not exceeding ten years, nor extending beyond the time when such minor or one of such minors completes his age of twenty-one years.

When exemption from sale applies.

36. The exemption from sale for arrears of revenue referred to in section thirty-four shall only apply to cases in which a written notice of the fact that the estate is the sole property of one or more minors and entitled to such exemption has been served on the Collector before the sale.

Application of proceeds of farmed estate.

37. (1) When an estate has been farmed under section thirty-five, the proceeds of such farm shall be paid to the Collector, and the Collector, after deducting the amount of the claims of Government for revenue and other public demands and the charges of management, shall either pay the proceeds to the proprietor or to his duly constituted agent, or shall dispose of them in any of the modes mentioned in section forty-nine or section fifty of Bengal Act IX of 1879.

(2) Whenever such estate shall be released from attachment, the Collector shall furnish such proprietor or his duly constituted agent with an account of the receipts and expenditure extending over the time when such estate was under attachment.

Conditions under which estate may be sold for arrears accrued under Court.

38. Notwithstanding anything in clause 5, section 8, Regulation I of 1793, or in sections thirty-two and thirty-three contained, any estate, share or part of an estate on which an arrear of revenue has accrued while under the charge of the Court of Wards, may at any time be sold under the provisions of this Act, if the Court of Wards has certified in writing that the interests of the ward require that such estate, share or part of an estate be so sold, and has stated in such writing the reasons upon which it has arrived at such conclusion.

CHAPTER IV.

Attached Estates.

Estates under revenue attachment exempted from sale.

39. No estate, or share or part of an estate, held under attachment by the revenue authorities otherwise than by order of a judicial authority shall be liable to sale for arrears accruing whilst it was so held under attachment.

Explanation.—The attachment of an estate, or share or part of an estate, under the provisions of section ten of the Public Demands Recovery Act, 1880, is not an attachment within the meaning of this section, and does not exempt the estate, or share or part of an estate, so attached from sale for arrears of revenue.

Estates under judicial attachment exempted from sale till close of the year.

40. No estate, or share or part of an estate held under attachment or managed by a revenue officer, in pursuance of an order of a judicial authority, shall be liable to sale for the recovery of arrears of revenue accruing during the period of such attachment or management until after the end of the year in which such arrears accrued.

PART IV.

Sales.

Sales where to be held.

41. Sales shall ordinarily be held by the Collector in the Collector's office at the sadar station of the district:

Provided that it shall be competent to the Board to prescribe a place for holding sales other than such office whenever they shall consider it beneficial to the parties concerned.

Adjournment of sales.

42. In case the Collector shall be unable from sickness, from the occurrence of a holiday or from any other cause, to commence the sale on the day of sale fixed as aforesaid; or if, having commenced it, he be unable, from any cause, to complete it, he shall be competent to adjourn it to the next day following, not being Sunday or other close holiday, recording his reasons for such adjournment, forwarding a copy of such record to the Commissioner and announcing the adjournment by a written notification stuck up in his cutcherry, and so on, from day to day, until he shall be able to commence upon or to complete the sale; but, with the exception of adjournments so made, recorded and reported, each sale shall invariably be made on the day of sale fixed in the manner aforesaid.

Procedure at sales.

43. (1) On or before the day of sale notified under section nine, the notifications affixed in the Collector's office under that section, together with the return of publication of notice in the Judge's Court, and the returns of service of all and any notices issued and declarations forwarded under any of the provisions of this Act, shall be laid before the Collector of the district or a Deputy Collector specially empowered by him in this behalf, who shall satisfy himself that all notifications and notices previous to sale by this Act required have been duly issued for the period at the places and in the manner by this Act prescribed.

(2) On being so satisfied, or on receiving a report from the Deputy Collector specially empowered as above that he has so satisfied himself, the Collector of the district shall record an attestation in the form prescribed in the second schedule hereto annexed, that all the requirements of this Act in respect of the publication of notifications and notices purport to have been complied with, and such attestation shall be kept with, and form part of, the record of sale proceedings.

(3) If the Collector be not satisfied that the prescribed notifications and notices have been duly issued and served in respect to any estate notified for sale under section nine, he shall postpone the sale and issue fresh notifications and notices for the period at the places and in the manner by this Act prescribed.

Order of selling.

44. Upon completion of the attestation mentioned in the last preceding section, the sales shall proceed in regular order; the estate or share of an estate, or independent tenure, to be sold bearing the lowest number on the revenue-roll of the Collector's office of the district being put up first, and so on, in regular sequence: and it shall not be lawful for the Collector to put up any estate or share of an estate, or independent tenure, out of its regular order by number, except where it may be necessary to do so on default of deposit, as mentioned in the next succeeding section.

Deposit on account of purchase-money.

45. The person who shall be declared the purchaser of an estate or share of an estate, or independent tenure, at any such public sale as aforesaid, shall be required to deposit immediately or as soon after the conclusion of the sale of the estate or share of an estate, or independent tenure, as the Collector may think necessary, either in cash, currency notes or Government securities to be valued at the market rate of the day, duly endorsed, one-fourth of the amount of his bid; and in default of such deposit, the estate or share of an estate shall forthwith be put up again and sold.

Full payment of purchase-money.

46. (1) The full amount of purchase-money shall be made good by the purchaser before sunset of the thirtieth day from that on which the sale of the estate or share of an estate, or independent tenure, bought by him took place, reckoning that day as one of the thirty; or if the thirtieth day be a Sunday or other close holiday, then on the first office day after the thirtieth.

(2) On default of payment within the prescribed period as aforesaid, the deposit shall be forfeited to Government, the estate or share of an estate, or independent tenure, shall be re-sold, and the defaulting purchaser shall forfeit all claim to the estate or share of an estate, or independent tenure, or to any part of the sum for which it may subsequently be sold.

(3) In the event of the proceeds of the sale which may be eventually consummated being less than the price bid by the defaulting bidder aforesaid, the Collector shall proceed to levy the difference from him under the provisions of the Public Demands Recovery Act, 1880, and such difference shall be taken and considered to be a part of the purchase-money, and shall be dealt with in the manner prescribed under section sixty, for the disposal thereof.

Re-sale on default of payment of purchase-money.

47. (1) When default is made in the payment of purchase-money, a notification of the intended re-sale shall be published for the period and in the manner prescribed in section nine, but such notification shall not be published until the expiration of three clear days after the day on which the default shall have occurred.

(2) If the payment, or tender of payment, of the arrear on account of which the estate or share of an estate, or independent tenure, was first sold, and of any arrear which may have subsequently become due, and of the amounts and the additional sum specified in section fifteen, shall be made by or on behalf of the proprietor of the estate or share of an estate, or independent tenure, before sunset of the third day, the issue of the notification of re-sale shall be stayed.

Method of calculating amount to be recovered from bidders when default has occurred more than once.

48. (1) If default of payment of purchase-money shall occur more than once, the amount to be recovered from the defaulting bidders shall be the difference between the highest bid and the proceeds of the sale eventually consummated, which amount may be levied in manner aforesaid from any of the defaulting bidders to the extent of the amount by which his bid exceeds the amount realized:

(2) The rules contained in sections forty-five and forty-six shall be applicable to every such re-sale.

49. Any person interested in any estate or share of an estate, or an independent tenure, sold for arrears of revenue or injuriously affected by such sale may, within thirty days of the date of the sale, apply to the Collector to annul the sale; and if it appear to the Collector that material irregularity has occurred in the service of any of the notifications or notices referred to in section forty-three, and that substantial injury has been caused thereby, he shall annul the sale or issue such order authorized by law as the justice of the case may require

Annulment of sale by Board of Revenue.

(2) The annulment of a sale made under this section shall be publicly notified by the Collector in the same manner as the becoming final and conclusive of sales is required to be notified by section fifty-seven.

Rights of a purchaser being a sharer in any estate.

70. Excepting proprietors with whom the Collector, under section twenty-three, has opened separate accounts, any recorded or unrecorded proprietor or co-partner, who may purchase the estate of which he is proprietor or co-partner, or who by re-purchase or otherwise may recover possession of the said estate, after it has been sold for arrears under this Act; and likewise any purchaser of an estate sold for arrears or demands other than those accruing upon itself, shall by such purchase acquire the estate subject to all its incumbrances existing at the time of sale, and shall not acquire any rights in respect to under-tenants or raiyats, which were not possessed by the previous proprietor at the time of the sale of the said estate.

Rights of purchasers of shares of estate

71. When a share or shares of an estate may be sold under the provisions of section thirty or thirty-one, whether the share or shares so sold be those for which a separate account has been opened, or the remaining portion of the estate for which no separate account has been opened, the purchaser shall acquire the share or shares subject to all incumbrances, and shall not acquire any rights which were not possessed by the previous owner or owners.

Recovery of arrears due to defaulters.

72. Arrears of rent which on the latest day of payment may be due to the defaulter from all persons liable to pay the same, shall, in the event of a sale, be recoverable by him after the said latest day, by any process except distraint which might have been used by him for that purpose on or before the said latest day.

PART VI.

Protection of Tenures.

73. The following rules for the registration of tenures and of farms for terms of years shall be observed:—

there shall be two sets of registers—one for common registry and one for special registry:

common registry shall secure tenures and farms against any auction-purchaser at a sale for arrears of revenue except the Government:

special registry shall secure tenures and farms against any auction-purchaser at a sale for arrears of revenue including the Government.

Application for registry

74. (1) The holder of any tenure desirous of registering it shall apply by petition to the Collector of the district to which the estate belongs.

(2) The application shall state which description of registry is desired, and shall contain the following particulars so far as the same are ascertainable:—

(b) the nature of the tenure and the name and revenue roll-number of the mahal in which it is situated;

(c) the name or names of the village or villages whereof the land is composed or wherein it is situated;

(d) the area of the land comprised in the tenure, with its boundaries in complete detail;

(e) the amount of rent payable annually for the tenure, and whether the rent is fixed for a term of years or in perpetuity, and the duties, if any, required to be performed on account of it;

(g) the name of the proprietor who created the tenure;

(h) the name of the original holder of the tenure;

(i) the name of the present possessor, and, if he be not the original holder, the mode in which he succeeded to the tenure, whether by inheritance, gift, purchase, or otherwise, and whether he holds jointly or solely.

(4) Holders of such farms as are described in section seventy-three may apply in like manner for registry of the same. The application shall contain such of the foregoing particulars as are applicable to farms

Procedure on application for common registry

75. (1) When the application is for common registry, the Collector shall serve a notice on the recorded proprietor or proprietors of the estate in which the tenure or farm is situated, or the authorized agent of such proprietor or proprietors, with a copy of the application annexed; and shall cause a notice, with a copy of the application annexed, to be affixed in his office, and at the mal cutcherry of the estate in which the tenure or farm is situated, or in such other place or places as in the opinion of the Collector may be best suited to give publicity to the application, requiring the proprietor or any person interested, within thirty days from the issue of the said notice, to file any objections he may have to the registry of the tenure or farm, or to any statement contained in the application.

(2) If within the limited time no objection is made, the Collector shall consider the deeds of other evidence produced by the applicant and if he shall, on summary enquiry or on consideration of such evidence as he may cause to be adduced, be satisfied of their genuineness and sufficiency, he shall register the tenure or farm.

(3) If within the limited time an objection is made by any recorded proprietor, or by any person interested, not being a proprietor, the Collector shall examine the person so objecting or his authorized agent, and if it shall appear to him that such person has probable ground of objection, or if the deeds or other proofs produced by the applicant shall not appear genuine and sufficient, the Collector shall suspend proceedings, and shall refer the parties to the Civil Court; otherwise he shall grant the application.

(4) If the decision of the Civil Court be in favour of the applicant, the Collector, on the presentation of a copy of the final decree, shall register the tenure or farm.

Procedure on application for special registry.

76. (1) When the application is for special registry, the Collector shall serve and issue the notices prescribed in the last preceding section.

(2) If within the limited time no objection is made, the Collector shall cause any enquiry that he may deem necessary for the security of the Government revenue to be made; and if he is satisfied that the Government revenue of the parent estate is sufficiently secured so far as it may be affected by the tenure or farm in question, he shall report the case to the Commissioner, who, if also satisfied on that point, shall direct the tenure or farm to be registered according to the application; otherwise the application shall be rejected.

(3) If within the limited time an objection is made by any recorded proprietor, or by any person interested, not being a proprietor, the Collector shall examine the person so objecting or his authorized agent, and if it shall appear to him that such person has probable grounds of objection, or if the deeds or other proofs produced by the applicant shall not appear genuine and sufficient, the Collector shall suspend proceedings and shall refer the parties to the Civil Court; otherwise he shall proceed as if no objection had been made.

(4) If the decision of the Civil Court be in favour of the applicant, the Collector, on the presentation of a copy of the final decree, shall proceed as above provided for cases in which no objection is made within the limited time.

(3) If within the limited time no objection is made by any recorded proprietor or by any person interested, not being a proprietor, the Collector shall make such enquiries as may be necessary to satisfy himself as to the validity of the tenure, and, if so satisfied, he shall report the case to the Commissioner, who shall act according to the provisions of section seventy-six, and the provisions of the said section shall be applicable to cases in which objections shall be made:

Provided always that nothing contained in this section shall be understood as rendering registration necessary for the protection of tenures of the description herein referred to.

Registration of rent-free tenures in estates under partition.

On receiving from the Deputy Collector appointed under Bengal Act VIII of 1876 a notice in accordance with section ninety-six of that Act, to the effect that a rent-free tenure has been created in an estate under partition, the Collector shall, under section seventy-six, report the case to the Commissioner who, if satisfied that the revenue of the parent estate is sufficiently secured, shall direct the tenure to be specially registered.

80. The actual expenses of any measurement, survey or local enquiry made under sections seventy-six and seventy-eight shall be borne by the person who applies for the registry of his tenure or farm, and may be realized under the provisions of the Public Demands Recovery Act, 1880; and such person may be required by the Collector from time to time to make such payments on this account as he may consider necessary.

Effect of entry in the special register.

81. (1) Entry in the special register shall be an effectual protection of the tenure or farm so registered, unless in a suit instituted by Government in a Civil Court within the period allowed for suits for the recovery of the public revenue a decree be passed pronouncing the registration to have been obtained by fraud, to the injury of the Government revenue:

Provided that a tenure or farm in the hands of a bonâ fide purchaser for value shall not be avoided by reason of such fraud.

(2) The tenure or farm shall be liable to such amount of rent as would have been fair and equitable at the time of the special registry thereof, such amount to be fixed by the Collector.

Protection of tenures pending enquiry in case of sale of parent estate for arrears of revenue.

82. Tenures and farms described in clause (c) of section sixty-six, for the special registration of which application shall be made within the prescribed time, and in respect of which the Collector shall have commenced the enquiry prescribed in section seventy-six, shall, in case of the sale of the parent estate for arrears of revenue, be protected pending the duration of such enquiry, and shall be protected eventually by registration, if the final award of the revenue authorities upon such application be in favour of the claimant.

Period within which applications may be made.

83. Applications for common or special registry or for registration under this Part may be made at any time on payment of the fee prescribed in the fourth schedule hereto annexed:

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

Act XI of 1859, the principal law regarding the sale of estates for arrears of revenue was mainly a reproduction of Act I of 1845, as that Act again was of Act XII of 1841. It was passed for the special purposes mentioned in its preamble. Amending Acts have been passed since 1859, viz. III (B.C.) of 1862, VII (B.C.) of 1868, II (B.C.) of 1871, and I (B.C.) of 1875, and Act VII (B.C.) of 1880 gave additional powers for recovering Government dues.

2. By Act III (B.C.) of 1862 the scale of fees prescribed for opening separate accounts and for common and special registry was reduced; the period allowed for registration of tenures created before the passing of that Act was extended to three years, and a period of three months from the date of the document creating them was fixed for the registration of tenures created after the passing of that Act.

By Act VII (B.C.) of 1868 definitions of certain principal terms were supplied, omissions were supplemented, and doubts cleared up. The law regarding appeals was modified, and the periods for which notices of sales were allowed, and at which sales should become final, were extended. It contained new provisions regarding the service of notices, and aimed at giving finality to sales and security to purchasers. It placed tenures paying direct to Government on the same footing as regards sales, and gave the purchaser, mutatis mutandis, the same privileges as in the case of permanently-settled estates. It contained also some minor provisions. It created a new method of procedure called the Certificate Procedure for the recovery of various dues and demands of Government. This part of the law has been repealed and dealt with separately in Act VII (B.C.) of 1880.

By Act II (B.C.) of 1871 certain errors in section 11 of Act VII (B.C.) of 1868 were corrected.

By Act I (B.C.) of 1875 provision was made for the realization of arrears in Government estates. This Act was repealed by Act VII (B.C.) of 1880, the Public Demands Recovery Act, which was, so far as consistent with its tenor, to be construed as one with Act XI of 1859.

3. Certain other Acts have also been passed, parts of which have affected the Revenue Sale Law.

By sections 69—74 of Act VII (B.C.) of 1876 (the Land Registration Act) material additions were made to the Sale Law with regard to the opening of separate accounts in respect of shares and the procedure to be followed in opening and closing such accounts.

By section 96 of Act VIII (B.C.) of 1876 (the Partition Act) power was given to a Collector to register specially, according to section 42 of Act XI of 1859, a rent-free tenure created under the former Act.

The Court of Wards Act, IX (B.C.) of 1879, as amended by Act III (B.C.) of 1881, repealed the greater portion of section 17 of Act XI of 1889, and substituted some changes in respect to the exemption from sale of estates under the management of the Court and estates the property of minors.

4. Besides these amending Acts and sections of other Acts, there have been some decisions of the High Court on portions of the Sale Law; and various circulars have been issued by Executive authority on points where explanation of the law and guidance have been required.

5. Instances of inconvenience and difficulty caused by certain provisions of the Sunset Law, as Act XI of 1859 has commonly been called, have accumulated for some years past. Chiefly in consequence of these, the question of amending the Revenue Sale Law, as contained in Act XI of 1859, its amending Acts and other Regulations and Acts, has been under consideration with the Board of Revenue, and more recently with the High Court. The amendments suggested at various times were brought together in 1889, and with the consent of the Government of India, Mr. John Beames, C.S., was placed on special duty for the purpose of preparing a Bill for legislation. The Bill prepared by him was published for information; reports upon it were received and considered; further correspondence has taken place; and a revised Bill has been framed on the results of the prolonged discussion It is now proposed to repeal all the existing laws and to pass an amending and consolidating Act, embodying such changes as are thought necessary. The object of the proposed legislation is not only to put the law in a more convenient form, but also to introduce such substantial improvements as it seems possible to effect for the convenience of the different classes concerned without impairing the efficiency of the system. It is not proposed to increase the land revenue: it is intended to maintain its safety

6. The sections of the Bill have been arranged in their natural order so as to correspond with the actual course of events succeeding the occurrence of an arrear of revenue; the Acts and sections of Acts which amended or supplemented the principal Act XI of 1859 have been incorporated in the Bill; the changes now contemplated for the purpose of giving effect to the orders of Government passed on references from the Board, rulings of the High Court, and the suggestions of experienced officers and others who have been consulted, have been introduced in their proper places. The most important of these changes are mentioned in the succeeding paragraphs. The Bill has been divided into Parts.

Part I.—Preliminary.

7. Definitions of the terms "Board," "Commissioner," "incumbrance," "official year," "recorded proprietor," "section," "independent tenure" have been introduced. Some of the definitions in Act VII (B.C.) of 1868 have been slightly altered or expanded: they have all been arranged in alphabetical order in section 3 of the Bill.

Part II.—Proceedings before sale.

8. By section 6 the sanction of the Local Government will be required for the determination of the latest days of payment of arrears of revenue. Hitherto the Board of Revenue have had the power to fix these dates, but in practice the orders of Government have always been taken.

9. Hitherto also by section 5 of Act XI of 1859, special notifications (to be issued not less than 15 days before the latest days of payment) were required before sales could take place on account of arrears of four descriptions. By section 8 of the Bill such notifications will now be required only in the case of arrears of certain estates, viz those (1) under attachment by order of any judicial authority, (2) managed by the Collector according to order of any judicial authority Recovery of the arrears of other descriptions now omitted from this section is effected by the Certificate Procedure under the Public Demands Recovery Act.

10. It has been provided by sections 10-12 of the Bill that, where notifications of sales are issued, notices of the date of the sale shall be served at the same time with certain details locally on the recorded proprietors; that the chaukidar and a member of the chaukidari panchayat of the village shall co-operate with the serving officer and certify to the service of the notice; that any person interested in an estate in any capacity may register his name and address in the Collectorate, and thereby become entitled to receive notice of the date of sale by registered letter. No sale is to be vitiated by non-receipt of the letter, if it be proved that it has been duly registered and posted. The object of these provisions is to meet as far as possible the wishes of the zamindars and the High Court that recorded proprietors should really receive notice of the date of sale before their estates are sold. Sections 11 and 14 will afford considerable protection to registered tenure-holders.

11. By section 18 of Act XI of 1859, a Collector is authorised to use his discretion, at any time before the sale of an estate shall have commenced, to exempt such estate from sale, but the section contains no instructions for the guidance of Collectors in the exercise of their discretion The orders of the Board and Government issued from time to time have inculcated leniency, but the discretion allowed has necessarily been exercised without uniformity; so that landed proprietors have been left in uncertainty and Collectors exposed to an embarrassing responsibility and the risk of errors and reprimands. It is considered desirable to leave no discretionary power to Collectors, and to fix exactly by law the rights of Government and of the proprietors who desire to save their estates from sale. It has accordingly been provided by sections 14 and 15 of the Bill that arrears are to be received by a Collector after the latest days of payment (fixed under section 6 of the Bill) up to the day preceding the day fixed for the sale, on payment by the defaulting recorded proprietor of all Government dues, interest on the arrear of revenue, and a penalty graduated according to the delay in payment (between the latest day of payment and the day before the sale day) up to one-fifth of the arrears, with certain provisos limiting the penalty in the cases of very large and very small estates. Default will not, as at present, be liable to be followed invariably by the extreme measure of sale, but will involve in the first instance only some additional expense. In allowing the right of payment later than the fixed latest days of payment, it becomes necessary to charge interest on the arrear. This entails the repeal of the surviving section of Act XII of 1841, which prohibited the demand of interest or penalty upon any arrear of land revenue. The Collector is to have no power to receive any payment on the sale day.

Part III.—Protection and exemption from sale.

12. It has been provided in section 17 of the Bill that when a recorded proprietor, in order to save an estate from sale owing to default of his co-sharers, pays revenue and other sums in excess of the amount proportionate to his recorded interest, he may move the Collector to recover the excess payment from his co-sharers by the Certificate Procedure. This section has been adapted from section 49 of Act IX (B.C.) of 1880, the Cess Act, and admitted at the instance of the Eastern Bengal Landholders' Association.

13. In section 22 of the Bill, section 70 of Act VII (B.C.) of 1876, the Land Registration Act, has been introduced, providing for the case of a proprietor of an undivided interest held in common tenancy in any specific portion of an estate who wishes to open a separate account for the payment of his land revenue. The object is to bring together in one Act all the law about separate accounts. It has also been provided in section 25, on the analogy of section 11 of the Partition Act (VIII (B.C.) of 1876) that no separate account is to be opened in respect of an incorrect share, or of any share (or whereby any residuary share would be formed) bearing revenue less than Rs. 10 Much practical inconvenience has been found to arise from opening separate accounts for extremely small shares.

14 Other sections, viz, 27 and 28, have been adopted from the Land Registration Act to provide for the closing of a separate account which no longer corresponds with the character and extent of interest held by the proprietor and for re-opening it correctly. Power is also now taken by section 29 to enable a Collector to close suo motu a separate account, of the incorrectness of which he becomes aware. It has been found by experience to be desirable that the Collector should possess such a power.

15 With a view to make Part III of the Bill complete, the sections of the Court of Wards' Acts which refer (1) to the exemption of estates from sale for arrears accruing (b) to the recovery of arrears which have accrued, during the management of the estate by the Court of Wards, and other cognate sections of those Acts, have been incorporated as Chapter III. It is considered that this portion of the law belongs more strictly to an Act concerning sales than to one concerning Wards, as the action which it prescribes is taken by the Collector in the Revenue Sale Department of his office and not in the Wards' Department.

Part IV.—Sales.

16. The Collector is to be the only officer authorized by section 41 to hold sales for arrears of revenue. This is now the ordinary practice.

17. Section 43 provides that, before a sale for arrears is held, all the notifications and returns of notices required by law to be issued are to be laid before the Collector (or a Deputy Collector specially empowered in this behalf), who is to satisfy himself that they have been duly issued, and to record an attestation proceeding to that effect, and, if dissatisfied, to postpone the sale and issue fresh notifications and notices By section 59 a certified copy of this attestation proceeding is to be given to the auction-purchaser with the certificate of title, and this certificate and attestation proceeding are to be conclusive evidence that all notices and notifications have been duly carried out.

The object of these provisions is to protect a sale from being upset on the grounds of any omission, informality or irregularity as regards the serving or posting of any notification or notice. In the case of Lala Mobarak Lal vs. Secretary of State, XI I. L. R, Cal., p. 200, it was held that, in a case where a sale had been held less than 30 days from the date of affixing the notice prescribed by section 6 of Act XI of 1859, such sale might be set aside, notwithstanding the limitations laid down by section 33 of that Act. The irregularity, it was held, was not of such a nature as could be cured by section 8 of Act VII (B C.) of 1868 (which provided that a purchaser's title is not to be impeached or affected by any omission, informality or irregularity as regards the serving or posting of any notice connected with the sale), and that the sale was in consequence not a sale under Act XI at all, so that there was no power under Act XI of 1859 or its subsidiary Acts to prevent such a sale from being set aside. It is intended by these provisions to make secure the titles of auction-purchasers. It is believed that in most cases of the kind the errors are caused by mistake and oversight on the part of the subordinate ministerial officers entrusted with the issue of such notices. It is expected that the personal inspection required by the attestation proceeding will ensure the careful observance of the law regarding notices and notifications.

18. It is provided by section 49 that an application may be made by any person interested in an estate and injuriously affected by its sale to the Collector to annul a sale on the ground of material irregularity in the service of any of the notifications or notices, and of substantial injury caused thereby. Hitherto there has been no legal right of moving a Collector to set aside a sale.

By section 50 an appeal against a Collector's refusal to annul a sale may be made to the Commissioner, who may annul it on the ground of substantial injury only. The Commissioner's order on such appeal will be final, as it now is under section 25 of Act XI of 1859; but the right of representation to the Board on the ground of hardship or injustice caused by the sale is maintained by section 52. This right must be exercised within 30 days of the sale.

19. A recorded proprietor of an estate sold for arrears is, at the suggestion of the High Court, to be given the right by section 54 to redeem his estate within a given time by applying to the Collector and depositing all Government dues, and a higher penalty than that required by section 15 to entitle him before sale to exemption from sale. The principle involved in this section has quite recently been approved in the Supreme Legislative Council by the passing into law of Act V of 1894, "to amend the Code of Civil Procedure," by which a judgment-debtor is enabled to redeem his property after sale, on payment of a penalty to compensate the purchaser. This right of redemption and a high standard of efficiency in the service of notices are the two conditions precedent which the High Court consider necessary before the right of contesting land revenue sales in the Civil Courts can be barred.

20. The object of section 55 is to debar the Civil Courts, as suggested by the High Court, from entertaining a suit to annul a sale for arrears of land revenue. It is thought undesirable that persons entitled to appeal against sales should be able to have recourse to two costly series of litigation—one before the Revenue authorities, the other in the Civil Courts. This section is framed to carry out in comprehensive terms the High Court's suggestion that in cases of claims for arrears of land revenue all recourse to the Civil Courts should be barred, if certain precautions are taken.

21. By section 57 of the Bill an auction-purchaser is required to apply to the Collector and to pay the stamp duty required by law before he is entitled to receive a certificate of title: he is also required to register his certificate to secure his title. After the certificate has been granted, the transfer will be notified by the Collector, and possession is to be given. The procedure under section 58 has been assimilated to that of the Civil Procedure Code, sections 316, 318 and 319, for giving possession of immoveable property in execution of a decree. The objects of those sections are to secure the payment of the stamp duty under Article 16, Schedule 1 of the Stamp Act (I of 1879) which has been constantly evaded by purchasers neglecting to take out certificates of title, and to clear up doubts which have arisen regarding the mode of delivery of possession. It is intended to indicate that the Collector is not to be required to give possession by metes and bounds, i.e., by the ascertainment of the actual boundaries of an estate and placing purchasers in actual possession, as it has sometimes been considered, but wrongly, to be his duty to do.

22. The Collector is empowered under section 61, when application for the residue of the purchase-money (sometimes called also the surplus sale proceeds) is made by any one who is not a recorded proprietor, to fix a day and summon objectors and refer them to the Civil Court. It has been considered that a Collector should not be concerned with such disputes, as he is not interested in them and they are of a civil nature.

23. Power is taken for Government by section 64, when purchasing at a sale (in the absence of other bids or of bids sufficiently high to cover the arrear) to realise under the Certificate Procedure all arrears still outstanding from the defaulting proprietor and not recovered by the sum paid for the estate. The object of this section is to prevent defaulting proprietors, who may have recourse to the provisions of the law with a view not only to get rid of their estates and possibly to annoy other shareholders, from escaping from the payment of arrears of revenue.

Part V.—Rights and liabilities of purchasers.

24. To remove doubts it has been provided by section 65 that an auction-purchaser is to be answerable for all instalments of revenue, and to be entitled to collect rents which may fall due after the latest day of payment of the arrears of revenue on account of which the estate was sold.

The present law (section 30 of Act XI of 1859) contains the word "certified," which has caused inconvenience, as certificates have sometimes not been taken out at all. It is considered advisable to make the purchaser's liability for the Government revenue date from the time when he is declared to be the purchaser, and not to leave it dependent upon his taking out the certificate. It also supplies an omission, as hitherto there has been only provision (section 55 of Act XI of 1859, reproduced in section 72 of the Bill) for defaulting proprietors recovering arrears of rent due up to the latest day of payment, but there has been no provision for auction-purchasers collecting rents due after the latest day of payment.

Part VI.—Protection of tenures.

25. The provisions of sections 38 to 45, Act XI of 1859 for common and special registry of talukdari and other similar tenures, created since the time of settlement and held immediately by the proprietors of estates, and of farms for terms of years, are to be extended by sections 73—83 to tenures of all descriptions, without limitation of the period within which application for their registry may be made, and at a reduced fee of Rs. 2 in each case. It is made a condition that, where the tenures have been created by deeds, such deeds shall have been duly registered, and where not created by deeds, or where the deeds have been lost, proof must be given that the tenure has been in existence for 12 years.

It has long been felt that adequate protection against annulment by a purchaser at a sale for arrears of revenue was not secured to tenures by the sale laws, and various expedients have from time to time been suggested and tried. Before 1859 a system of double sales was in force, whereby an estate might be put up to sale in the first instance subject to all incumbrances whenever necessary; in the event of such sale not producing a sufficient amount to cover the arrear, it was not to be confirmed, but a second sale with power to annul incumbrances was to take place. The revival of this system of double sales was proposed, but dropped as open to various objections: inter alia it would be opposed by the zamindars as tending to a general reduction of the value of zamindari property. If, then, on the one hand, estates are to be made over to purchasers free of all incumbrances of doubtful validity, and on the other hand adequate protection is to be secured to bond-fide tenants of all classes, so that their interests may not be jeopardized through no fault of their own, the only resource seems to lie in an extension of the principle of registry. In section 79 a section has been adopted from section 96 of Act VIII (B.C.) of 1876 (the Partition Act) to provide for the special registration of a rent-free tenure created in an estate under partition.

Part VII.—Miscellaneous provisions.

26. By section 86 a Collector is to be empowered to refer certain cases arising from sections specified to his subordinates for hearing and determination, subject to rights of appeal, and by section 87 the necessary power has been conferred on certain Revenue officers to take evidence in such cases.

27. Several Schedules are appended to the Bill. In the first the laws and sections to be repealed are indicated; in the fourth a revised table of fees is prescribed.

To

THE COLLECTOR OF THE DISTRICT OF

The humble petition of (name of petitioner) of (address).

SHEWETH—

That a certificate No. for the sum of Rs. has been filed against your petitioner in your office under the provisions of section of Act of 1880 passed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in Council.

That your petitioner respectfully denies his liability to pay the said sum of Rs. (or, where the liability to pay part is admitted, denies his liability to pay more than Rs.), and this for the following reasons :—

That the facts above stated are true to the best of your petitioner's knowledge and belief.

Your petitioner therefore respectfully prays that the said certificate may be set aside (or modified or varied).

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

ACT VII (B.C.) of 1880 (the Public Demands Recovery Act) was intended to be read as one with Act XI of 1859, the main law for the sale of estates for arrears of revenue. Its section 2 prescribed that "this Act, so far as is consistent with the tenor thereof, shall be construed as one with Act XI of 1859, passed by the Governor-General in Council, and Act VII of 1868, passed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in Council." This arrangement, though in accordance with the state of the law since 1868, has been found to give rise to serious practical inconvenience. Before 1868, sums due to Government by individuals could only be realized in the same manner as an arrear of land revenue, that is, by the sale of the defaulter's estate or by the still more tedious and expensive process of a civil suit. When a more summary procedure for the realization of such dues was introduced in 1868, it was treated as supplementary to the old procedure, and the two systems continued, and still to a certain extent continue, to be mixed up together. But now that the Certificate Procedure has been in force for upwards of twenty years and is well known, it has become possible, and will, it is considered, be extremely advantageous, to separate the two processes which have in fact nothing in common and have probably been kept in a state of relation to one another more from the influence of association than for any more valid reason. This Bill is intended to amend and consolidate the Public Demands Recovery Acts, viz., Act VII (B.C.) of 1880 and Act I (B.C.) of 1891, which contain what is commonly called the Certificate Procedure. Separate legislation is in contemplation for the consolidation of the Revenue Sale Law. The two processes, that by which the land revenue due from the proprietors of estates is realized, and that by which a great number of minor demands,—fees, fines, duties, taxes, costs and the like—are recovered from the public in general, will henceforth stand apart from and independent of each other, each having its own Act and its own procedure.

2. In addition to this reason for amending Act VII (B.C.) of 1880, complications have been caused by the wording of certain sections and by omissions to provide for certain contingencies. For instance, the vagueness of the definition of "Collector" in section 4 of the Act gave rise to great difficulty. Though "Collector" was defined no definition was given of Collector of the district." It was at first held that the power of issuing certificates under section 7 of the Act could be exercised by the District Officer only. This resulted in that officer being overburdened with routine work. In 1882 a legal opinion was given to the effect that any officer specially appointed under section 4 was a Collector of the district, and could issue certificates under section 7. This opinion had the effect of placing in the hands of subordinate officers greater powers than had been intended, so as in fact to render them in some respects independent of the District Officer. Act I (B.C.) of 1891 was passed to admit of certificates under section 7 of the Act being issued by officers who were specially appointed Collectors under the Act, and not only by Collectors of districts. This Act will now be repealed, its purport being included in the Bill.

Also a decision of the High Court has put upon a section of the Act an interpretation which it was undoubtedly not intended to bear, and which seriously affects the successful working of the law.

3. In 1889 Mr. John Beames, C.S., was placed on special duty for the purpose of preparing a Bill to amend Act VII (B.C.) of 1880, at the same time that he was preparing a Bill to amend and consolidate the Revenue Sale Law. The Bill framed by him to amend Act VII (B.C.) of 1880 was published and circulated for opinion. Reports on it were received from the High Court and the Board of Revenue, with whom further correspondence has taken place. The Bill as now framed embodies the views of Government as formed upon this discussion.

4. The intention of the law has been that while power to transact the ordinary routine business of the Certificate Procedure should be conferred on Deputy Collectors and other similar officers, the general direction, control and supervision of this as of all other revenue departments should rest solely with the Collector of the district. The peculiar arrangement of section 4 of the Act renders it very difficult to make such alterations as will establish a clear distinction between the supervising and controlling "Collector of the district" and the "Collector," a subordinate officer empowered to perform judicial and executive functions, but not vested with the authority of the District Officer, while the latter still retains power to perform all the functions of Collector under the Act, whenever for any reason he may consider it right to do so. The problem is meant to be solved by the insertion in section 4 of the Bill of a new definition, viz. of "Collector of the district," and by making it clear throughout the Act in which cases the Collector of the district is the only officer empowered to act, and in what cases officers specially appointed Collectors may take action. By section 4 (1) of the Bill and section 31 it is provided that specially appointed Collectors are not to exercise appellate powers unless expressly authorized to do so by Government, and then they are still to be subject in the exercise of their functions to the control of the Collector of the district. Provision is made also for the powers of a Collector in charge of a subdivision. The changes introduced by the Bill should remove the uncertainty felt as to the intention of the law, and admit of the employment of subordinate officers on ordinary work, while the powers of control of the District Officer will be preserved.

5. In section 7 of the Bill the list of Acts and sections to which the Certificate Procedure is applicable has been brought up to date by the insertion of the Acts passed since 1880. In the same section provision is made for the levy of interest allowed by any law on arrears of revenue or rent due to Government. This is in accordance with the principle of the proposed legislation in the case of the Sale Law. There is no reason why a judgment debtor should gain the interest, or the State lose it, on outstanding dues. Similarly, also, as to section 21, the sums entered in certificates are such as in many cases legally bear interest, and it is deemed equitable that this interest, as in the case of a Civil Court decree, together with the costs of execution, should be leviable at a specified rate, together with the principal sum.

The proviso at the end of clause (f) of section 7 of the Bill has been remodelled to bring it into accordance with the provisions of the Bengal Tenancy Act, which has rendered the law on the subject of enhancement more definite than it was in 1880.

A proviso has been inserted to prevent a certificate being made in case of any demand involving a question of right or title. The object of this is to limit as much as possible the use of the Certificate Procedure to the case of demands which can be ascertained simply by an examination of the public records under the control of the Collector.

6. By section 8 (2) of the Bill it is intended to give effect to the proposed application of the Certificate Procedure to the case of joint-proprietors of an estate, who, to save the estate from sale, may have paid up the whole amount in arrear. A provision allowing such persons to apply to the Collector to recover the excess payments from their co-sharers by certificate has been inserted in the Revenue Sale Law Bill, and this clause, adopted from the Cess Act, is necessary to complete the procedure.

7. In section 9 (3) of the Bill the opportunity has been taken to carry out a suggestion which was first proposed so long ago as 1881. Words have been inserted to facilitate the recovery from a defaulter of the cost of the court-fees required to be paid by a Manager under clause (2) of this section.

8. By the proviso to section 12 of the Bill the Collector is to be empowered to order that no petition of objection to a certificate shall be entertained unless at the same time the judgment-debtor deposits the full amount of the sum entered in the certificate. This is proposed for the Revenue Courts on the analogy of the procedure proposed by the High Court, to the effect that the amount claimed should be deposited in Court as a condition precedent to further action in order to dispute the claim. This proviso makes the deposit demandable not obligatory.

9. In the proviso to section 13 of the Bill power is given to the Collector to refer the petitioner to a Civil Court if the petition of objection discloses a case which could, in his opinion, be more suitably tried by such Court. This has been suggested by the Board of Revenue, and is an idea taken from section 55 of Act VII (B.C.) of 1876 (the Land Registration Act).

10. In section 16 of the Bill a considerable change has been effected in section 8(h) of Act VII (B.C.) of 1880 by eliminating the grounds (2) and (4), viz., error, defect or irregularity in the proceedings and want of jurisdiction, on which a certificate may be cancelled by a Civil Court. The grounds for cancelment will now be only two, viz., that the amount had been paid before the certificate was made, and that no part of the amount stated in the certificate was due. This is the result of the correspondence with the High Court and the Board of Revenue. The former consider the present procedure for questioning the validity or correctness of a certificate to be extremely defective, as it involves two series of litigation—one before the Revenue authorities, the other before the Civil Courts. They proposed to leave the present procedure alone up to the service of the certificate. But the execution of the certificate they would leave to the Civil Court, allowing the judgment-debtor the choice of paying the amount or depositing the claim in Court so as to gain the right to resist execution. They wrote—"If the intervention of the Civil Court be thus made before, and not after, the certificate is enforced, there would seem to the Judges to be no reason for setting aside the certificate on the ground of any irregularity; for, if any irregularity has occurred of such a kind as to place the judgment-debtor at a disadvantage, the remedy would naturally be to delay the execution for a reasonable time. Nor would the Judges allow any objection to be taken on the ground of jurisdiction. They do not see why a debtor to the Crown should be permitted to raise questions, often very difficult to solve, as to the boundaries between administrative districts, and they would therefore limit his right strictly to disputing his indebtedness. If this system were adopted, no subsequent suit should be allowed to lie for the purpose of questioning the certificate or invalidating the sale thereunder by reason of one or the other not being warranted by the Act." It has been thought advisable to retain by section 23 the execution of certificates in the hands of the Collector, thus leaving the work to the authority most concerned in its proper performance, it being provided that the procedure in the Revenue Courts is to be as careful and accurate as in a Civil Court, the Code of Civil Procedure being equally followed in both. The section as drafted will maintain the right of objecting in the Revenue Court on technical grounds of irregularity, non-service of processes, and on the substantial ground of non-indebtedness; the reference to the Civil Court being only on the ground of non-indebtedness.

11. The Bill provides in section 18 for appeals, the present system of appeal to a Collector and then to a Commissioner being generally maintained. But the distinction between "Collector of a district" and "Collector" has been brought out, and it has been provided that (1) the appeals from his subordinates which will be ordinarily to the District Collector, may, with permission, be transferred for hearing to any subordinate Collector, and (2) that appeals from any "Collector," e.g., a Subdivisional Officer, may, with permission, be made to the District Collector instead of to the distant Commissioner. Some slight changes have been made in the power of revision in section 19.

12. The object of section 20 of the Bill is to give to the judgment-debtor whose property has been sold under the Certificate Procedure a right of redemption, on payment of the demand with penalty and interest, analogous to that which is given to judgment-debtors under section 174 of the Tenancy Act. It corresponds with section 53 of the Bill to amend the Revenue Sale Law. This provision has been adopted on the suggestion of the High Court. Cases occur in which properties are sold very much under their real value; and, although the judgment-debtor himself may be to blame for negligence, it is considered too severe a penalty to force a man, for neglect to pay a trifling sum, to have his estate sold for a portion of its value without opportunity of recovery. The judgment-debtor will be required to pay a heavy penalty (a portion of which should be paid to the purchaser as compensation) and a high rate of interest on the purchase-money: the time to be allowed for redemption will be short.

The principle involved in this section has quite recently been approved in the Supreme Legislative Council by the passing into Law of Act V of 1894, to amend the Code of Civil Procedure, by which a judgment-debtor is enabled to redeem his property after sale on payment of a penalty to compensate the purchaser.

13. In the latter half of section 21 of the Bill it has been thought worthwhile to reproduce the limitation regarding the recovery of an arrear of rent laid down in Schedule III, Part I, 2 (b), column 3 of Act VIII of 1885, and at the same time to declare that in respect of other application the ordinary law of limitation shall hold good.

14. In section 22 of the Bill all the sections of the Civil Procedure Code which are to apply to every execution issued to enforce a certificate have been stated distinctly, both by numbers and descriptions. Some of these sections are thus for the first time rendered applicable. The object of this change is to counteract the effect of the judgment of the High Court in the case of Sadhusaran Singh versus Panchdeo Lal (XIV, I L. R., Calc., p. 1), which has given rise to considerable inconvenience. Section 19 of Act VII (B.C.) of 1880 declared that all the practice and procedure provided by the Code of Civil Procedure in respect of sales in execution of decrees should apply to every execution issued to enforce a certificate. In cases which came before the Board they held that section 311 et seq. of the Code of Civil Procedure (concerning applications to set aside sales) applied to cases of sale under Act VII (B.C.) of 1880: that a sale under a certificate was not a sale under Act VII (B.C.) of 1868 or Act XI of 1859, but a sale under the Code of Civil Procedure; and that, if immoveable property was sold under a certificate, the sale was not a sale of an estate or a share, but of the rights and interests of the judgment-debtor. But in 1886 the High Court decided in Sadhusaran Singh's case that only the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure up to the stage at which the auction sale is held apply to an execution issued to enforce a certificate, and that the remedy of a judgment-debtor whose property has been wrongfully sold is not under sections 311 and 312, but by appeal to the Commissioner under section 2 of Act VII (B.C.) of 1868. The Board pointed out to Revenue officers that by this ruling all the provisions of Act XI of 1859 with regard to appeals against sales of estates became applicable. A Commissioner brought to notice the inconvenience caused by this ruling which necessitated all appeals being made to the distant Commissioner instead of an application being permitted under section 311 of the Civil Procedure Code to the Certificate Deputy Collector and an appeal to the Collector under section 588 of the Civil Procedure Code. The Board at once suggested legislation to provide for a simple procedure to afford a remedy on the spot, and to prevent sales of moveable property being regulated by Acts which applied to sales of immoveable property. It has also been pointed out that what passes by a sale under Act VII (B.C.) of 1880 is the right, title and interest of a judgment-debtor, so that it is inappropriate to give possession of an estate or share by a certificate under section 28 of Act XI of 1859. The changes now made by the Bill will secure that sections 311 and 312 of the Code of Civil Procedure will (among many others) be applicable, so that instead of appeals against certificate sales being required to be made to a Commissioner, and instead of a sale certificate being issued under section 28 of Act XI of 1859, and possession given under section 29 of the same Act of something which has not been sold, appeals will be made to the Court which held the sale, and possession be given under the Code of Civil Procedure.

15. Section 23 of the Bill gives to the Board of Revenue the power now vested in the High Court of making rules under section 287 of the Code of Civil Procedure regarding sales of immoveable property, with a view to the Board's framing such rules as may be suitable to the circumstances of certificate sales. The rules of the High Court under section 287 have been found unsuitable in some respects as providing for a state of things which differs very considerably from that prevailing in certificate matters.

16. Provision is made by section 32 for the service of notices under the Code of Civil Procedure. In accordance with the system followed in other parts of the Bill the course has been adopted of declaring certain sections of that Code to be applicable to notices issued under the Bill, which is thus provided with a procedure entirely independent of any enactment relating to sales for arrears of land revenue. This helps to carrying out the plan of keeping distinct the two processes (1) for realising the land revenue, (2) the recovery of public demands.

The wreck, the topmasts of which now appear above water, will be marked by a green buoy placed one cable N.N.E. of it until it is removed or breaks up.

CHINA SEA—GULF OF SIAM, EASTERN SHORE.

Probable existence and non-existence of certain reefs.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 95 of 1894) that a reconsideration of the various reports made from time to time respecting the existence of the undermentioned reefs in the gulf of Siam has led to the conclusion that, until a closer examination has been made of the area around their reported positions, the statements concerning them cannot be said to be satisfactorily disproved:—

1. Condor reef (depth one foot), approximate position, lat. 10° 43′ 40″ N., long. 102° 53′ 20″ E.
2. Jan Peter reef (depth 2 fathoms), approximate position, lat. 10° 46′ 0″ N., long. 102° 42′ 0″ E.
3. Ellen Bangka reef (depth 11 feet), approximate position, lat. 11° 11′ 0″ N., long. 102° 47′ 0″ E.

These reefs have consequently been re-inserted on the Admiralty Charts with P. D. against each.

4. The reef previously marked on the Admiralty Charts in lat. 11° 23′ N., long. 101° 48′ E, having been originally placed from an indirect report received in 1864, and having been searched for by some of H.M. Ships unsuccessfully, as well as by other vessels, has now been expunged.

INDIAN OCEAN—Kerguelen, St. Paul, and Amsterdam islands.

Establishment of Provision depôts.

The British Admiralty has given notice (No. 79 of 1894) that depôts containing provisions and clothing, for the use of ship-wrecked seamen have been established by the vessel of-war Eure on Kerguelen, St. Paul, and Amsterdam islands:—

1. Kerguelen island. The depot is situated in the south-eastern part of Jachmann peninsula, Hillsborough bay, near the south-western shore of the eastern lake, and about half a mile northward of the coast, opposite Gazelle basin. It is in a cave at the foot of the west cliff of a rocky chasm, running north and south, and its position is indicated by a stone cairn, 11½ feet in height, and about 14 feet broad at the base, erected on the summit of the west cliff of the chasm.

This cairn, visible from Gazelle basin, is painted black, and shows clearly against the grey rocks which form the background.

The entrance to the cave has been closed by large stones, and on the cliff a few yards above it is the inscription:—

Vivres et Vêtements, Eure, Janvier 1893.

Approximate position, lat. 49° 16′ 45″ S., long. 69° 40′ 30″ E.

2,250 lbs. of preserved beef in boxes of 9 lbs.
1,125 lbs. of biscuits.
20 swan-skin shirts.
20 pairs of woollen drawers.
4 packets of matches.

The boxes of preserved beef are stowed in a pile, coated with coal tar. The biscuits are in 4-iron hooped barrels, thickly covered with coal tar. The clothes are in 2 similar barrels. The matches are in a box, similar to the beef boxes, painted with minium (red lead) and with a label of the contents on it.

In the event of the cairn being destroyed, the following directions should be followed to find the depôt. Land on the north side of the inlet opposite Gazelle basin, in a small creek, sheltered by a rocky point, where boats may go alongside under any circumstances of wind or tide. Proceed directly inland about half a mile as far as the shore of the lake, then turn to the westward and follow the lake to its western end, where the chasm in which the depôt is situated will be seen on the left hand.

2. St. Paul island.—The depôt is in a hut of rough stones with a thatched roof, situated on the northern side of the crater, near the jetty and about 50 yards from the flagstaff:—

Approximate position, lat. 38° 42′ 45″ S., long. 77° 34′ 40″ E.

1,350 lbs. of preserved beef in boxes of 9 lbs.
1,125 lbs of biscuits.
10 woollen shirts.

One soldered metal box containing 4 packets of matches.

The provisions and clothes are in 13 iron-hooped barrels, coated with tar and sand, and placed under a tarpaulin. On the door of the hut is the inscription, France, Vivres et Vêtements pour naufragés, Eure, Janvier 1893; and a similar inscription is on a board within the hut.

3. Amsterdam island.—The depôt is in a large cavern, on the side of a hill, about W. by S. ½ S. (S. 73° W.) 800 yards from Hosken Point, the north-east extreme of the island, and bears W. ½ N. (N. 86°W.), distant about 600 yards from the first flagstaff southward of that point.

At the entrance to the cavern is a board, fixed to two upright tarred posts, with the inscription, France, Vivres, Vêtements pour naufragés Eure, Janvier 1893, on it.

1,350 lbs. of preserved beef.
1,125 lbs. of biscuits.
10 woollen shirts.
10 pairs cotton drawers.
10 blankets.

One soldered metal red box, containing 4 packets of matches.

Approximate position, lat. 37° 48′ 50″ S., long. 77° 32′ 30″ E.

The landing place used by the Eure is about 400 yards southward of Hosken Point, and under the flagstaff mentioned above.

Directions for finding the depôt on Amsterdam:—Having landed, go to either of the flagstaffs, from whence a cross will be seen; from the cross follow the direction of its arms, leading past two ruins of rough stones, and then directly to the cavern, the entrance to which faces seaward. In the cavern, besides the provisions and clothing, there are cots, a cooking pot, and dry wood, left by the fishermen who sometimes live there. Cabbage and celery will be found near, and fish and lobsters (crawfish) abound near the landing place.

AGE OF ADMISSION TO CLASSES BELOW THE FOURTH IN GOVERNMENT SCHOOLS.

The Hon'ble MAHARAJA JAGADINDRA NATH ROY OF NATOR asked—

Is the Government aware that the Director of Public Instruction of Bengal has, by a circular, directed the head-masters of all Government schools not to admit boys above the age of fourteen to classes below the fourth?

Is the Government further aware that the direction above referred to does not, according to another circular issued by the same officer, apply to Muhammadan boys?

If so, will the Government direct the withdrawal of the said circulars so as to remove all restrictions as to age?

The Hon'ble MR. BUCKLAND replied:—

"The Government is aware that so long ago as the 3rd May, 1889, the Director of Public Instruction issued the following circular:—

'A question having been raised as to the desirability of introducing a rule regulating the age at which boys may be admitted to zilla and collegiate schools, it is hereby notified that no boy who has attained the age of 14 years should be admitted to any class of a Government high school below the fourth, without the special sanction of the Inspector or the Principal, as the case may be. The permission would ordinarily be given as a matter of course to boys who come with middle vernacular scholarships.'

"The Government is further aware that on the 5th June, 1891, the following circular letter was issued by the Director of Public Instruction to all Inspectors of Schools and Principals of Colleges:—

'It is no doubt well known to you that the age at which Muhammadan boys commonly join schools for general education is later than the corresponding age for Hindu boys. It was observed by the Education Commission:—"Before the young Muhammadan is allowed to turn his thoughts to secular instruction, he must commonly pass some years in going through a course of sacred learning. The Muhammadan boy, therefore, enters school later than the Hindu." In the orders communicated with my Circular No. 54, dated the 3rd May, 1889, it was notified that no boy, who had attained the age of 14 years, should be admitted to any class of a Government high school below the fourth, without the special sanction of the Inspector or the Principal, as the case might be. The foregoing considerations will show that a relaxation of the rule may often be fairly permitted in the case of Muhammadan boys, especially where there is no high school under private management in the neighbourhood.'

"The object of these circulars is to secure that boys in the same class should be approximately of the same age, as all educational authorities know that it has a bad effect to mix up clever little boys with stupid older boys in the same classes. But an exception is made in favour of Muhammadans, because they generally begin their English studies later in life, and the rigid application of the rule would have the effect of preventing many of them from receiving any education in Government schools.

"Government is satisfied that the orders were judicious, and required by considerations of discipline and morality, and that they have proved successful in working. Government has therefore no intention of directing the withdrawal of one or the other, or both, of the circulars."

NON-OFFICIAL CHAIRMEN OF DISTRICT BOARDS.

The Hon'ble MAHARAJA JAGADINDRA NATH ROY OF NATOR asked—

Will the Government consider the expediency of appointing non-official Chairmen to District Boards when competent persons are available, and make an experiment in a few advanced districts?

The Hon'ble MR. BOURDILLON replied:—

"The question which the hon'ble member has asked the Lieutenant-Governor to consider is one which was very fully and elaborately discussed when the introduction of Local Self-Government into Bengal was under consideration in the years between 1881 and 1885. In paragraph 10 of a letter dated the 8th April, 1882, the then Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, Sir A. Eden, stated his views in the following terms:—

'The Chairman of the District Board should be the Magistrate of the District. This is an indispensable condition. The District Officer is the mainspring of the administration, and it is absolutely essential that his position should be upheld in its integrity. Experiments in Local Self-Government will be very valuable as a means of educating the people in the conduct of affairs, but they must not be allowed to weaken the framework of Government. In the day of trouble Government must look to its District Officers, and not to District Boards, to uphold its authority and carry out its orders. There is no reasonable doubt, moreover, that the great mass of the people would have no confidence in any system of management from which the head of the district was excluded, or in which he held a subordinate place, and that they would attach no prestige to a Board constituted under such a system.'

"A year later the Secretary of State, in a despatch dated the 5th July, 1883, in which he recommended the establishment of District Committees in place of the Central Board which had been suggested, recorded the following opinion on the propriety of placing the District Officer at the head of such a Committee:—

'The control of Government, if exercised by the District Officer acting as President of such a Committee, would be in the hands of one who ought to be intimately acquainted with the people, their feelings and their local politics, and with the resources and requirements of the locality, and who would be able without undue interference to guide the local bodies in the path of progress and give them the best education in affairs. There are, moreover, weighty political considerations in favour of maintaining the connection of the District Officers with local business. On them more than on any other officers of the Government the efficiency of our administration in India depends, and Your Lordship is, I feel sure, as anxious as I am that no steps should be taken which should diminish their legitimate influence and personal knowledge of the affairs of the districts entrusted to their care.'

"In the views thus expressed by these experienced statesmen the Lieutenant-Governor entirely concurs. No serious complaint has reached him attacking the present system, and the experience of the past has strengthened the opinion that the Chairman of the District Board ought to be the Executive Head of the district. The Board is practically a department of the Government to which certain items of the public revenues are entrusted for the purpose of carrying out the necessary expenditure on such important objects as the repair and construction of roads and bridges, the maintenance of primary schools and dispensaries, the evolution of sanitary projects, and so on. These duties cannot safely be entrusted to untrained hands, and cannot effectually be carried out except by the official who has control over all the Government establishments in the district. Holding these views, the Lieutenant-Governor is not prepared at present to sanction any deviation from the existing policy of Government."

APPOINTMENT OF RURAL AND SPECIAL SUB-REGISTRARS.

The Hon'ble MAHARAJA JAGADINDRA NATH ROY OF NATOR asked—

Will the Government lay before the Council a comparative tabular statement showing the numbers of Hindus, Muhammadans and Christians appointed every year during the last ten years (1) as Rural Sub-Registrars, (2) as Special Sub-Registrars?

The Hon'ble Mr. COTTON replied:—

"The following statement, which answers the hon'ble member's question, has been compiled by the Inspector-General of Registration from the Bengal Civil Lists:—

CALCUTTA TRAMWAYS AGREEMENT BILL.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE applied to the President to suspend the Rules of Business.

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT having declared the Rules suspended—

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE moved that the Bill to give effect to an agreement made between the Corporation of Calcutta and the Calcutta Tramways Company, Limited, be passed. He said:—

"I desire to point out, as I have more than once pointed out, that this Bill is merely of a formal character, the object being to give effect to an agreement arrived at between the Corporation and the Company. In asking the Council to proceed to pass this Bill without referring it to a Select Committee, I am fortified by precedent in connection with similar cases. I find that on the 16th December, 1876, the Hon'ble MR. BELL, in moving that a Bill to amend the Jute Warehouse Acts of 1872 and 1875 be read in Council, applied to the President to suspend the Rules, and moved that the Bill be passed, and the Bill was passed. There was a similar precedent in the proceedings of the 9th December, 1865, and also another similar precedent in the proceedings of the 9th May, 1868. In connection with this Bill, I desire to make one observation. I venture to suggest that the concluding words 'with the assent of the Governor General' be omitted from section 1 of the Bill, and I move that they be so omitted. No measure of this Council can become law except with the assent of the Governor General, but the retention of these words may give rise to the impression that two assents are necessary, first, the assent of the Governor General to the measure itself, and, secondly, His Excellency's assent to the publication of the Act in the Calcutta Gazette. There may be some objection if this double assent is not given, and it is suggested that the words which I have mentioned are redundant and should be omitted."

The Hon'ble SIR CHARLES PAUL said:—"I think section 1 is in the usual form in which Bills of this sort have always been enacted, and I do not see that there is any objection to it. The section does not require a double assent. As soon as the assent of the Governor General is given, it is published with the assent of the Governor General."

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE said:—"I defer to the opinion of the learned Advocate-General, and ask leave to withdraw the amendment."

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said:—"Before putting the motion to the vote that the Bill be passed, I have to propose a small verbal alteration to which my attention has just been drawn, namely, that the Bill is spoken of as an Act of the year 1893, whereas it is being passed in 1894. I move that the figures '1894' be substituted for '1893' in section 1 of the Bill."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Motion that the Bill, as amended, be passed, was also put and agreed to.

BENGAL MUNICIPAL ACT, III OF 1884, AMENDMENT BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. BOURDILLON moved that the final Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend Bengal Act III of 1884 be taken into consideration in order to the settlement of the clauses of the Bill.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. BOURDILLON also moved that the clauses of the Bill, as amended by the enlarged Select Committee, be considered for settlement in the form recommended by the Select Committee.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. GHOSE moved that in line 6 of the second proviso of section 4 of the Bill, for the words "of its own motion" the words "on the recommendation of the Commissioners at a meeting, or on an application by a majority of the registered rate-payers" be substituted. He said:—

"As this is the first amendment on the list, I may perhaps be permitted, before entering into the region of controversy and debate, to take this opportunity of thanking the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill for the unvarying courtesy, the spirit of conciliation, and the desire to meet us half way which characterised the hon'ble member throughout our protracted discussions in Committee. I may also venture to say on behalf of those who represented the popular element in the Select Committee that we also honestly endeavoured to approach the discussion of the many controversial matters involved in the Bill, not in any spirit of factious opposition or of obstructive criticism, but in that same spirit of conciliation and compromise without which we felt it would be impossible to arrive at any satisfactory conclusion, and it was owing to this the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill, notwithstanding the fact that this Bill bristled with contentious matters, had the satisfaction of being able to say in the Report of the Select Committee that we have been practically unanimous in most of the recommendations embodied in the Bill. Unfortunately upon certain points we felt compelled to differ from the conclusions at which the majority had arrived, and we felt it our duty to give notice of amendments in regard to such matters, but it must not be supposed that all our amendments stand exactly on the same footing, or that they are all of vital or equal importance. In regard to some—in regard to several I may say—I still entertain a fervent hope that some modus vivendi may be found; that after we have had the advantage of listening to the debates in Council, one of two things may happen—either that the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill may see his way to accept some of the amendments with or without modifications, or that we may feel justified in asking for leave to withdraw them.

"Now I come to the particular amendment before the Council, and I must begin by saying that though I consider this question of very great importance, it will not be necessary for me to do more than very briefly to indicate the course of legislation in regard to this matter. Hon'ble members are aware that under the old Act V of 1876, the Local Government had the power of interfering or taking any action it pleased in regard to such matters either upon the recommendation of the Commissioners at a meeting or of its own motion; but in 1884 when the present Act was passed, which, by the way, I may be permitted to describe as a genuine measure of local self-government, it was deliberately resolved by this Council to abandon that power on behalf of the Government. I have very carefully read the report of the debates upon that occasion, and I could not fail to be struck by the significant fact that, as regards this new departure which was then made, the Council was absolutely unanimous, and that there was not a single note of discord, although upon a cognate subject a very interesting debate arose, namely, as to whether the franchise should be extended once for all to such municipalities as may be considered fit for it, or whether the Government should reserve to itself the power of withdrawing or modifying its orders, having regard to any future change in the condition and circumstances of those municipalities. After a very interesting debate the Council divided, and by a large majority—a majority in which I noticed with satisfaction the Lieutenant-Governor of the day voted on the popular side—it was decided that the final decision of the Government ought to be come to with regard to the existing circumstances of a municipality, and that any change in view of the future ought to be left to the initiative of the Commissioners at a meeting. That being so, I have not come across any arguments which would induce me to think that a sufficient case has been made out for calling upon this enlarged Council in the year 1894 to reverse the liberal principles so deliberately adopted by the Council of 1884. Hon'ble members are aware that there is no part of the Bill now before the Council which met with more strenuous opposition from the public than those sections which sought to reserve this power to the Government. Public criticism, I am glad to say, had due weight with the Government; for on the 7th of January, 1893, you, Sir, speaking as President of this Council and as the head of the Local Government, made the following observations. You said:—

'There has been a good deal of discontent and remonstrance against the Bill, as interfering with the principles of Local Self-Government, and as being a restrictive and reactionary step, putting the municipalities in a worse position than they were originally put when the present Act was passed in Lord Ripon's time. The sections which mainly come under these remonstrances, and which interfere, or seem to interfere, with the independence of municipalities, are six in number. Under section 4, Government reserves the power to alter the boundaries of a municipality, and to separate from a municipality any areas of land which seem to be unsuitable for municipal administration. At present that power rests only with Municipal Commissioners themselves, and, therefore, taking that power out of their hands and placing it in the hands of the Government—or rather, not taking it out of their hands, but giving Government the power to act in places where the municipalities are unwilling to do so—is distinctly an interference with municipal independence.'

"Then, after considering those sections, your Honour concluded this part of your observations by saying:—

'It is the bounden duty of Government to take notice of facts like these, and therefore we came to the conclusion that these two sections of the amending Bill might be dropped, and that we might rely in future, as we have done before, on the stronger coercive sections 65 and 66, to which I have referred—sections which can be employed as a last resource, but which it is seldom necessary for the Government to make use of. I think it also right to inform you that, after we had come to this decision, a despatch was received from the Secretary of State to the Government of India bearing on the same subject. He took very much the same line as I have just mentioned, as representing the course of opinion in my own mind and considered the sections undesirable, and desired that we should withdraw them. It is right you should know this, and that the public should know it. Our course is very much facilitated by this communication, and we feel strengthened by the knowledge that the Secretary of State has come to the same conclusion as the Government had done independently.'

"If I may be permitted to say so, that was a very generous and gracious concession to public opinion made in a truly liberal spirit, and it was very gratefully appreciated by the country. My amendment goes no further than that declaration from the Chair. It was said and repeated in the Select Committee that a great many rural areas have been included in municipalities which are utterly unsuitable for municipal administration, and which do not comply with the provisions of section 10. That may be so, and I am quite willing to concede the point. If injustice has been done in this way, I am not for perpetuating that injustice; but if any hardship was caused by the creation of such municipalities that hardship must be suffered by those who have to pay unjust rates and taxes. And it is almost inconceivable to me that those who are so oppressed should be reluctant to petition the Government, praying that their municipality may be abolished, or that the particular local areas unsuited for municipal administration should be excluded from its limits. Therefore, I feel perfectly justified in moving this amendment. I am sure it will not be considered by any hon'ble member that my amendment is dictated by any want of confidence in the Government. I feel perfectly sure that the practical result will be very much the same whether my amendment is carried or whether it is lost, for I cannot believe that either the present Administration or any future Government will ever think of taking any action in this direction which is not likely to be endorsed by public opinion. But we are dealing with a question of principle, and I feel confident I shall not be misunderstood when I say that the Legislature ought not to take a retrograde step in regard to such matters by withdrawing the right of taking the initiative from the people and their representatives, and leaving the whole matter to be decided at the discretion of the Executive Government. As I have already said, I place great reliance on the declaration from the Chair to which I have alluded. I do not desire to detain hon'ble members any longer, but will ask them to accept my amendment in order to give full effect to that declaration. I ask you not to mar the graciousness of the concession by insisting upon the reservation of this power in the hands of the Government. With these few observations, I have the honour to move this amendment."

The Hon'ble MR. BOURDILLON said :—"I wish to be allowed to preface my remarks by thanking the hon'ble member for the kind terms in which he has referred to our co-operation during the deliberations of the Select Committee over the Municipal Bill, and to say that the work of the Committee was rendered much lighter, and that their proceedings moved smoothly forward owing greatly to the reasonable position assumed by those who represented the popular voice in the Committee. Nevertheless, I regret to say that it is my duty to advise the Council to turn a deaf ear to the arguments of the hon'ble member who has just spoken.

"First, with reference to the quotation which the hon'ble member made from the remarks of the President of the Council on the 7th of January, 1893, I wish to draw attention to the fact that the disavowal, so to speak, which was then made from the Chair, does not appear to me to refer to the proposal, under section 4 of the Bill as it then stood, to give power to the Government to withdraw a municipality from the operation of the Act, or to exclude any local area from a municipality. If the hon'ble member will refer to the speech of the President on that occasion, he will see that His Honour mentioned several sections of the Bill, and finally wound up by saying that it was the bounden duty of the Government to take notice of the strong opposition offered to certain of them, and therefore he came to the conclusion that 'these two sections' of the amending Bill might be dropped. The reference in my opinion was not to section 4 of the Bill, but to the sections last referred to by the President, namely section [illegible], clause (4), which gave the Government the power of placing any municipality in the second schedule, and section 25, which made the sanction of Government a condition to the election of a Vice-Chairman—a power of interference which Government never before possessed. If this view of the case is correct, I cannot admit that either the Select Committee or the President are in any way bound by a supposed disavowal which in my view was not made.

"The form which the section relating to the control of municipalities, the alteration of boundaries, and similar subjects, has assumed in the amended Bill is very different from that which it wore in the original Bill. No doubt in the Bill, as first drafted, the provisions of this section were somewhat drastic. But the general opinion of the public was opposed to giving to the Local Government the power to abolish a municipality without some limitations, and in deference to that opinion His Honour agreed to modify the original proposal. As I pointed out when presenting the Report of the Select Committee, five or six versions of this Bill have been prepared. In the first Bill which was drawn up in 1891, and was circulated confidentially among officials only, this section did not appear. It was introduced in the second Bill of the 7th January, 1892, in a simple form, for section 3 of the Bill proposed to strike out of section 9 of the Act the words 'on the recommendation of the Commissioners at a meeting,' thus restoring the section to the form it had in 1876, and enabling Government to abolish a municipality without reference to the Commissioners. That proposal was laid before the Government of India in 1892, and its principle was not disapproved by them, but they suggested that it should be carried into effect subject to the provisions of sections 194 and 195 of the Panjab Municipal Act of 1891, which provide that before the limits of any municipality are altered, a notification shall be published declaring the intentions of Government, and that ample opportunity shall be given to any inhabitant to object to the proposal. Those provisions had in fact been omitted in our Bill. Accordingly, in the third draft of the Bill, which was introduced into Council in July, 1892, the Panjab Act was followed. In the fourth draft of the Bill as provisionally amended by the Select Committee (in August, 1892), a further change was made so as to enable the Government to act either on the recommendation of the Commissioners or of its own motion. Then in the fifth draft Bill which was prepared, but not laid before the Council, the smaller Select Committee struck out the words 'of its own motion.' The question was again considered by the enlarged Select Committee, who again replaced the words 'of its own motion,' and they empowered the Government to take the initiative under certain circumstances. These circumstances are described in the second proviso to section 9 of the Act, as it will stand if section 4 of the Bill is accepted by this Council. They simply are that when a municipality no longer fulfils the conditions of section 10 of the Act as to the numbers and density of its population and the character of the pursuits followed by its inhabitants, the Lieutenant-Governor may announce his intention of withdrawing it from the operation of the Act, or of treating it under any of the other provisions of section 9. Nothing in my opinion could be more reasonable than this proposal, and when the members of this Council consider how far it falls short of the measure as first recommended, and reflect that much greater powers are exercised by the Local Government in other provinces, I feel certain that the measure will be accepted not as autocratic, retrograde and tyrannical, but as one giving to Government less power than this Council might reasonably have been asked to grant.

"The line of argument taken by my hon'ble friend, the mover of the amendment, almost gives rise to the suspicion that he believes that the Government are to take action only in the direction of abolishing a municipality. This, however, is not so: the power to adopt five different courses of action is given by this section, and it is obvious that it is not always the most drastic course which will be adopted. On the contrary, it will, I believe, very seldom happen that this power would be exercised and a municipality altogether abolished. The general feeling seems to be that even in small municipalities such work as is done is better than nothing, and I believe that this view is shared by many officers of experience, including the Chief Secretary to this Government.

"It has also been urged that Government should not assume the powers which this section grants them, because the occasions for the exercise of those powers will be very infrequent, and because, as a matter of fact, no municipalities have so fallen from their first estate as to justify Government interference. In reply, I may mention that a circular was issued in July, 1893, asking for a list of the municipalities which do not fulfil the conditions of section 10. The replies show that there are at least 15 municipalities which no longer fulfil the requirements of that section: some contain less than three thousand inhabitants, some less than one thousand to the square mile, and in some more than twenty-five per cent. of the inhabitants are chiefly employed in pursuits which are purely agricultural. It is clear therefore that Government is not proceeding on mere suspicion, but with the full knowledge that there are several existing municipalities which no longer fulfil the conditions of section 10 of Act III (B.C.) of 1884, and which on fuller enquiry it might be advisable to disenfranchise or to curtail. If the hon'ble member's amendment is carried, and the words 'of its own motion' are struck out, things will remain as they are, and the Government will be unable to carry out a reform which may sometimes be urgently required. Experience has shown, as I stated when laying on the table the Report of the Select Committee, that Municipal Commissioners will never propose their own abolition or the reduction of the area under their control, and as the law stands unless they do so nothing can be done. Let me conclude by quoting a case in point. In the Municipality of Jajpur in Cuttack a large portion of the municipality lies to the north of the river: the rate-payers of this part of the municipality have been petitioning the Government to relieve them from the burden of municipal taxation, from which they derive no advantage, but as the Commissioners do not recommend the proposal to Government, nothing can be done. If the Government is empowered, as the present Bill proposes, to take action of its own motion, I have no doubt that the reasonable wishes of the rate-payers of Jajpur, which are supported by the Collector of the district and the Commissioner of the Division, will be gratified."

The Hon'ble MR. GHOSE said:—"My amendment contains an alternative: the power might be exercised either on the recommendation of the Commissioners at a meeting, or upon receipt of a petition from a majority of the rate-payers."

The Hon'ble MR. BOURDILLON continued:—"I note the observation, but that is a point to which I was just coming before concluding my remarks. The hon'ble member has pointed out that his amendment proposes to place the motive power in the hands either of the Commissioners or of a majority of the rate-payers. As far as my experience goes, there is very little hope that the majority of the rate-payers of a municipality will ever combine to submit a petition of any kind. Moreover, if the desired reform is not the abolition of a municipality, a matter in which all the rate-payers are concerned, but the excision of certain parts of it, it would surely be too much to ask that a majority of all the rate-payers in the municipality should record their votes in favour of such a proposal, for they would certainly realise that municipal taxation would then fall the more heavily upon them. The amendment does not provide that the power may be exercised upon a petition by the majority of the rate-payers of the particular locality concerned, but briefly says 'a majority of the registered rate-payers.'

"For all these reasons, then, I must press upon the Council the necessity and propriety of passing this section of the Bill as it stands at present, and of rejecting the amendment which has found so able an advocate in the Hon'ble MR. GHOSE."

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE said:—"The speech of the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill seems to me to convey an absolute proof of the necessity for the amendment of my hon'ble friend. The hon'ble member has referred to the case of the rate-payers of Jajpur, but the amendment of the Hon'ble MR. GHOSE contemplates the separation of an outlying tract from a municipality in the event of the majority of the rate-payers of that particular tract applying to the Government for such separation. I wish to call the attention of the Council to the fact that whenever any grievance has been felt by the rate-payers in connection with municipal matters, the Secretariat has been deluged with petitions. I will speak of one such instance to my knowledge. The rate-payers of Joyrampore within the jurisdiction of the District Board of Krishnaghur petitioned the Government. They said they had a right to be created into a municipality, and they submitted a petition to be given that boon. Therefore I say that if there is any grievance which the rate-payers feel with reference to municipal matters, they are sure to make their grievance known and ask the Government to afford them relief. It is impossible not to feel that this clause of the Bill is recognised as a retrograde measure altogether. It formed the subject of discussion at a large meeting of delegates from many of the provincial towns, which was held at the Town Hall of this City in 1892, and they objected to any departure from the provisions of the present law in regard to this matter. I am sure it will be felt as a hardship by the people to be deprived of municipal institutions and of the blessings which flow from them at the bidding of the authorities. For these reasons, I hope the Council will accept the amendment of my hon'ble friend MR. GHOSE."

The Hon'ble MR. LYALL said:—"I wish to say a word or two in explanation of the position I took in the Select Committee in reference to this matter, and I desire to appeal to the common sense of the Council to reject the amendment of the hon'ble member, and I would also appeal to the common sense of the hon'ble member himself to withdraw it from the decision of the Council to-day. No proposition has been put before the Council to amend section 10, and yet we are now asked to continue municipalities which no longer come under the conditions specified in that section; in other words, as I read the amendment, it declares that though under section 10 certain conditions are necessary, yet when a municipality no longer fulfils those conditions, it shall still remain a municipality. I therefore maintain that, under those circumstances, we shall only be stultifying ourselves by amending the section in the way it is now proposed to do."

The Hon'ble MAHARAJA RAVANESHWAR PROSAD SINGH BAHADUR OF GIDHOUR said:—"I can see no objection to the second proviso of section 4 as amended by the Select Committee. The learned mover of the amendment considers that the initiative in withdrawing any municipality from the operation of the Act should not be taken by the Government. But the section does not give such powers of initiation in ordinary cases. It was only when it was found, on enquiry by the Government, that the conditions under which a municipality could be created under the provisions of section 10 of the Act did not exist, whether they existed before or not, that the power may be exercised by the Government. This was a safeguard against the case of a municipality dwindling into an insignificant hamlet, which would nevertheless be subject to all the burdens of municipal taxation. It is quite possible that, in such a case, some Municipal Commissioners would not be so disinterested and self-sacrificing as to apply to the Government to withdraw such municipality from the operation of the Act, and deprive themselves of the powers and dignities for which they had striven so hard during the election, and which were so dear to them. It is also not very likely that the rate-payers of backward places in the interior of Bihar will come forward of their own motion to petition the Government, though they might be saddled with heavy burdens of taxation. I will, therefore, give my support to the section as it stands."

The Hon'ble BABU GONESH CHUNDER CHUNDER said:—"As one of the members of the Select Committee, who opposed a similar amendment which was proposed by the Hon'ble MR. GHOSE in Committee, a few remarks from me will not be out of place. I myself cannot understand the object of this amendment. If this amendment is carried, the Local Government will not be able of its own motion to withdraw a municipality from the provisions of the Act, although the municipality does not fulfil the conditions of section 10. Now what are the conditions laid down in section 10? They are that the provisions of the Act shall not be extended to any town or village unless three-fourths of the adult male population are chiefly employed in pursuits other than agricultural, and that such town or village contains a number of inhabitants not being less than three thousand and an average number of not less than one thousand inhabitants to the square mile. In itself the power proposed to be given to the Government is not a very large power. It will be exercised and can be exercised only if any of the conditions above mentioned does not exist, and not otherwise, and I cannot conceive how the existence of this power in the hands of the Government will prevent the Commissioners of any municipality, or the rate-payers, if they consider that the municipality does not comply with the provisions of section 10, from asking the Government to exercise that power. Where is the harm? The Government cannot exercise the power unless it appear from a general census or from special enquiries that a particular municipality does not comply with the provisions of section 10, and whether you have such power reserved to the Government or to the Commissioners or the rate-payers, the result will be the same. Under any circumstances, the power will have to be exercised by the Government and by nobody else. The question is, who should take the initiative? In my opinion, if the power can only be exercised by the Government it does not matter in whom the initiative is vested. Although the law empowers the Government to act of its own motion, it must be moved by somebody, and the only persons who can do so are the Commissioners at a meeting or the rate-payers. Therefore, I do not think anything will be gained by the amendment of the section."

The Hon'ble MR. COLLIER said:—"As one of the members of the Select Committee I am entirely opposed to the amendment. The effect of the amendment, it appears to me, will be to render clause (a) of section 4 of the amended Bill entirely inoperative. We cannot expect the Commissioners of any municipality to commit suicide as a Corporation by asking for their own extinction, and the only possible way to effect the object in view is, for the Government to proceed on its own motion, after satisfying itself that any particular municipality does not fulfil the conditions of section 10. As regards the proposal that the majority of the rate-payers should take action in the matter, it appears to me that it will be utterly impossible to get a majority of the rate-payers to combine to ask the Government to withdraw the municipality from the operation of the Act. That part of the amendment will, therefore, have no effect whatever."

The Hon'ble MR. BONNERJEE said:—"I was not a member of the Select Committee, and therefore listened to the speeches of hon'ble members both in support of and against the amendment with the utmost care, and it appears to me, so far as the argument has proceeded, that the weight of it is entirely with my hon'ble friend MR. GHOSE. The reasons which were given by my hon'ble friend BABU GONESH CHUNDER CHUNDER would rather lead me to support the amendment, but he says he will vote against it. I go with my hon'ble friend when he says that the Government should have the power of withdrawing a municipality or a particular local area from the provisions of the Act; but the object of the amendment is, that instead of the Government being a party to such withdrawal of its own motion, it should be the arbiter between contending parties, one of which may wish for the withdrawal of the municipality from, and the other for its retention under, the operation of the Act. What the amendment seeks to guard against is, that Government should not be a partisan in the matter.

"I have not the least doubt that officers of Government engaged in matters municipal carefully consider the pros and cons of all questions, but it is very seldom indeed that a project, taken in hand by the District Magistrate, is ever abandoned; it is generally carried through. When this proviso was drawn, it must have been in the mind of the framer not to give the initiative to the Government, but to follow some such plan as is mentioned in the amendment; because the proviso runs thus:—'Provided also that whenever it shall appear from a general census or from special enquiries undertaken in this behalf'. The first step, then, in the matter, apart from the census, is to make special enquiries on the subject. If, however, you leave the initiative in the hands of the Government, the Government will, in the first place, make these special enquiries; it must then come to the conclusion that a primâ facie case has been made out and issue a notification; and when the Government has made up its mind it is not very easy to get it to change it. If this amendment is passed, the special enquiries will have to be undertaken by the Municipal Commissioners themselves, and the result will be placed before the Government, and then the Government will be in a proper position to act. Nobody denies that the power of withdrawal should remain with the Government. The only question is, whether the Government should be a party in this matter from the beginning, or whether it should have the decisive voice. I say that the Government ought to have the decisive voice, and that it ought not to be one of the parties in the controversy. I was not able to follow what the Hon'ble MR. LYALL said to the effect that if this amendment is carried, section 10 will be a dead-letter. Section 10 empowers the Government to extend to any town or village the provisions of this Act; the present section 4 of the Bill deals with towns or villages which are already included in a municipality; therefore, I do not see anything in the amendment which would make section 10 inoperative."

The Hon'ble MR. ALLEN said:—"I cannot conceive what there is in this amendment to call for the mass of vague argumentation we have had. Section 10 lays down the principle that the Municipal Act shall not apply to any town or village unless the Local Government shall have been satisfied that three-fourths of the adult male population of such town or village are employed in pursuits other than agricultural, and that such town or village contains a number of inhabitants not being less than three thousand, and an average number of not less than one thousand inhabitants to the square mile. That provision is either a good provision or a bad provision. If it is a bad provision let it be repealed; if it is a good provision it ought to have due effect. At present no means are provided in Act III of 1884 for giving effect to this provision, unless upon the motion of the Commissioners themselves. It has not been found by experience that Municipal Commissioners have been anxious to give effect to this provision. But rural areas within their taxable jurisdiction they have grasped at and held, and refused to give up, while they have not spent a single pice on the amelioration thereof. Is such a condition of things to be continued? The proviso in this Bill simply supplies a guard against Municipal Commissioners taxing and worrying people whom accident has placed within municipal limits, but who derive no benefit from the municipality. At present the provisions of section 10 are a dead-letter, but it is said they will operate as regards future extensions of the Act; but inasmuch as the peculiar epidemic of 1884 extended municipal institutions to every conceivable areas which, by any stretch and straining of language, could be dragged under municipal administration, little remains in Bengal for further extensions. In the earlier stages of the passing of Act III of 1884, I happened to be a member of this Council, and I was also a member of the Select Committee. I had, however, left for England before the Act was passed, and I am unable to say why no notice was taken of this omission in the Act when it was passing through the Council, and I regard the fact that no provision was made to render section 10 operative as simply an oversight. At the same time I must inform the Council that the hon'ble member, I think, who was in charge of the Bill, certainly a member who took a most prominent part in the discussions, laid it down as an axiom that we must presume that the Municipal Commissioners and others would always comply with the directions of the law, and he objected to any provision being made in the Act for guaranteeing, by means of a sanction, that this presumption should bear fruit. Possibly the omission was deliberate and in pursuance of that principle. Section 10 was limited to a direction without any arrangement for compelling Commissioners to give effect to it when the circumstances of any local area were such as to require its exclusion from the municipal system."

The Hon'ble SIR CHARLES PAUL said:—"I must oppose this amendment. It appears to me that this proviso is only supplementary to section 10 of the Act. Section 10 is insufficient in that, whilst it allows the Government to place certain areas within the limits of a municipality and to treat them as municipalities, it gives no power when the essential conditions of a municipality fail to withdraw it from the category of a municipality. Therefore, I regard this proviso as a supplement to section 10. Then, as the proviso is drawn, it appears to me that the supplement is a logical supplement; but as the proviso is intended to be amended, it seems to be illogical. I say that this proviso is a logical supplement to section 10, because we must presume that the Government having charge of these municipal arrangements and having placed the charge in the hands of other responsible persons intended to keep its watchful eye on the proceedings of those to whom it conceded duties belonging to it, and when the conditions on which these small municipalities were constituted failed, the Government was bound to take notice of that failure. Therefore this proviso enacts that when it shall appear that those conditions do not conform to the provisions of the section, the Government should at its own discretion act. The Government having discovered that the circumstances do not justify the further continuance of a municipality under section 10—the Government having come to that conclusion on the facts, not on a number of difficult and abstruse questions, but on the question of numbers, on which there can scarcely be much doubt,—is Government to stop its hands until, in a kind and friendly spirit, the Municipal Commissioners or a majority of the rate-payers think fit to come forward and allow the Government to do its duty. I submit that this amendment is a pure work of superrogation, and I quite agree with the Hon'ble MR. LYALL that we should be stultifying ourselves if, when we have section 10 staring us in the face, we should tie up the hands of the Government and not allow them to do that which is necessary to be done, until, to quote the words of the Hon'ble MR. COLLIER, another party thinks it meet to have its own extinction recorded."

The Hon'ble MR. GHOSE in reply said:—"I desire to begin by referring to the comments made by the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill with reference to the wording of my amendment. He says that my amendment speaks of a petition by the majority of the rate-payers, by which he understands the majority of the rate-payers of the whole municipality; whereas it may be that a particular local area included in a municipality ought to be withdrawn. In order to meet that objection, I am prepared to add the words 'or of any local area included within it.' Then it has been said by more than one hon'ble member, and particularly by the Hon'ble THE MAHARAJA OF GIDHOUR, that it is very difficult to get the rate-payers to act in concert with each other in a matter of this kind. I regret to say that I cannot accept that view. It is often said, and with a great deal of justice, that the people of this part of the country are very litigious, and it does seem to me somewhat inconsistent to say of the same people that they will be utterly reluctant to take such a simple step as to petition the Government, when by so doing they will be relieved of the burden of taxation. On the contrary, in the papers submitted to us, there is abundant evidence to show that petitions have been received and complaints have been made in regard to this very matter; therefore it seems to me that the difficulty which is apprehended is not at all likely to arise. Consequently the observation of the Hon'ble MR. COLLIER, to which reference has been made by the learned Advocate-General that the matter will be left entirely to the discretion of the Municipal Commissioners, who will certainly not be likely to vote for their own extinction, does not apply. In this connection, I draw attention to one important and significant fact, that Mr. H. A. D. PHILLIPS and other officers have reported against several municipalities, and they all seem to be of opinion that these municipalities not only do not now conform to the provisions of section 10, but that they never did do so at any time. And considering that they were all created within the last seven or eight years, they have not had time to undergo any appreciable change within that period. This fact has an important bearing, which seems to have been ignored by most of the hon'ble members who have spoken against the amendment. It seems to have been assumed that these municipalities came into existence by some process of spontaneous creation: every one of these municipalities was created on the recommendation of the District Officers of the Government. The Commissioners of Divisions and other officers must have been able to satisfy the Government of the day, on the same facts and figures on which it is now contended that these are bogus municipalities, that these places did conform to the provisions of section 10, for it is impossible to conceive that any Government would have sanctioned the creation of these municipalities, unless it was so satisfied. Therefore, it comes to this, that with a change of officers you have a complete change of views. And unless you adopt some such plan as is suggested by my amendment, the Government will be constantly asked by one set of officers to undo what has been done before under the advice of their predecessors. It is scarcely consistent with the dignity of the Government that it should be periodically asked on a mere change of the officers of a district to undo its own work, but its proper course would be to leave the initiative in the hands of those who are directly affected. In most, if not all the condemned municipalities, the Commissioners are nominated by the Government, and not by the people; therefore, the remedy is in the hands of the Government; but be that as it may, the only proper course is to leave the initiative to the people, and for the Government to assume the role of a judge when a particular case is brought up before it. With these observations, I feel it my duty to press this amendment."

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said:—"I wish to express my regret that the language I used on the 7th January, 1893, should have been of such a nature that any possible dispute regarding my meaning should have arisen, and that it should have been differently understood by the Hon'ble MR LALMOHAN GHOSE and by the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill. Speaking of section 4, under which power was taken in the draft then before the Council to alter the boundaries of municipalities without regard to their wishes, I said I considered it right to abandon the proposal that such power should be taken by the Government, and accordingly in clauses (b) and (c) of section 4, as it now stands, those powers are reserved to be exercised by the Government on the recommendation of the Municipal Commissioners. There has, therefore, been no drawing back from the declaration I then made. The case which has been provided for by the amendment now before the Council had not then been considered by the Government. It has been clearly put by the learned Advocate-General and other hon'ble members that, where in creating a municipality under section 10, some mistake has occurred as to the number of people, and it was now found that, where it was thought there were 3,000 people or more, or that more than three-fourths of the adult male population were non-agricultural, or that there were more than one thousand to the square mile, those conditions were not now fulfilled, in such cases the municipality must cease to exist. I hold that there can be no reasonable objection to the Government taking this power which is merely directed towards carrying out the principles of the law. I would also point out that if the hon'ble member's motion is carried, the section will be a mere repetition of clause (a) applied to a particular case. By clause (a), under the recommendation of the Commissioners, the Government can withdraw any municipality from the operation of the Act. What we desire is, that in the special case where a municipality exists under conditions which, according to the intention of section 10, do not admit of its existence, the Government should have power to abolish the municipality even without a recommendation from the Commissioners. The Hon'ble Mr. LALMOHAN GHOSE has since suggested that action might be taken by the Government on the application of a majority of the rate-payers of any local area included within a municipality. I think it quite possible that this is a valuable suggestion. If the hon'ble member's present amendment is lost, and the Council decides to keep the clause as it stands in the Bill, I should desire to give an opportunity to the hon'ble member to introduce the words to which I have just referred, in the beginning of the section, so that it shall run, 'that the Local Government may, either on the recommendation of the majority of the Commissioners at a meeting, or on the representation of the majority of the rate-payers of the whole area, withdraw a municipality under clause (a), or exclude from it a local area under clause (b), or include a local area under clause (c).' I shall be ready to accept such an amendment if the hon'ble member wishes to bring it forward, and I think it will carry out the general meaning and object of the hon'ble member himself, and of those who have spoken in favour of his amendment."

The Motion being put, the Council divided:—

Ayes 5.	Noes 14.
The Hon'ble Maharaja Jagadindra Nath Roy of Nator.	The Hon'ble Mr. Stuart.
The Hon'ble Mr. Bonnerjee.	The Hon'ble Mr. Womack.
The Hon'ble Maharaja Sir Luchmessur Singh Bahadur of Darbhanga.	The Hon'ble Maulvi Serajul Islam Khan Bahadur.
The Hon'ble Mr. Ghose.	The Hon'ble Maharaja Ravaneshwar Prosad Singh Bahadur of Gidhour.
The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee.	The Hon'ble Maulvi Syed Fazl Imam Khan Bahadur.
	The Hon'ble Mr. Buckland.
	The Hon'ble Mr. Collier.
	The Hon'ble Maulvi Abdul Jubbar Khan Bahadur.
	The Hon'ble Mr. Bourdillon.
	The Hon'ble Mr. Lyall.
	The Hon'ble Babu Gonesh Chunder Chunder.
	The Hon'ble Sir John Lambert.
	The Hon'ble Mr. Allen.
	The Hon'ble Sir Charles Paul.

So the Motion was lost.

The Hon'ble MR. GHOSE also moved that section 6 of the Bill be omitted. He said :—

"This is an amendment of comparatively less importance than the last. The object of the section is, to provide that the appointment of Municipal Commissioners by the Government shall be either by name or by official designation. I notice that, during the debate on the passing of the Act, the Hon'ble MR. REYNOLDS, who was in charge of the Bill, said that the Government did not intend to appoint any ex-officio members, and therefore the words which it is proposed by this section to insert in section 14 do not appear in the Act. I have not yet seen any argument put forward showing what has rendered this section necessary at the present moment. If it is necessary to appoint the Subdivisional Officer, or the District Magistrate, or the Civil Surgeon, or other official person to be a Municipal Commissioner, it may be done with equal facility by his name as by his official designation, and it also seems to me that, by having these ex-officio appointments, you will lessen the chance of appointing non-officials who may be peculiarly fitted for such appointments. It may be that a particular officer may be an acquisition on the Municipal Board, but it does not follow that his successor will be equally desirable. As I have already said this is not a question of very great importance, but as a question of principle I think it right to take the opinion of the Council upon it."

The Hon'ble MR. BOURDILLON said :—"The object of the change proposed in the Bill is, to bring about the better despatch of business. It has been found inconvenient when officers are frequently changed in a district to gazette them by name to be Municipal Commissioners, and therefore it is proposed to take power to gazette them by official designation. The hon'ble mover of the amendment has not told us what induced the Hon'ble MR. REYNOLDS to make the statement he has quoted; it is therefore difficult to say what authority he had for making such a declaration. At any rate, the Government did not remain of that mind very long, because in the Local Self-Government Act of 1885 power was given to appoint members of Local Boards and District Boards either by name or by official designation, and for the facility of business and administrative convenience, I think it my duty to urge that the same power should be given in this Bill."

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE said :—"It is to be regretted that an attempt should be made to engraft the provisions of the Local Self-Government Act on the Bengal Municipal Act. The Local Self-Government Act is a distinctly retrograde measure as compared to the Municipal Act, and I remember that when this measure was under the consideration of the Government, considerable agitation took place with the object of making the provisions of the Act more liberal. It will be unfortunate if anything is done to engraft the principles of a somewhat retrograde measure upon the more advanced municipa system of the Province. I am prepared to make very considerable concessions to promote administrative convenience. But this is a question of principle, and I think the opportunity should be given to the Municipal Commissioners on the occurrence of a vacancy to elect one of their own number as Chairman, which they would not have if the gentleman appointed by the Government is appointed by his official designation. If there is any little administrative convenience to be secured, I think it should not be secured by the sacrifice of an important principle."

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said :—"I venture to express my opinion to the Council that no valid objection has been raised against this section of the Bill, and that no special reason has been advanced for the amendment being accepted. The section is merely intended to provide for a matter of official convenience and of a small economy. In these days of retrenchment, the Council ought not to despise even the economy which would be effected by minimising the number of the notifications in the Gazette."

The Motion was put and negatived.

The Hon'ble MR. COLLIER moved for leave to withdraw the motion of which he had given notice that in section 6 of the Bill, after the words "in section fourteen", the following be inserted:—

"After the first paragraph the following shall be inserted:—

"Explanation.—A person shall be deemed to be resident within a municipality for the purposes of this and the following section if—

(1) he ordinarily lives within such limits; or if

(2) he has his family dwelling-house within such limits and occasionally visits it; or if

(3) he maintains a dwelling-house ready for occupation in the charge of servants within such limits and occasionally occupies it.

"A person may be resident within the limits of more than one municipality at the same time."

He said:—

"I had two reasons for this amendment. One of these was, because I was under the impression that the Government had no power to define the meaning of the word 'resident' in section 14 of the Act, and the other was, that I thought the definition which has already been laid down is objectionable. As regards the first of these points, I understand that both the Advocate-General and the Legal Remembrancer say that the Government has the power to define the term 'resident', therefore that ground for an amendment of the section falls through; and as a rule which is found to be objectionable can be altered, there is no necessity for this proposed amendment, and I accordingly ask leave to withdraw it."

The Motion was accordingly withdrawn.

The Hon'ble MR. GHOSE, by leave of the Council, withdrew the motions of which he had given notice that section 8 of the Bill be omitted, and that the words "either by name or by official designation", wherever they occur in other sections of the Bill, be also omitted.

The Hon'ble MAHARAJA JAGADINDRA NATH ROY OF NATOR said:—"I observe that by section 10 of the Bill the Divisional Commissioner is to be authorized to remove a Commissioner of a municipality. I think it is always desirable that really worthy and respectable men should accept the office of a Municipal Commissioner, and I feel sure that it is also the desire of the Government; but by the provisions of this section of the Bill the post of Municipal Commissioner will be rendered less attractive, because the Municipal Commissioners will be deprived of the highly esteemed privilege—which they have hitherto enjoyed—of being appointed by the Local Government. I do not see any reason why the power of removing a Municipal Commissioner should be delegated; because the removal of a Commissioner does not occur so often as to engross so much of the valuable time of the Local Government as to justify the delegation of the power. Besides to-day it is proposed to delegate the power to the Commissioner of the Division; to-morrow it may be thought proper to delegate it to the District Magistrate, and so on. For these reasons, I beg leave to move that in section 10 of the Bill, in sub-section (1) of section 20, the words 'The Local Government' be substituted for 'The Commissioner of the Division.'"

The Hon'ble MR. BOURDILLON said:—"I think some misapprehension exists in the mind of the mover of the amendment as regards the object of this section. The question is, not whether a Municipal Commissioner should be removed by order of the Local Government or by order of the Commissioner of the Division, but the intention of the section is merely to give effect and force in some definite way to an enactment which says that, when a certain thing takes place, a Municipal Commissioner shall cease to exist as such. Section 20 of Act III of 1884 enacts that any Commissioner, who without having obtained permission from the Commissioners at a meeting, shall have omitted to attend six consecutive meetings of the Commissioners, and any Commissioner who shall have been convicted of a non-bailable offence, or shall have been declared insolvent by a competent Court, shall cease to be a Commissioner. The Act contains no further details; it does not say how he shall cease to be a Commissioner, and conflicting orders and opinions have been recorded upon this point. Some think that at the conclusion of the sixth meeting, when a Commissioner's absence has been recorded, he shall forthwith cease to be a Commissioner; others think that a resolution of the Commissioners at a meeting is necessary; others again consider that the Magistrate or the Commissioner of the Division or the Local Government must make a declaration to that effect. In the opinion of the framers of this Bill, it is desirable that this doubt should be set at rest, and they have therefore redrafted the provisions of the section, and, as some person must make the declaratory order, they have nominated for that purpose the Commissioner of the Division, who, knowing all the facts of the case and being upon the spot, is the person who should make the necessary declaration. It seems to me absurd that the Local Government should be put in motion to give effect to a provision which the present Act considers to be of so little consequence that it may be left to act of itself. When the section was redrafted, the opportunity was taken to add some words from the Panjab Municipal Act, section 11, and to make it applicable to section 57 of the existing Act."

The Hon'ble MR. COTTON said:—"I think there is a great deal of force in the observations of the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill as far as they go. But there is one clause in the section of the Bill now before us which goes beyond the observations of the hon'ble member, and that is clause (d), which provides that, if in the judgment of the Commissioner of the Division to be recorded in writing, a Municipal Commissioner has become disqualified to continue in office under section 57, he may remove such Municipal Commissioner. That does seem to me to go beyond anything which the present law contains. I understand the object of section 10 of the Bill to be to give effect to the existing law, that is to say, to give power to the Commissioner of the Division to remove a Municipal Commissioner who, under section 20 of the Act, ceases to be a Commissioner. But I do not think the law should go further than that, or authorize the Commissioner of the Division to remove from the office of Municipal Commissioner any person who is disqualified for any reason other than that specified in section 20. I think clause (d) gives a power to the Commissioner of the Division which should not be given."

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE said:—"If a Municipal Commissioner ceases to be a Commissioner under section 57, he does so ipso facto by reason of his being interested in a contract with the Commissioners. The raison d'être of this section of the Bill seems to be that the existing law does not specify the authority who has to pronounce sentence. The present practice is for the Local Government, as far as I am aware, to pronounce sentence, and I maintain that the power should not be delegated, having regard to the important expression of public opinion on that point. Among the papers circulated, I find an expression of opinion subscribed to by five or six Municipal Commissioners of Hooghly and Chinsura, in which they say:—

'Under the present law, the Government alone can remove Municipal Commissioners. It is now proposed that the Commissioner of the Division should be empowered to do so. We do not see what necessity there is for this proposed transfer of power In the peculiar position which Commissioners of Divisions and Municipal Commissioners holdin respect of each other, questions may constantly arise to disturb the harmony.'

"That was precisely the view held by the Conference of gentlemen, chiefly Chairmen of Municipalities, who met at the Town Hall in 1892. They said that they desired to record their firm and respectful protest against the following among other provisions of the Bill, which are unnecessary and uncalled for:—

'Section 19, which delegates to the Commissioners of Divisions several important functions, now especially reserved to the Government. This would amount at times to referring to officers questions in which they are already interested and making them judges in their own cause.'

"I think an important question of principle is involved, and that principle ought not to be sacrificed to whatever little administrative convenience might be secured under the procedure now proposed. Frequently there is considerable friction between the Commissioner of the Division and Municipal Commissioners, and therefore this power of the removal of one of the latter should not be delegated to the former. Having regard to all these circumstances, I will support the amendment."

The Hon'ble SIR CHARLES PAUL said:—"I must say that this section provides for a disqualification ipso facto. From the time that it is known that a Commissioner or Member of a Ward Committee is directly or indirectly interested in a contract, from that moment he ceases to be a Commissioner and is disqualified. What is now proposed is, to make provision for notifying such disqualification. If you do not do so, you will have to bring a suit for an injunction or a prosecution from time to time, and fine such Municipal Commissioner for every time the votes as a Commissioner. That is what is done in England, and inasmuch as there is no provision for removal here, it is necessary to have a provision, and I think the provision now proposed is a proper one. The distinction between the Local Government and the Commissioner of the Division seems to be a very fine distinction. When the Local Government is called upon to look at these things, it does not look upon them through its own spectacles; it sees through the eyes of its District Officers. The object of the section is merely to make provision for what there is no provision now."

The Hon'ble MR. BONNERJEE said:—"I will support the amendment and would point out that this section of the Bill is thus dealt with in the Report of the Select Committee:—

'By section 10 of the Bill, we have remodelled section 20 of the Act on the lines of section 18 of Bengal Act III of 1885, so as to indicate more clearly the grounds upon which a Commissioner may be removed.'

"Turning to section 18 of Act III of 1885, we find it thus enacted:—

'The Lieutenant-Governor may remove any member of a District Board or Local Board—

(a) if he refuses to act or becomes incapable of acting, or is declared insolvent, or is convicted of any such offence, or subjected by a Criminal Court to any such order, as, in the opinion of the Lieutenant-Governor, formed after due enquiry, unfits him to be a member;

(b) if he has been declared by notification to be disqualified for employment in the public service;

(c) if he, without an excuse, sufficient in the opinion of the Lieutenant-Governor, absents himself from six consecutive meetings of the Board;

(d) when he is a salaried servant of the Government, if his continuance in office is, in the opinion of the Lieutenant-Governor, undesirable.'

"So that the source from which this section of the Bill has been taken distinctly vests the power of removing a Commissioner in the Lieutenant-Governor No reason has been given why the change should be made, and therefore I think there is great force in the objection raised by the hon'ble mover of the amendment."

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said:—"I think there has been a good deal of misunderstanding about the bearing of this section. The law declared that by certain acts a Commissioner is ipso facto disqualified, but how the disqualification is to be recorded is not provided in the law. What steps are to be taken to give effect to this disqualification is a casus omissus in the existing law The question is, must the removal be made by the Local Government, or can it be done by the Commissioner of the Division? If the law had already provided that it must be done in all cases by the Local Government, I can understand the bearing of the amendment that such an important Act is diminished in its weight and importance by being placed in the hand of the Commissioner of the Division. But that is not so. These cases have sometimes come up to the Secretariat, and occasionally notifications have been issued by the Local Government; on other occasions the reply has been that the Commissioner of the Division should deal with the case; on others again, that the Municipal Commissioners must themselves give effect to the disqualification. Therefore, the practice is irregular and some rule should be laid down. I think the reference to the Commissioner of the Division is sufficient. It is not necessary to call upon the highest authority to do an act which has been considered by the law as automatic. The Hon'ble the Chief Secretary to the Government has objected to the inclusion of clause (d), by which power is given to the Commissioner to declare any one disqualified who takes a contract from the municipality. The hon'ble gentleman was once an unrivalled authority in matters of municipal law, but I am afraid that since he left the Municipal Department his knowledge has become somewhat blunted, as he has not observed that disqualification for this cause was, under the existing law, just as automatic as in the other cases. In nineteen cases out of twenty, a Municipal Commissioner does, under such cases, give in his resignation, but in those unfortunate cases where a Municipal Commissioner does not submit his resignation, and where some major force has to be exercised, the removal should be effected by the Commissioner of the Division. I would also draw attention to section 19 of the Municipal Act, which remains unaltered. There it is the Local Government who disqualifies a Commissioner for misconduct in the discharge of his duties or of any disgraceful conduct. That is an important provision, and should remain untouched. We do not care to delegate the responsibility of the Local Government in serious and important cases. We do not wish to assume it in those simpler cases where the disqualification has hitherto operated without necessitating its invention. For these reasons, I must oppose this amendment."

The Motion being put, the Council divided:—

Ayes 5.	Noes 15.
The Hon'ble Maharaja Jagadindra Nath Roy of Nator.	The Hon'ble Mr. Stuart.
The Hon'ble Mr. Bonnerjee.	The Hon'ble Mr. Womack.

	The Hon'ble Babu Gonesh Chunder Chunder.
	The Hon'ble Sir John Lambert.
	The Hon'ble Mr. Cotton.
	The Hon'ble Mr. Allen.
	The Hon'ble Sir Charles Paul.

So the Motion was lost.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE moved that in section 10 of the Bill, in clause (a) of section 20, the words "refuses to act or becomes incapable of acting, or" be omitted. He said:—

"Under the present municipal law, a Commissioner ceases to be a Commissioner under certain specified conditions. A Commissioner vacates his office, if he is convicted of a non-bailable offence, if he is declared an insolvent by a competent court, if he absents himself from six consecutive meetings of the Commissioners, or if he is interested in a contract with the Municipal Commissioners. Under section 10 of the Bill, it is proposed to add to these disqualifying provisions the following, namely, if he refuses to act or becomes incapable of acting, or has been declared by public notification to be disqualified for employment in the public service. My amendment has reference to these new disqualifying conditions. If a Commissioner refuses to act, it seems only natural that he would resign: if he does not resign, he goes out by the efflux of time; he would necessarily be absent from six consecutive meetings, and would therefore cease to be a Commissioner. The same remarks apply to the second part of clause (a), if a Commissioner becomes incapable of acting. This provision is open to the further objection that it is vague. It says that a Commissioner ceases to be a Commissioner if 'he is incapable of acting'—incapable of acting through what? Through physical inability? That would be a fruitful source of controversy. Among no class of the community is there such a hopeless conflict of opinion as among that respectable and reputable class to whom we are accustomed to confide the safe-keeping of our health; the disagreement among doctors has passed into a proverb. One doctor may declare a person to be fit to be a Municipal Commissioner; another may declare him to be hopelessly unfit. Who is to decide amid this conflict of opinion? I do not understand the raison d'être of this provision. I am not aware of any inconvenience having arisen from the want of such a provision. I am told that this provision and one or two others have been taken from the Panjab Municipal Act. A high authority has spoken of the Panjab Act in terms of great admiration. The resources of oriental imagery have been laid under contribution to describe the Act. It is spoken of as a flower of municipal legislation. Speaking for myself I will say that I do not perceive the fragrance of the flower, nor do I appreciate its beauty, and I deplore the tendency which is observable in some quarters to engraft upon our advanced municipal institutions the retrograde legislation of a backward province."

The Hon'ble MR. ALLEN rose to order. He said:—"The hon'ble member is wandering from the question in discussing the Panjab."

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said:—"I think I must ask the hon'ble member to confine himself to the motion before the Council."

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE continued:—"I was going to observe that this section of the Bill has been borrowed from the Panjab Municipal Act, and that the circumstances of the Panjab are very different from the circumstances of Bengal. A law that may be very appropriate for the Panjab may be unsuitable to the circumstances of Bengal. My contention is, that clause (a) is unnecessary, and that no administrative inconvenience is likely to arise from its omission."

The Hon'ble MR. BOURDILLON said:—"One word of explanation in behalf of the Select Committee will be enough. These words were inserted because it was evident that there was an omission in the law. There is at present no provision for the termination of the office of a Municipal Commissioner who refuses to act or becomes incapable of acting. By the efflux of six months' time he would be disqualified by section 20, but the Committee were not all prepared to accept this lame and impotent conclusion. As regards the charge the last speaker has brought against the wording of the Bill, 'incapable of acting,' as being vague and indefinite, it is absolutely unavoidable. It is impossible to give a definition of the term 'incapable of acting,' or to specify in detail all the circumstances under which that incapacity might arise. As to the question, who is to decide as to incapability, it has just been determined that the Commissioner of the Division should decide the point, and he should find no difficulty in coming to a conclusion."

The Hon'ble MAULVI SYED FAZL IMAM KHAN BAHADUR said:—"I know cases in which certain Municipal Commissioners have refused to act and only attended every fifth or sixth meeting simply with the view of securing their names against being struck off the list of Municipal Commissioners. They keep up their names for the sake of position only, and not for doing any municipal work. It is not desirable that such thing should be encouraged. In my opinion, therefore, this provision is very necessary, as it will put a stop to the practice of Commissioners attending only on special occasions or when it suits them to do so, and at the same time will provide for appointment of better men instead."

The Hon'ble SIR CHARLES PAUL said:—"It is an ordinary provision that when a person refuses to act or is incapable of acting, a new appointment is to be made. It has been said that in such cases a person will naturally resign: in that case this clause will not be put in force. But in the other case, when such a person is loath to resign, what is to be done? Is all the machinery to be in a state of inaction for one single member? The hon'ble mover of the amendment drew some comparison between the Panjab and Bengal, which, if I understood him rightly, would not be to the discredit of the Panjab. In the Panjab, when a Municipal Commissioner becomes a madman or refuses to act, he is deprived of his office, but in Bengal he would continue to be a Commissioner. I am really surprised to find arguments of this kind advanced against this Bill. It appears to me that everything which tends to make the Act more perfect, everything new, is objected to by certain hon'ble members, and when they have to support those amendments, the arguments which you have heard to-day are put forward. I never thought it possible that any one could say it is not necessary to provide against these two contingencies, namely, that when a man refuses to act or is incapable of acting as a Municipal Commissioner, you are to sit with your hands folded and are not to have the power to appoint better men."

The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee in reply said:—"I am surprised at the observations which have just been made by the learned Advocate-General. I think it is incumbent upon those who bring forward new provisions of this kind to make out their case, and I contend that no case has been made out in support of these provisions. I threw down a challenge; I asked the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill to state what administrative inconvenience had been felt from want of provisions such as those which he now wants to introduce into the law. I have not received any reply, for the best of all reasons that a reply is impossible. I have listened with considerable astonishment to the observations which fell from the Hon'ble Maulvi Syed Fazl Imam. He brought forward a specific instance, and his contention was, that the present law would meet that instance. He said that a Municipal Commissioner might absent himself from five consecutive meetings, and then attend on the sixth occasion and thus save himself from disqualification. I would ask the hon'ble member to read the section, and say whether there is anything in it which would prevent a practice of this kind. I think a case has not been made out for these new provisions, and notwithstanding what has fallen from the learned Advocate-General, I maintain it is our duty to oppose these clauses which are condemned by public opinion and are calculated to impede the growth of municipal institutions."

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE also moved that in the same section, clause (b) of section 20 be omitted. He said:—

"My objection to this clause of the Bill is not so pronounced as it is to clause (a) of the same section. My objection is based on principle. I have no objection to offer to the disqualification of a person convicted of a non-bailable offence, but I object to the fiat of executive authority, however eminent the authority may be being placed on the same footing with the deliberate award of a judicial tribunal. In the Select Committee I asked what occasion there was for this provision; how many cases had occurred of persons disqualified by notification for public employment to justify the introduction of the section? I was told in reply that in the course of eight or nine years there had been only two or three cases. Therefore, there being no necessity for it, I fail to see why should we have a clause like this?"

The Hon'ble MR. BOURDILLON said:—"The intention of the provision of the Bill as it stands is, that the Commissioner of the Division may give effect to the fiat of the Government. It may be, as has been said by the hon'ble mover of the amendment, that the occasions on which a Municipal Commissioner has been declared to be disqualified for employment in the public service are very rare, but such cases may occur. We have heard much from certain quarters of the importance of upholding the dignity and maintaining the official purity of the Municipal Boards. With these sentiments, I feel sure that this Council is in full sympathy, and we are prepared to do all we reasonably can to make the position of a Municipal Commissioner one of dignity, and one which shall carry with it privileges and duties of a high character. Surely one most necessary step towards the execution of such purpose is to enact that anybody who has been declared by a notification of the Government to be disqualified for employment in the public service should without further question be branded as unworthy to sit on the board of a municipality."

The Hon'ble MR. BONNERJEE said:—"It seems to me that this clause is unnecessary, because, it is not likely that a person who has been declared by notification to be disqualified for employment in the public service would be nominated by Government as a Commissioner. It can only touch an elected Commissioner, and with regard to him, I do not see why the discretion vested in the electors should be taken away. If they have a popular candidate who labours under the disadvantage of having been declared disqualified for employment in the public service, I do not see why he should not be elected a Municipal Commissioner. I have no doubt that in many cases the notification contains a just sentence, but it is possible that it may not or that it is not in accord with public feeling in regard to a particular individual. It is not unknown that there have been cases of conviction by our Courts even where the public conscience has not been satisfied with regard to the guilt of the individuals punished. If a person has been justly declared to be disqualified for employment in the public service, nobody would care to elect him, but if the declaration has not been just, the people may wish to mark their sense of the injustice by electing him a Municipal Commissioner."

So the Motion was lost.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE also moved that in the same section, at the end of clause (d) of section 20, the following proviso be added :—

"Provided that any Commissioner so removed may appeal to the Local Government."

He said :—

"If the motion of the Hon'ble MAHARAJA JAGADINDRA NATH ROY OF NATOR had been carried, it would have been unnecessary to bring forward this amendment. In the cases referred to by my amendment probably the Local Government would be guided by the advice of the Commissioner of the Division. But it is one thing for the Commissioner of the Division to act independently, and quite another thing when he acts under a supervision which may at any time be invoked by an appeal to the Head of the Government. I am anxious that the constitutional and well-recognized right of appeal to the head of the Government should be recognized by a provision like this. It would not in the smallest degree interfere with administrative convenience. There is a considerable body of opinion against the delegation of these powers to Commissioners of Divisions, and this is a via media which would go some way to conciliate public feeling."

The Hon'ble MR. BOURDILLON said :—"This matter was not brought before the Select Committee, but speaking personally, as an individual member there does not seem to me to be much objection to allowing an appeal to the Local Government in these cases."

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said :—"I accept this amendment on the part of the Government, and I trust the Council will pass it without any discussion. It is decidedly advisable that there should be an appeal in such cases."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE also moved that in section 12 of the Bill, after sub-section (e) of section 23, the following be added :—

"and such Chairman shall be appointed by name."

He said :—

"In paragraph 9 of the Select Committee's Report we find the following remarks :—

'Section 23 of the Act has been amended by section 12 of the Bill, so as to make it clear that when the Commissioners of a municipality not mentioned in the second schedule of the Act have requested the Lieutenant-Governor to appoint a Chairman, they do not thereby surrender their power to appoint a Chairman on the occurrence of a subsequent vacancy.'

"The object of the amendment is to make quite clear the sense of the Select Committee's recommendation, and there ought not to be any difference of opinion about the matter."

The Hon'ble MR. BOURDILLON said :—"Inasmuch as this amendment is intended to give effect to the recommendation of the Select Committee, there can be no objection to it. The argument is, that when the Government is asked under section 23 of the Act to appoint a Chairman, the Municipal Commissioners do not by so doing surrender for the remainder of the three years during which they hold office their power of appointing a Chairman. They ask the Government to appoint a Chairman, because for some special and probably temporary reason they are not prepared to elect one themselves; they do not desire to direct themselves altogether. The amendment seems to make that clear, and it declares that such Chairman shall be appointed by name; and there should be no question of his being appointed ex-officio; and if such Chairman vacates the appointment, it would not be carried on to his successor in office, and the question of appointing a Chairman would again be open."

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said :—"There is no objection on the part of the Government to accept this amendment."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Bourdillon moved that after section 15 of the Bill the following section be inserted:—

"After section 26, the following section shall be inserted:—

"26A. Notwithstanding anything contained in sections twenty-four and twenty-five, the Chairman and Vice-Chairman of any municipality shall cease to hold office as soon as the new body of Commissioners is appointed or elected, or is appointed and elected otherwise than under section twenty-seven in the municipality in which they hold office."

He said:—

"This amendment arises out of circumstances subsequently brought to the notice of the Government. At the election in the Burdwan Municipality three years ago the general body of Commissioners were elected and appointed during the month of December, 1890, but for various reasons there was a delay in giving effect to the appointment of Chairman and Vice-Chairman, and they took office from 18th March, 1891, so that there was an interval of about three months between the election and appointment of the Commissioners and the appointment of the Chairman and Vice-Chairman. Sections 24 and 25 of the Act declare that the term of office of a Chairman, Vice-Chairman and Commissioner shall be three years from the date of election or appointment. The question arose, whether the officers in question were entitled to remain in office on the ground of their office, or whether they should not go out of office with their fellow-Commissioners.

"Legal opinion was taken, and it was held that the Chairman and Vice-Chairman were entitled to continue acting as such with the new body of Commissioners, and that until the 17th March was past the new body was not entitled or empowered to elect a Chairman or Vice-Chairman. This was rather an embarrassing position, and it is obvious that it would become exceedingly embarrassing if the elected Chairman and Vice-Chairman were not included in the new body of Commissioners. The result would be that the Commissioners would be acting under the presidency of two gentlemen with whom they had nothing to do. It is, therefore, proposed that as soon as a new body is appointed or elected, or appointed and elected, or rather as soon as the old body go out of office, the Chairman and Vice-Chairman should share the same fate, and that the new body should at once proceed to elect their own Chairman and Vice-Chairman. The amendment is proposed with the object of giving effect to this procedure."

The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee said:—"There will be some little time between the election of the Commissioners and the appointment of a Chairman and Vice-Chairman. What provision does the section make to meet this interregnum?"

The Hon'ble Mr. Bourdillon said:—"It will be met by the provision of section 15 of the Bill, that the old body shall continue to hold office until a meeting is called of the new body of Commissioners."

The Hon'ble Mr. Bonnerjee moved, by way of amendment, that the words "re-appointed or re-elected" be added to the proposed section.

The Hon'ble Mr. Allen said:—"I would suggest that these amendments be kept back until they shall have been further examined. There will be inconvenience if any time elapses between the going out of the old and the appointment of the new Chairman and Vice-Chairman. Numerous executive functions have to be performed, and there may be no one in authority, for a month or two months, to perform such functions."

The Hon'ble the President said:—"I agree with the Hon'ble Mr. Allen that the consideration of these amendments should be postponed."

The further consideration of these amendments, as also of the Hon'ble Mr. Bourdillon's motion, that in section 16 of the Bill, for the number "26" the number and letter "26 A" and for the number and letter "26 A" the number and letter "26 B" be substituted, was postponed to the next sitting of the Council.

The Hon'ble MAHARAJA JAGADINDRA NATH ROY OF NATOR moved that in section 18 of the Bill, sub-section (3) of section 27A be omitted, and that the words "or a Commissioner" be inserted between the word "Vice-Chairman" and the word "of" in the first line of sub-section (2) of the same section. He said:—

"In almost all mufassal municipalities I have noticed there are two parties in opposition to each other. If a Commissioner belongs to the party other than that of the Chairman and if the Chairman refuses to accept his resignation, what will happen? Either he must refuse to act or go on acting against his will. If he refuses to act, it means his removal from office, therefore, as he cannot refuse, he must go on acting against his will. This seems somewhat hard for a man holding an honorary office. For these reasons, I move these amendments."

The Hon'ble MR. BOURDILLON said:—"The law at present makes no provision as to the person by whom the resignation of a Chairman, Vice-Chairman, or Commissioner must be accepted, and therefore the proposed section 27A now lays down the procedure: a Chairman may resign by notifying his intention to the Local Government, and on such resignation being accepted, the Chairman shall vacate his office. In the case of a Vice-Chairman, he must notify his intention to the Chairman, who shall lay it before the Commissioners at a meeting, and on its being accepted by them, the office shall be vacated. Lastly, a Commissioner may resign by notifying his intention to the Chairman and, on it being accepted, the office shall be vacated. There is some reason why the resignation of a Vice-Chairman should be laid before the Commissioners because it was they who elected him, but to require the resignation of a Commissioner to be laid before the Commissioners at a meeting appears to me to give unnecessary solemnity to an incident which is of common occurrence."

The Hon'ble MR. COLLIER said:—"I am rather in favour of this amendment. My impression is, that in many cases Commissioners resign hastily without due consideration. If the resignation is to be laid before the Commissioners at a meeting, there will be time for explanation and for the withdrawal of the resignation."

The Motion being put, the Council divided:—

So the Motions were carried.

The Hon'ble MAHARAJA JAGADINDRA NATH ROY OF NATOR also moved that in section 19 of the Bill, after the paragraph proposed to be added to section 28, the following proviso be added:—

"Provided that the allowance so granted, together with the acting allowance, if any, of the officiating incumbent, shall not exceed the salary fixed for the office."

He said:—

"The Commissioners of a municipality are empowered to grant leave allowances to a salaried Chairman or Vice-Chairman, but no rate of such allowance has been fixed. In some cases, the Commissioners may be persuaded to grant leave on full pay to a Chairman or Vice-Chairman, and it may also be necessary to appoint a man to act for him and to pay such acting man some salary. It is to prevent the Commissioners doing this that I propose this amendment."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE moved that in section 20 of the Bill, in sub-section (1) of section 29A, the words "the second paragraph of section sixteen" be omitted. He said:—

"This is a very small matter. The Bill gives the Commissioner of the Division the power of nominating a Commissioner on the failure of the election of a Commissioner in respect of any ward. I propose that this power of nomination should, as in the present Act, continue to be vested in the Local Government. A Commissioner would like to be appointed by the Local Government rather than by the Commissioner of the Division. It is entirely a matter of sentiment, but I know that the feeling is a real one."

The Hon'ble MR. BOURDILLON said:—"The Bill proposes to transfer to the Commissioner of the Division certain powers hitherto exercised by the Government. The reason for doing so is, to secure expedition in the despatch of business. There is no doubt a good deal in what has been said as to the sentiment prevailing in respect of the appointment of a Commissioner being made by the Local Government. The Commissioners in all other circumstances are appointed by the Government; but in the single case of a municipality failing to elect all the Commissioners required, the Bill proposes to empower the Commissioner of the Division to appoint Commissioners in order to complete the number of Commissioners. I confess that I do not see any particular reason for this special provision, and I think that there is no objection to this amendment. I shall be prepared to accept it."

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said:—"I agree with the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill that the amendment is a desirable one. I accept it on behalf of the Government."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The consideration of the other amendments was postponed to the next sitting of the Council.

EXHIBITION OF THE ARTISTIC AND DECORATIVE POTTERY, CHINA AND GLASS MANUFACTURES IN THE UNITED KINGDOM.

„ C. Webb (Thos. Webb & Sons' Glass Works).
„ D. Webb (Molineaux, Webb & Co.'s Glass Works).
„ J. Silvers Williams (Stevens & Williams' Glass Works).

Scope.

The Exhibition will be strictly confined to the display of Decorative and Artistic Pottery and China and Optical, Decorative and Artistic Glass manufactured in the United Kingdom, and to the practical illustrations of processes in the manufacture of Pottery, China and Glass.

No United Kingdom Exhibits will be received from other than Manufacturers.

Designers may not be Exhibitors.

Period. The Exhibition will be open daily (except Sundays) from 11-0 A.M. until 11-0 P.M., from the middle of May to the middle of September 1894.

Space. The Exhibition will take place in the lower North Gallery of the Institute, which is 701 feet long, and has a general width of 29 feet 9 inches, intersected by 42 piers—21 on each side. The width of the Gallery between the piers is 16 feet 1 inch. In the centre of the Gallery there is a bay (or recess) 87 feet long, the Gallery at this point being 36 feet 9 inches wide. The exact superficial area of the Gallery is 18,097 square feet. The Central Recess will be reserved for the exhibition of processes. There will be a passage way of 8 feet 6 inches preserved throughout the whole length of the Gallery, leaving, therefore, a total "exhibiting space" of (say) 12,000 square feet. Exhibitors' cases will be placed at intervals at right angles to the North Wall, with one face against that wall. The Eastern half of the Gallery will contain the Exhibits of Pottery and China; and the Western half the Exhibits of Glass; while it is suggested that every alternate window throughout the Gallery should be placed at the disposal of manufacturers of Stained Glass.

Liability of Exhibitors. Exhibitors will incur no liability for expenses connected with the general administration of the Exhibition.

The Imperial Institute, in pursuance of its objects as defined by the Royal Charter, which include the encouragement and development of British manufactures and industries, will provide space free of rent; also attendants, lighting, and all needful supervision and general facilities incidental to the Exhibition as a whole.

Exhibitors will be expected to provide, at their own cost, the Exhibits, Glass Cases and Fittings, and to incur the cost of transit to and from the Institute, and of the necessary attendants for the installation and arrangement of the Exhibits.

Processes. As regards Processes, the Imperial Institute will be prepared to receive applications, and to provide motive power to a moderate extent for the display of such processes, subject to the Executive Council being of opinion that the utility and attractiveness of the process to be illustrated is sufficient to justify the outlay thereby involved.

Exhibitors. The Committee of Advice has selected and recommended to the Council a preliminary list of Firms under two heads:—

(I) CHINA AND POTTERY,
(II) GLASS,

to whom invitations to exhibit are being transmitted.

Sales. No sales will be allowed, nor will Exhibitors be permitted to take orders for articles at the Exhibition. No circulars or trade cards must be distributed by Exhibitors.

Catalogue. A catalogue will be issued and sold in the Exhibition, in which a reasonable description of the Exhibits, and of any special features to which attention is called by the manufacturers, may be inserted.

The exhibiting space of the two branches will be allotted by the Committee of Advice in proportion to the demand amongst those firms included in these lists (or in subsequent lists, to be approved by the Committee) who may consent to exhibit.

All Exhibits, Glass Cases, Fittings, &c., must arrive at the Institute not later than noon on Wednesday, May 9th. No Cases or Exhibits will be received after that date. The Exhibits must be installed and arranged in their cases not later than noon on Saturday, 12th May.

The Executive Council reserve to themselves the right of refusing to admit to the Institute-premises any cases, fittings, or exhibits arriving after noon on the 9th May, and to remove from the Exhibition Gallery, at the cost of the Exhibitor, any Exhibits, Cases or Fittings, the arrangement of which may not be completed to the satisfaction of the Council by noon on the 12th May. In such instances the Executive Council reserve the right to dispose, at their absolute discretion, of the space which thus may become available. Exhibitors will not be allowed to supplement or change their exhibits during the time the Exhibition remains open.

The acceptance by a Manufacturer (firms or individuals) of the invitation to exhibit will be taken as consent on his part to allow all his Exhibits, Cases and Fittings to remain undisturbed in the Galleries until the close of the Exhibition, and as an agreement on his part to the right of the Council to order, or, if necessary, to cause, without explanation, the removal of the Exhibit at any time they may think proper, and further, as an agreement to abide by the regulations here set out.

The Executive Council, while undertaking to supply adequate general control, watching, and care, accept no responsibility or liability as regards the Exhibits in respect of damage or loss by fire or accidents, or otherwise.

An invitation to a manufacturer to exhibit will be considered as cancelled if a definite reply is not received within fourteen days of the despatch from the Institute of the invitation.

All communications should be addressed to—

The Secretary to the Pottery, China and Glass Exhibition (1894), Imperial Institute, London, S.W.

Explanation.—... indicates that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least $\frac{1}{100}$ inch of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 3rd April 1894.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY, THE 31ST OF MARCH 1894.

THE meteorological changes during the week under review do not call for detailed comment, as throughout the period weather has been of ordinary hot season character, and it has not even been modified by the occurrence of any depressions or hot weather local storms Temperature has therefore been high, the skies have been almost cloudless, and there has been a complete absence of rainfall throughout the week.

On the 25th, or the first day of the week, pressure was falling moderately, and had become distinctly below the normal. A rather strong westerly wind current continued to blow over Bengal, and at all the western stations humidity was unusually low. Thus at 8 A.M. on this day the percentage of saturation of the air with moisture at Hazaribagh was only 16 per cent. and at Chaibassa 20 per cent. On the 26th pressure increased briskly over Bengal and became generally in distinct excess. Indeed, the pressure distribution on this day was decidedly abnormal, and winds became more or less northerly at many of the Bengal stations, and even north-easterly in some cases. On the 27th, again a rather brisk increase of pressure occurred, and pressure became in excess by amounts varying up to a tenth of an inch, while northerly winds continued to be reported at many of the stations in South Bengal. On the 28th, again pressure rose at the majority of stations, but usually by small amounts, and the excess pressure ranged up to about a seventh of an inch in parts of North Bengal. Winds on this day became rather less regular in direction, and in some cases were of opposite direction at neighbouring stations On the 29th the increase of pressure ceased, and pressure began to fall by small amounts, but the general conditions were unchanged except that winds were again becoming rather more strongly westerly. On the 30th a slight increase of pressure had recommenced, and pressure was abnormally high, the excess usually ranging between 0·10″ and 0·14″. Winds also continued strongly westerly on the 30th. On the 31st, or the last day of the week, the pressure changes were very small, though at the majority of stations an increase had occurred. Winds on this day became less regular, and the strong westerly element partially disappeared, while southerly winds from the Bay were forcing themselves over Bengal, giving a large increase in the humidity. For the whole of the week, therefore, fine settled weather of ordinary hot season character has obtained.

Pressure.—The mean pressure for the week has been rather largely above the normal, the usual excess ranging from about 0·05″ at the eastern stations to about 0·08″ to 0·10″ at the western stations.

Temperature.—The average of the mean temperatures for the week has been 1·1° below the normal, the largest defects having been registered in Bihar and Chota Nagpur, while a practically normal temperature has been registered in Orissa.

The actual temperatures registered during the week, and their variations from the normal temperature for the present season, are most clearly seen in the table below, where the average maximum, minimum and mean temperatures for the week at nine typical stations in the province are compared with the normal values for the same period. The day or maximum readings for the week have shown a slightly higher temperature than usual, and the excess at the nine stations in the maximum or day temperature has equalled 0·8°; while on the other hand the night or minimum temperature has been in rather large defect, the variation at the nine stations averaging 3·1°, while at Gaya a defect of 8·1° has been registered:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The examination will be conducted either at the College or by an Examiner, Public Works Accounts (including Railway and Telegraph), in Bengal, Assam and Burma only. The examination will be ipso facto vitiated if it be not held (begun and completed) on the dates fixed, but the officer who will conduct the examination may make his own arrangements in regard to the place and hour of examination with the candidates.

Candidates will not be examined in any of the Calcutta offices.

A candidate already in permanent Government employ* may be allowed to compete in the examination even if he is more than 25 years of age, and may be appointed to an accountantship if he passes it, but if he is not already in pensionable service, he will be eligible only for appointment to the non-pensionable establishment on State Railways.

* This term includes employment under Local Boards and foreign bodies if such is pensionable by the British Government.

2. The candidate should apply to an Examiner of Public Works Accounts not later than 30 days previous to the date fixed for the examination, and obtain his consent to conduct the examination, if examination at the College is not convenient. The application must bear the address of the candidate, must be accompanied by a fee of Rs. 10 and the following certificates, and must forwarded by him, not direct to the Principal, but through the Examiner.

Certificates may be submitted in original, or true copies attested by an officer of the Engineer or Accounts Branch, but none will be returned :—

This certificate must have special reference to the two years immediately preceding the application.

(2) Certificate of age (baptismal or of birth not required if the candidate is already in permanent Government employ).

(3) Certificate that the application is in the candidate's handwriting.

It will rest with the Examiner of Accounts, to whom the candidate submits his application, on a consideration of these certificates, to decide whether the candidate should be registered for the examination or whether his application should be rejected. He will only forward the names of accepted candidates to the Principal together with their applications in their own handwriting, statement of their ages, and fees. These should be transmitted altogether under one covering letter on the last day allowed by the rule.

3. Examination papers that are issued for examination need not be returned.

4. Each examination is complete in itself. A candidate who has failed in an examination, and presents himself for examination on a subsequent occasion must undergo the full examination and furnish fresh fee and certificates.

5. Passed candidates should apply, not to the Principal of the College, nor to the Accountant-General, Public Works Department, but direct to the Examiner of Public Works Accounts in the province or railway under whom they may desire to be employed.

6. It must be distinctly understood that the passing of this examination does not give any claim to an appointment, and that in making appointments preference will be given to qualified persons who are already employed in the department.

7. The Civil Engineering College acts solely as an examining body in reference to admission to the 4th grade of Accountants, Public Works Department.

CHINA SEA—Gulf of Siam, eastern shore.

Probable existence and non-existence of certain reefs.

The British Admiralty has given notice (No. 95 of 1894) that a reconsideration of the various reports made from time to time respecting the existence of the undermentioned reefs in the gulf of Siam has led to the conclusion that, until a closer examination has been made of the area around their reported positions, the statements concerning them cannot be said to be satisfactorily disproved :—

1. Condor reef (depth one foot), approximate position, lat. 10° 43′ 40″ N., long. 102° 53′ 20″ E.
2. Jan Peter reef (depth 2 fathoms), approximate position, lat. 10° 46′ 0″ N., long. 102° 42′ 0″ E.
3. Ellen Bangka reef (depth 11 feet), approximate position, lat. 11° 11′ 0″ N., long. 102° 47′ 0″ E.

These reefs have consequently been re-inserted on the Admiralty Charts with P. D. against each.

4. The reef previously marked on the Admiralty Charts in lat. 11° 23′ N., long. 101° 48′ E, having been originally placed from an indirect report received in 1864, and having been searched for by some of H.M. Ships unsuccessfully, as well as by other vessels, has now been expunged.

Entry of Foreign men-of-war.

Information has been received from the "Colonial Secretary" at Singapore that all restrictions upon the entry of foreign transports and of men-of-war into the New Harbour, Singapore, have been withdrawn by the instructions of Her Majesty's Government. (See Notice to Mariners, No. 10, Batavia, 1890.)

The only case in which the entry of a foreign ship of war or a transport is likely to be prohibited in time of peace is where no room is available, having regard to the general convenience of the port.

It will not be necessary in future to apply for permission for the entry of a man-of-war or transport into New Harbour.

ESTIMATES OF OUTTURN OF RABI AND SPECIAL CROPS OF BENGAL, 1893-94.

THE following is published for general information.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

C. E. BUCKLAND,

The 5th April, 1894. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

DEPARTMENT OF LAND RECORDS AND AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

Note on the outturn of rabi food-grains and of tobacco, sugarcane, opium, mulberry and ganja in Bengal for 1893-94 (based on returns received from District Officers) down to 29th March 1894.

1. Explanatory.—The returns of the estimates of outturn of rabi and important special crops published in previous years embraced a large number of crops, some of which were unimportant, and others, like cotton and oilseeds, are the subject of special reports. The present returns have been considerably reduced in size by omission of all unimportant crops, and also of those crops, except wheat, which are the subject of special reports. Wheat has been retained in this report, although it is the subject of a special report, in order that the return may be complete for rabi food-crops included under the description of cereals and pulses. Oats have been omitted, because it is believed that they are chiefly grown as a fodder crop for animals.

2. Character of the season.—Unusually heavy rain fell during the first three weeks of October 1893. This, combined with the heavy rainfall in the previous months, enabled the soil to retain a stock of moisture, and was so far beneficial, but at the same time the excessive moisture interfered with the timely preparation of land, and retarded the sowing operations. The heavy rains of October were followed by a long period of rainless weather which, with the exception of a few very light scattered showers in November, continued uninterrupted till the end of January. The rabi crops were seriously affected by the failure of the cold-weather rains. Prospects were somewhat improved by a moderate shower of rain which fell early in February in Bihar, and parts of Chota Nagpur and North Bengal; elsewhere there was no rain till the last days of February, when a period of wet weather set in throughout these Provinces, lasting till the close of the first week of March, and causing more or less damage to the crops which were then either in flower or were approaching maturity. The crops are reported to have suffered in some places from hail-stones at this time; and the wheat crop was injured in parts of Shahabad and Monghyr by blight, which appeared in consequence, no doubt, of the wet and cloudy weather during February and March.

3. Area sown with rabi food-grains.—The area sown with rabi food-grains this year is estimated at 9,044,300 acres against 9,248,000 acres estimated to have been cropped last year. On the whole, it may be said that the areas sown this year in Bihar are generally in excess of those of last year, while in Central and East Bengal there appears to have been a falling off in consequence of the excessive rainfall during the last monsoon.

4. Outturn of the rabi food-grains.—For no district is the outturn of these crops estimated to be above the average. In 23 districts (which include all the districts of the Patna and Bhagalpur Divisions) the outturn is estimated to be between 12 and 16 annas, in 17 districts it is reported to be between 8 and 12 annas, and in four* only is the outturn estimated to be under 8 annas. The mean outturn for these Provinces may be estimated at between 12 and 14 annas or over $\frac{3}{4}$ths of an average crop.

* Patna, Bogra, Puri, and Singhbhum.

A preliminary report on the wheat crop of this year, as it appeared about the middle of January last, was published by this Department on the 14th February 1894. A second report on the same crop will be published in the beginning of May next. The character of the crop was estimated in the preliminary report at about 16 annas. The present returns show slight reductions in the previous estimates of outturn, but on the whole the crop may be safely estimated at about 14 annas.

5. Special Crops.—The special crops reported on are tobacco, sugarcane, opium, mulberry and ganja.

Tobacco.—The tobacco crop was adversely affected by the same climatic conditions as the rabi food-grains in general. Its outturn may be estimated at about 14 annas.

Sugarcane—Was injured by excessive rainfall during the last monsoon season. It is estimated to have yielded about a 13-anna crop.

Opium.—The excessive rainfall during October interfered with the timely preparation of land and the sowing operations. The crop is reported to have been seriously injured in Shahabad by the rainfall during January and February. It may be expected to yield about an average crop on the whole.

Ganja.—The ganja crop in Rajshahi gave a poor outturn 10 annas) owing to the failure of the cold-weather rains.

Assistant to Director of Land Records and Agriculture, Bengal.

COUNTERSIGNED.

Offg. Director of the Dept. of Land Records and Agriculture, Bengal.

							Annas.	Annas
Bankura ...	1,677,440	642,800	Wheat	6,500	4,400	4,900	8½	11	The decrease in the area sown in the case of most of the rabi crops is due to the unfavourable state of the weather at the sowing season; but peas and other rabi crops which do not require much water had a greater cultivation. The weather being favourable since sowing, these crops yielded almost an average crop. The favourable state of the weather in the latter end of the month of October last accounts for the greater cultivation of wheat.
			Barley	4,000	3,000	2,000	10	15

Midnapore ...	3,319,040	2,111,500	Wheat	700	600	700	13	14	The (late) heavy shower of rain has done good to the crops in the Sadar sub-division where the lands are comparatively higher, and a better outturn is expected than in any other sub-division	The meteorological returns show that abundant rainfall in contai in October; November was, however rainless.

			Barley	200	100	220	12	11				of the district. In Contai, want of rain at the ploughing time, and the late heavy rains are the causes which will lead to the outturn falling below the average. In Tamluk, the outturn is likely to be much below the average owing to want of rain since November last. In Ghatal owing to excessive rainfall during the ploughing and sowing time the outturn is expected to be much below the average.

Total ...	3,319,040	2,111,800		181,100	164,900	165,100	11	12
Hooghly ...	1,057,360	702,300	Wheat	100	100	100	10	8				Excess of rainfall during the sowing time has damaged the crops of the Sadar sub-division. Owing to the heavy rains of last season there has been a good deal of water in the fields up to a late period. Hence all the rabi lands could not be sown in time. There has consequently been a falling off both in the cultivated area and in the probable outturn in the Jahanabad Subdivision. Some pulses in the Jahanabad thana have again been damaged by insects. Owing to deficiency of rainfall after sowing of seeds, the crops of the Dubaria sub-division have been damaged to some extent.

outturn was expected, but not more than 14 annas could now be expected for the reasons above stated

In the Jamui sub-division the area sown with wheat, barley and millets this year is less than the area sown last year, as the sowing operations were retarded by excessive rains The area sown with gram is the same as in last year. The increase in the area sown with rabi pulses is attributed to good season in sowing time

In the Begusarai sub-division the crops were affected by late sowings, which were due to heavy rainfalling under water for unusually long time. There was some damage from blight also.

In the Sadar Subdivision, there was more than sufficient moisture in the soil which to some extent injured the seed Subsequently the crop suffered a good deal from drought, in consequence of which the outturn, especially of wheat, has been below the average In the Banka sub-division the rainfall in October and November has been short, and this has stunted the growth of all rabi crops. In the Madhipura sub-division damage was done by prolonged absence of rain between October and December, which told heavily on rabi crops grown in the sandy porous soil, of which this sub-division contains much. In Supaul, the crops were injuriously affected by deficiency of rain at ploughing and sowing time, and subsequently by frequent and heavy showers, which damaged the crop in low-lying tracts.

Director's Office, the normal areas under barley, millets, gram and peas, &c. having been assumed to be equal to those of last year.

Birbhum ..	1,121,920	459,900	Sugarcane ..	7 000	7,000	7,000	8	8	Excess of rainfall at sowing time injured the growth of sugarcane. Deficiency of rain at the time of harvest affected the outturn. Mulberry is a crop which is harvested several times in the year. On the whole the outturn was affected by excess of rain during the Sraban and Aswin bunds. A better outturn is expected in the Chaitra bund.
			Mulberry ..	2,000	2,000	2,000	12	12
Bankura ...	1,677,440	642,800	Tobacco ...	4,000	2 000	1,400	10	12	The unusual falling off in the cultivation of sugarcane is due to the heavy showers at the time of cultivation. This has also affected the outturn of the crop to a considerable extent.	The cause of the great falling off in the area under tobacco is not stated. There is no reason why this year's area should fall so short of the normal.

In Contai the crops have suffered to a certain extent owing to the late rainfall in the sub-division. In Tamluk there has been no rainfall from November last, and hence the outturn has fallen below the average. In Ghatal less area was brought under cultivation, and the outturn is likely to be worse than that of last year.
Hooghly ...	1,057,360	793,920	Tobacco Sugarcane Mulberry	1,400* 13,700* 800*	1,500* 13,00* 1,000	1,400 13,500 900	11 12 11	10 9 11	In the Sadar sub-division the cultivation of sugarcane is better than the last year on account of fair arable rainfall, and the outturn is expected to be 14 annas. In the Serampur sub-division the tobacco crop was benefited by sufficient rainfall at the time of sowing, and a good outturn is expected. The sugarcane crop was damaged to some extent by excessive rains. Owing to the rain continuing till a late season all the lands in the Jahanabad sub-division could not be cultivated, and even the crops that were grown did not yield a good outturn. In the Uluberia sub-division owing to want of timely rainfall the tobacco crop has been damaged to some extent. A better outturn of sugarcane and mulberry is expected.	* These figures differ more or less from the corresponding figures in last year's return.

24-Parganas ...	4,150,020	1,263 600	Tobacco ...	3,000	1,700	600	16	16	The low outturn is due to the unequal distribution of rainfall.	In the estimate of outturn of special crops, 1892-93, the normal area under tobacco was returned as 1,600 acres, and the area cropped last year was stated to be equal to the normal. In last year's return [the normal area under sugarcane was returned as 15,286 acres. It is not understood why the area under sugarcane should fall so short of the normal. Reference has been made to the Collector to explain the reasons for the decrease in area.

The outturn of sugarcane in the Narainganj subdivision will be only 6 annas this year owing to high floods.

It is highly doubtful that there has been really such a great falling off in the area sown with tobacco and sugarcane as the Collector's return shows.

Chittagong ...	1,584,841	795,200	Tobacco	14,700	14,700	9,300	Annas 12	Annas. 8	Heavy rainfall in the last part of October 1893, and between 28th February and 10th March 1894, injuriously affected the tobacco crop. Sugarcane suffered from the heavy rain in May and June, when earthing and manuring are done.	The cause of the great decline in the areas sown with sugarcane and tobacco is not understood.

Shahabad ...	2,793,600	1,715,500	Opium (poppy)	92,300	52,300	55,400	10	9	Sugarcane suffered from excessive rainfall. The rainfall during the months of January and February has proved injurious to the poppy crop	This return has not been prepared with sufficient care. The total area cropped last year with poppy, tobacco and sugarcane does not agree with the area returned in last year's estimate of outturn of special crops. The area cropped with each of these crops ought to have been shown separately.
			Tobacco
			Sugarcane ..							A 9-anna estimate of the poppy crop in Shahabad would appear to be low by comparison with the reported outturn in the adjoining districts of Gaya and Saran

Saran	1,697,920	1,382,500	Opium (poppy)	42,500	42,500	43,000	16	16	The increase in area is due to favourable moisture at the time of sowing. In the Gopalganj sub-division a bumper poppy crop was expected, but damp weather during the first fortnight of March 1894 brought about a blight called moorkha by the natives which has done considerable mischief (reducing the outturn to 1½ annas). The weather having continued favourable, a better outturn of poppy is expected than last year.

In the Sadar sub-division the unfavourable weather in February affected the outturn of poppy. In Samastipur the poppy crop was sown late, and its outturn will be less than last year. The late rainfall has improved the condition of the tobacco crop, and its outturn will be therefore better than last year.

The crops are continuing good and the outturn estimated may be generally expected if the weather, which is favourable for the crops, continues for some time more.	* The Collector returned the aggregate normal area under the three crops to be 49,000 acres. The area has been distributed among them in proportion to their respective areas sown this year. 49,000 acres seem to be a very high estimate of the normal area as compared with the areas estimated to have been sown this and last year. It is not explained why the outturn of the poppy crop should be below the average in spite of the season having proved favourable.

Puri ...	1,582,720	721,100	Tobacco ..	6,400	6,400	2,500	4	3	The decrease in the outturn of tobacco is attributable to want of rainfall in proper season and that in the outturn of sugarcane has its origin in the fact that the crop was damaged partly by insects and partly by flood water.	The estimates of normal areas appear to be high. Puri appears to have received more rain than the neighbouring districts o Orissa since October last. It is not therefore understood why the outturn of tobacco should be so low.

The Deputy Commissioner returned the area under sugarcane to be 128,000 acres, which is incredible.

The results of observations at the Alipore Observatory are not rigorously comparable with the registers of past years (at the Park Street Observatory). The barometer is about 8 feet higher at Alipore, and, other things being equal, reads therefore ·003 lower. The diurnal range of temperature is also greater at Alipore, and the mean temperature apparently about 1·0° lower; and, finally, the thermometer which furnished the record of temperature at the Surveyor-General's Office during 20 years and upwards is found to read 0·6 higher than the Kew standard thermometer, which is the standard of reference at the present Observatory.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE MONTH OF MARCH 1894.

THE principal features in the meteorology of March 1894 have been—

1. The mean pressure for the month has been below the normal in all districts. The defect has been moderate, exceeding 0·045 inch in North Bihar and in the extreme east of the province, while it has ranged up to rather more than 0·04 inch in South-East Bengal and Assam. On the other hand, the defect has been comparatively small in Chota Nagpur and the west of Bihar, where it has equalled only a little more than 0·01 inch.

2. The mean temperature for the month has been slightly above the normal over the southern half of the province, and in slight defect over the northern half. Taking the whole of Bengal and Assam into consideration, the mean temperature has been in excess by 0·2°, but while Orissa has shown an excess of 1·4° and South-West Bengal one of 0·8°, on the other hand Assam has shown a defect of 0·6° and Bihar one of 0·5°. The largest variations have been shown in the day, or maximum, temperatures, which have been in excess at the great majority of stations.

3. Humidity has been lower than usual at the majority of stations, and the defect has been largely noticeable in South-West Bengal. Cloud proportion, on the other hand, has been above the normal at the majority of stations by small amounts, except, perhaps, in Assam, where the sky has been less clouded than usual.

4. Winds during March have had an unusually strong westerly element in them, and, except at a few of the eastern stations, where easterly and north-easterly winds have been reported, winds have been westerly or west-south-westerly in almost all cases. The northerly element in the wind directions, which sometimes prevails in March, has not been strongly developed.

5. Fine settled weather has prevailed over the province for the greater part of the month, and the only disturbed conditions of any importance were in connection with a barometric depression which occurred over Bengal during the first week of the month. Practically none of the barometric depressions or storms originating in or travelling through North-Western India advanced over Bengal, and hence the province was remarkably free from disturbance during the month.

6. Owing to the absence of disturbed and unsettled weather, the amount of rain which has been received over the province has been very small, except in East Bengal. The falls in most divisions have averaged less than, or about a quarter of an inch, and in South-West Bengal the fall has been less than, two-thirds of an inch. The falls have hence been much below the normal in all divisions except East Bengal, which, on the other hand, has received the large average fall of 4·71 inches, or about sixty per cent. more than usual in March.

The following summary will give a short description of the more important changes during the month:—

On the 1st of March pressure had given way rapidly in Bengal, the fall equalling in some cases about a seventh of an inch, and a very influential barometric depression was formed over the western half of the province, while the differences of pressure over the Bay became considerable. Local storms with rain were therefore numerous, and rather strong southerly winds were blowing at the head of the Bay. On the 2nd of March a further fall of pressure took place over the greater part of Bengal, and the depression moved somewhat in an easterly direction, and at some stations pressure was a fifth of an inch below the normal. Again, local storms with rain were numerous, and in some cases they were severe, and Barisal reported 3·55 inches during a thunderstorm with hail. Madaripur in the Faridpur district also registered 4·70 inches of rain, Gournadi (Backergunge district) 3·48 inches, Ramganj (Noakhali district) 4·65 inches, Mirsarai (Chittagong district) 5·82 inches, and Rangamatia 3·72 inches. On the 3rd March a rather brisk fall of pressure had again occurred in Bengal, and pressure became in defect by amounts ranging up to 0·285 inch at Malda. Disturbed conditions therefore continued, and several heavy falls of rain accompanying local storms were reported, Rangamatia receiving the very heavy fall of 7·52 inches. With this pressure distribution also strong southerly winds were blowing over the province from the Bay, bringing up much moisture, while temperature was also generally in excess by about 8°. On the 4th pressure rose slowly and conditions were less disturbed, but on the 5th pressure again fell briskly, particularly in South-West Bengal and Orissa, and the depression over Bengal increased in depth, and on the 5th and 6th local storms with rain were rather numerous. On the 7th and 8th the depression which had so long existed over Bengal steadily filled up, and on the 9th it had almost disappeared, and dry westerly and north-westerly winds flowed over the province, while the local storms practically ceased. On the 11th, however, a slight recurrence of the previous conditions was noticed. A brisk fall of pressure took place on this date over Chota Nagpur and the neighbouring districts, and a distinct barometric depression was formed, the winds at the neighbouring stations showing indraught towards the small storm. The small depression, however, moved away rapidly in a south-easterly direction, and on the 12th it was in South-East Bengal. In its passage it gave moderate rain in South-West and South-East Bengal. The pressure changes on the 12th and 13th caused almost a reversion to the pressure distribution of February, and with the high pressure thus established north-westerly and westerly winds set in over a large part of the province, and weather became fine and dry in all districts. The excess pressure gradually disappeared, and winds became less northerly, while at the southern stations winds were more or less southerly from about the 17th instant, but from this date to the close of the month the changes continued unimportant, and ordinary hot-weather conditions prevailed. Hence during this period the changes call for no detailed review.

Pressure.—In the early part of the month pressure was below the normal by about a tenth of an inch. In the week ending the 10th instant the defect had increased up to about 0·15 inch. In the following week for the first few days pressure was in defect, it was decidedly in excess in the middle of the week, and nearly normal at its close. In the week ending the 24th the defective pressure had quite disappeared, and an excess of about 0·02 to 0·03 inch was registered, while in the last week the excess had increased and ranged from about 0·05 inch at the eastern stations to about 0·08 to 0·10 inch at the western stations. Hence the mean pressure for the whole month was below the normal, the defect equalling about 0 01 to 0 02 inch over the greater part of the western half of the province, while defects of 0·03 to 0·04 inch have been registered at the western and a few of the northern stations. The actual defects have ranged from 0·010 inch at Ranchi and 0·009 inch at Bankura to 0·046 inch at Sibsagar and 0·042 inch at Chittagong.

Temperature.—The mean temperature for the month has been in excess of the normal in South-West and East Bengal, in Bihar, and Chota Nagpur by amounts which have generally averaged less than a degree. Slight defects, on the other hand, have been registered in North Bengal, Bihar and Orissa, the defects usually equalling about half a degree. Hence the general temperature for the whole province has been very slightly in excess, the excess for Bengal equalling about 0·3°.

The following table shows the variation of temperature from the normal, week by week, for the month at nine typical stations in different districts of the province:—

Rainfall.—The average fall of rain in East Bengal has equalled 4·71 inches, or 1·85 inch more than usually falls in March. South-West Bengal has received the next largest amount of 0·61 inch, or about two-fifths of the normal amount. In North Bengal and Orissa the falls have averaged about a quarter of an inch, while in Chota Nagpur the average fall was only 0·03 inch. Hence in these divisions the falls have been very largely below the normal amounts.

In East Bengal the falls have been exceedingly heavy in the South Lushai Hills, where 23·6 inches have been registered, or 20·82 inches more than usual. The districts of Chittagong and Noakhali have also received very heavy falls. Indeed, all districts in this division have received abundant rain except Mymensingh. In South-West Bengal the districts which have received fairly good rain have been Khulna, Jessore, and Calcutta, while Bankura, Birbhum and Murshidabad have received very little rain. In the remaining divisions practically all districts have received very scanty rainfall.

In Assam Silchar has reported 9·71 inches, Sibsagar 3·16 inches, and Goalpara 0·15 inch of rain during March.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the month of March 1894 :—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

† Mean of 6 days.

Explanation.—Summary—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period for 1
The Amount of the atmosphere is expressed at percentage, saturated air being represented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. T mean are the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the subdivisions stations for the period in questi Stations in the district sending in returns divided by the number of stations. A rainy day is one of which at least a tenth of an inch fell.

CALCUTTA, the 10*th April* 1894.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY, THE 7TH OF APRIL 1894.

THROUGHOUT the whole of the previous week fine settled weather of ordinary hot-weather character had prevailed in Bengal. On the 1st of April, or the first day of the week under review, a brisk to rapid fall of pressure occurred, the fall exceeding a tenth of an inch in parts of Bihar, North Bengal and Assam, but still pressure was slightly above the normal of the day. Temperature also rose rather rapidly, and the day temperature became decidedly in excess of the normal. Fine settled weather, however, still prevailed, and no rain was reported. On the 2nd the fall of pressure continued, and slightly defective pressure was recorded, particularly at the western stations, while temperature and humidity again increased at the majority of stations. Rather strong southerly winds also set in at the head of the Bay, bringing up considerable amounts of moisture. Conditions on this day were, however, not quite so settled as they had been, and local storms occurred in Assam, where Sibsagar reported 0·70 inch of rain. On the 3rd instant the pressure changes were small, and the general pressure continued in moderate defect. Strong, moist, southerly, and in many cases south-easterly winds continued to blow from the Bay into Bengal, and these winds were met over the western districts of the province by dry westerly winds blowing down the Gangetic plain. Hence a considerable amount of interaction took place between these opposing wind systems, and rather numerous local storms with rain occurred, rain being reported in South and East Bengal and Orissa, while Bogra reported a thunderstorm with hail, and a snowstorm occurred at Gnatong. A slight to rapid increase of pressure occurred in Bengal on the 4th, the change being small in the south-western districts and large in parts of Assam and North Bengal, pointing to the continuance of decidedly disturbed conditions, and again rather numerous local storms with rain occurred, Naraingunge reporting 0·81 inch of rain with hail during a thunderstorm, while again a snowstorm occurred at Gnatong. A small but irregular increase of pressure occurred on the 5th, showing that disturbed conditions still continued, and again a few local storms with rain, etc., occurred, Gnatong receiving 0·27 inch of snow during a snowstorm. On the 6th a brisk fall of pressure recommenced in Bengal, the fall in some parts of Assam equalling an eighth of an inch. Rather strong southerly winds continued to blow from the Bay over Bengal, and again a good many local storms had occurred, Calcutta reporting 0·55 inch, while Burdwan had received 0·25 inch of rain accompanied by hail. On the 7th, or the last day of the week, pressure had fallen very rapidly, the fall at many of the northern stations ranging up to nearly a fifth of an inch and equalling more than a tenth of an inch at the southern stations. Hence pressure over Bengal became so low that a barometric depression existed over parts of North Bengal, where there was a defect exceeding a fifth of an inch. Winds also generally became more westerly in connection with this low-pressure area, while temperature rose and generally became in excess of the normal by from 1° to 3°. With the extension of dry westerly winds, however, the number of local storms rapidly decreased, and on the 7th practically no rain was reported.

Pressure.—At the great majority of stations the mean pressure for the week has been slightly below the normal, but the defect is generally not larger than about 0·02″. The pressure variations are, however, decidedly variable even at neighbouring stations, and the extreme variations are from a defect of 0·054″ at Buxar to an excess of 0·016″ at Chittagong and Darjeeling.

Temperature.—The changes of temperature during the week have been rather large and irregular, and have been to a considerable extent due to the occurrence of local storms with rain. For the whole week the mean temperature of the province has been about 0·6° above the normal, the excess being mainly confined to Chota Nagpur and South-West Bengal.

The actual temperatures registered during the week and their variations from the normal temperature for the present season are most clearly seen in the table below, where the average maximum, minimum and mean temperatures for the week at nine typical stations in the province are compared with the normal values for the same period. The day, or maximum, readings for the week have shown a slightly lower temperature than usual, and the defect at the nine stations in the maximum, or day, temperature has equalled 0·2°, while the night, or minimum, temperature has been in rather larger defect, the variation at the nine stations averaging nearly 0·3° :—

Rainfall.—The heaviest falls have occurred in East Bengal, where an average amount of 0·88 inch has been recorded, which is about double the normal amount for the period. In North Bengal the falls have averaged 0·60 inch, which is again rather more than double the usual amount for the season, and in Orissa 0·30 inch has fallen, which is a little less than double the usual amount. In South-West Bengal the falls have only averaged 0·15 inch, or about half the usual amount, and it has been practically rainless in Bihar and Chota Nagpur.

1. The examination is held annually at the Civil Engineering College, Sibpur, on the 1st Monday in June. The examination will be conducted either at the College or by an Examiner, Public Works Accounts (including Railway and Telegraph), in Bengal, Assam and Burma only. The examination will be ipso facto vitiated if it be not held (begun and completed) on the dates fixed, but the officer who will conduct the examination may make his own arrangements in regard to the place and hour of examination with the candidates.

Candidates will not be examined in any of the Calcutta offices.

A candidate already in permanent Government employ* may be allowed to compete in the examination even if he is more than 25 years of age, and may be appointed to an accountantship if he passes it, but if he is not already in pensionable service, he will be eligible only for appointment to the non-pensionable establishment on State Railways.

* This term includes employment under Local Boards and foreign bodies if such is pensionable by the British Government.

2. The candidate should apply to an Examiner of Public Works Accounts not later than 30 days previous to the date fixed for the examination, and obtain his consent to conduct the examination, if examination at the College is not convenient. The application must bear the address of the candidate, must be accompanied by a fee of Rs. 10 and the following certificates, and must forwarded by him, not direct to the Principal, but through the Examiner.

Certificates may be submitted in original, or true copies attested by an officer of the Engineer or Accounts Branch, but none will be returned :—

(1) Certificate of good character signed by applicant's immediate official superior or by the instructor under whom he has been educated, or by some other superior under whom he may have been brought up or employed, or to whom he may be well known. This certificate must have special reference to the two years immediately preceding the application.

(2) Certificate of age (baptismal or of birth not required if the candidate is already in permanent Government employ).

(3) Certificate that the application is in the candidate's handwriting.

It will rest with the Examiner of Accounts, to whom the candidate submits his application, on a consideration of these certificates, to decide whether the candidate should be registered for the examination or whether his application should be rejected. He will only forward the names of accepted candidates to the Principal together with their applications in their own handwriting, statement of their ages, and fees. These should be transmitted altogether under one covering letter on the last day allowed by the rule.

3. Examination papers that are issued for examination need not be returned.

4. Each examination is complete in itself. A candidate who has failed in an examination, and presents himself for examination on a subsequent occasion must undergo the full examination and furnish fresh fee and certificates.

5. Passed candidates should apply, not to the Principal of the College, nor to the Accountant-General, Public Works Department, but direct to the Examiner of Public Works Accounts in the province or railway under whom they may desire to be employed.

6. It must be distinctly understood that the passing of this examination does not give any claim to an appointment, and that in making appointments preference will be given to qualified persons who are already employed in the department.

7. The Civil Engineering College acts solely as an examining body in reference to admission to the 4th grade of Accountants, Public Works Department.

J. S. SLATER,
Principal, Civil Engineering College.

SIBPUR, the 30th March 1894.

N.B.—The attention of candidates is drawn to the alteration in Rule 2 (3). In future no candidate is to apply direct to the Principal for permission to attend the examination, but must send his application through an Examiner of Public Works Accounts, who will decide whether the candidate is to be admitted. The Principal will attend to no applications received direct.

[See Civil Account Code, Article 20, Chapter I.]

BUDGET ESTIMATES.

12. The Collector of the district shall, on or before the 1st October in each year, prepare and transmit to the District Board an estimate of the balance of the District Road Fund to be transferred to the credit of the District Fund during the financial year next ensuing under section 52, clause (1) of the Act.

13. A budget estimate in Form No. I, showing the probable receipts and expenditure of the District Fund under all heads during ensuing financial year shall be prepared by the Finance Committee constituted under section 55 of the Act, and shall be laid before the District Board at a meeting to be held not later than the 15th October in each year. The budget shall be submitted to the Commissioner of the Division not later than the 1st of November, and by the Commissioner to the Accountant-General on the 1st of December.

14. The budget estimate shall set forth estimated receipts and expenditure under major, minor, and detailed heads of account, and the opening and closing balances; and shall be accompanied—(a) by a schedule in Form No. IA for each major head, in which shall be entered full details of the estimated receipts and expenditure under that head, working up to the totals shown under that head in the budget estimate; (b) by explanatory notes showing, wherever necessary, how the figures have been arrived at, and especially explaining any new and important item of receipt or expenditure; and (c) when any new charge requires the sanction of superior authority, by a copy of the order of sanction.

NOTE.—In entering the details of receipts and expenditure in the schedule for each major head, the same forms and the same degree of particularity shall be observed as are prescribed for district budget estimates under the orders of Government, the Accountant-General, Bengal, or other competent authority. 15. The District Board shall never, except with the previous sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor, exhaust or exceed its balance in the treasury; and the budget estimates shall be framed so as to provide for an edequate working balance throughout the year, and for an adequate closing balance. The Commissioner shall decide what constitutes an adequate working and closing balance, and his decision, which shall be final, shall be communicated to the Accountant-General, Bengal.

16. No change shall be made in the prescribed major and minor heads of account, unless authority for an alteration is communicated to the District Board by the Accountant-General, Bengal. If, therefore, any additions or alterations are thought to be required, the question should at once be referred to the Accountant-General, who will, if necessary, submit the question for the orders of Government. If, for administrative purposes, it is found convenient to subdivide the detailed heads in the abstract registers, there is no objection to this being done; but all statements and returns shall be compiled according to the headings here prescribed.

17. In preparing the budget, what is expected to be paid (under proper sanction) during the year shall be provided for, not the liability likely to be incurred or falling due within the year.

18. For fixed charges, the explanatory notes should show the full sanctioned scale, the number of employés, rate of pay, &c.

19. Chairman, District Board.

20. If at any time during the year the District Board has reason to believe that the budget under any head is likely to be exceeded, and that the excess cannot be met by a reduction under some other head, a supplementary budget estimate shall be prepared with the least possible delay and submitted through the Magistrate for the orders of the Commissioner in the manner prescribed in sections 47 to 49 of the Act.

21. If the Board has reason to suppose the receipts under any head are likely to fall materially short of the budget estimate, a revised budget estimate shall be prepared with the least possible delay, and submitted as above for the orders of the Commissioner.

TRANSACTIONS WITH THE TREASURY.

22 The District Fund shall be lodged with the Collector of the district, who shall keep a separate account thereof.

23. All sums due by any person to the District Board, and all moneys collected by authorized servants of the Board, as well as rents due by pound and ferry farmers, should be sent direct to the treasury to be credited to the District Fund and should not be sent through the office of the District Board. Moneys collected by servants of the Board must be remitted in full to the treasury, and no portion thereof may be appropriated towards expenditure, except in certain cases of school fees and fines referred to in rule 101.

If in any case money is tendered at the office of the Board, the person tendering it should be directed to take it to the treasury, where it will be received and credited to the District Fund.

When money is remitted to a District Board by means of post office money-orders, they will, in accordance with the post office rules on the subject, be sent by the post office of payment direct to the Treasury Officer for adjustment of the amount by book transfer to the credit of the District Fund. An advice list with coupons and acknowledgments attached will be sent on the same day by the Treasury Officer to the District Board's office in token of the adjustment having been made.

24 All money paid into the treasury, otherwise than by money-order, to the credit of the District Fund, whether by servants of the District Board or others, shall be accompanied by a chalan in Form No. II.

This chalan shall be in triplicate, having the words "Original," "Duplicate" and "Triplicate" printed or written in red on the first, second and third parts respectively The first part shall be retained by the treasury office, the second part shall be returned with the pass-book on the same day to the office of the District Board, and the third part shall be delivered to the person paying in the money.

25. All moneys remitted to the treasury to credit of the District Board, and all payments made by the treasury on cheques or otherwise on account of the District Board, shall be entered in a pass-book; the pass-book shall remain in the custody of the Chairman, and it shall be sent to the treasury on the last working day of every month. On receipt of the pass-book by the treasury officials, the receipts and payments up to date, and credits referred to in rules 30 and 31, shall be entered therein, and the accounts shall be balanced and signed by the Treasury Officer, the amount being entered in words as well as figures. The book shall then be returned at once to the office of the District Board.

26. The pass-book will be supplied by the treasury. It is not a District Fund account book, but is simply a copy of the account kept in the treasury of the money paid in to the credit of, and disbursed on account of, the District Board, and must therefore always be written up only by the Government Treasury Department by whom the original account is kept.

27. No entries or marks shall, under any circumstances, be made in the pass-book by any one connected with the District Board's office.

28. The Chairman shall examine this pass-book from time to time, and shall immediately call the attention of the Treasury Officer to any discrepancy that may appear between the credits and debits shown in the pass-book, and those shown in the accounts of the District Board's office.

29. The form of the pass-book is as follows:—

DR. The Treasury or Bank of..... .... in Account Current with the District Fund ... ... CR.

Monthly consecutive number of item of receipt	Date.	No. of Chalan.	Initials of Treasury Officer.	AMOUNT. Rs.	A.	P.	Monthly consecutive number of item of payment.	Date.	No. of Cheque.	Initials of Treasury Officer.	AMOUNT Rs.	A.	P.

30. When a grant is made to the District Fund from Provincial revenues, either as a general grant-in-aid, or for expenditure on any specific object, the Accountant-General shall, in the first case, at the beginning of the year, or, in the second case, on receipt of orders, instruct the Treasury Officer to credit the amount of the grant to the District Fund. The credit shall be made by book transfer; no bill or cheque shall be drawn, and no money shall be paid out of the treasury.

31. On the last working day of each month the Collector shall transfer to the credit of the District Fund, and shall enter in the pass-book, the amounts calculated in accordance with Accountant-General's standing orders, Chapter VI, Part I, Rule 3, clause 12—

(b) Cess on mines and railways.
(c) Interest on arrear collections of road cess.
(d) Miscellaneous.
(e) Recoveries on account of cost of collection of arrear cess.

32. The Treasury Officer shall supply the Chairman, immediately after the close of each month, with a balance certificate in the following form:—

	Rs. A. P.		Rs. A. P.
1. Balance brought forward from last month ...		4. Debited in cash account of this month ...
2. Credited in cash account of this month ...		5. Other debits, as per Accountant-General's No. , dated ...
3. Other credits, as per Accountant-General's No. , dated ...		6. Balance at end of month
Total ...		Total ...

33. This certificate shall be sent by the District Board to the Accountant-General, Bengal, attached to the monthly account and audit certificate.

PAYMENT OF CLAIMS.

34. For the payment of petty charges, the Chairman shall hold a permanent advance of such amount as the District Board may fix from time to time; provided that, without the sanction of the Commissioner, the District Board shall not fix the amount of the permanent advance at more than Rs. 100.

35. The permanent advance shall be recouped as often as may be necessary in the manner prescribed in Rules 65 and 66 below.

36. Payments of not more than Rs. 20 shall be made from the permanent advance; provided that no charge on account of the salary of any employé of the District Board shall be made otherwise than as prescribed in Rules 38 and 42.

37. All payments exceeding Rs. 20 shall be made by cheque, unless there are special circumstances rendering payments in cash desirable; provided that all payments of sums above Rs. 10 on account of salaries of employés of the District Board shall be made by cheque.

38. Cheque-books will be supplied by the Treasury Officer only, and no other form shall be used. The cheque-books and the counterfoils of used cheques shall be kept in the custody of the Chairman.

39. On receipt of a cheque-book from the treasury, the officer to whom the duty of signing cheques is allotted shall count the cheques, and shall record on the back of the cheque-book that "this cheque-book contains ..... forms".

40. Cheques for sums not exceeding Rs. 100 shall be signed by the Vice-Chairman, or by the Chairman, or if both be absent, by a member of the Finance Committee. Cheques for sums exceeding Rs. 100 shall be signed both by the Chairman and the Vice-Chairman, and if either of them be absent, such cheques shall be signed by the Chairman or Vice-Chairman present and another member of the Finance Committee.

41. No cheque shall be signed unless required for immediate delivery to the person to whom the money is to be paid.

42. Every cheque shall be drawn in English in favour of the person to whom the money is actually due. Payment shall not be made to any other person except on production of a written authority from the creditor to receive it on his behalf. The rule does not apply to cheques issued for a sum of money distributable as pay or wages among a number of District Fund employés, or for recouping the permanent advance, or for payment to a postmaster for a money-order or money-orders issued for payment of stipends or rewards to gurus. Whenever money is paid to persons who are illiterate and unable to sign their names in acknowledgment, the payee shall make his mark; the fact of the payment shall be certified to by the officer who pays and by a witness of respectability.

43. The amount of every cheque shall be written in words as well as in figures, both on the cheque itself and on the counterfoil, and the counterfoil shall be initialled by the person or persons who sign the cheque. The word "only" shall always be inserted after the amount written in words in the body of the cheque.

44. Every cheque drawn for a sum in excess of Rs. 20 shall bear a receipt stamp of the value of one anna, and such receipt stamp shall be affixed before the cheque is signed.

45. When a signed cheque is cancelled, it shall be enfaced or stamped "cancelled" by the Chairman, and shall be destroyed as soon as the accounts for the month in which the cheque was drawn have been audited by the Finance Committee.

46. The fact of cancellation shall be noted in red ink under the initials of the drawer of the cheque upon the counterfoil and also across the passing order which has been enfaced upon the voucher.

47. If the cheque is cancelled in the month of issue before the cash-book is closed and before the abstract register has been posted, all that is necessary is to strike out the entry in red ink under the initials of the Chairman. If, however, the abstract register has been posted and the correction is made in the same year, the cheque shall be removed from the list of outstanding cheques, and the amount credited in the cash-book as a miscellaneous receipt, "deduct" entries being at the same time made in the adjustment register under that head and the head of expenditure to which it was originally charged.

48. In rare instances it may happen that a cheque is cancelled after the accounts of the year have been compiled and published. In this case the cheque shall be removed from the list of outstanding cheques, and the amount shall only be entered in the cash book as a miscellaneous receipt.

49. Cheques are current for three months only. After the expiration of that period payment will be refused at the treasury, and the person in whose favour the cheque was drawn will therefore have to bring it back to be re-dated. No fresh cheque should be issued; the lapsed cheque shall simply be re-dated and the alteration initialled by the Chairman or official whose duty it would be to sign the cheque under rule. A note of the fact of re-dating shall be entered in the cash-book against the original transaction. The alteration will in no way affect the accounts, and no further entries shall be made.

50. Every bill or other claim for payment from the District Fund shall be presented in the first instance to the Accountant, who shall check and examine it, and if it be found correct and in order shall submit it for orders to the Chairman. If payment of the bill so presented is to be made, an order for the payment shall be endorsed upon it. The order for payment shall run as follows:—"Pay Rupees only (Rs.)," the amount being written in words as well as in figures, and shall be signed by the Chairman.

51. If payment is to be made from the permanent advance, the procedure laid down in rules 62 to 66 shall be adopted.

52. If payment is to be made by cheque, the Chairman shall cause the bill to be endorsed with the words "paid by cheque No. ," and shall then sign the endorsement and cause the cheque to be drawn out, signed and issued. Whenever necessary and convenient to the treasury, cheques issued from the District Board's office may be enfaced at the district treasury for payment at a sub-treasury. In all such cases the cheque with the contractor's certificate or bill shall be sent from the District Board's office to the Chairman of the Local Board, where there is a Local Board, or to the Subdivisional Officer in charge of the sub-treasury concerned for delivery to the payee, an advice under registered cover being sent at the same time to the payee. On delivery of the cheque, the contractor will sign the receipt on the certificate or bill form, and the Chairman of the Local Board, or Subdivisional Officer, will return the bill direct to the District Board's office.

53. When any payment is made either by cheque or in cash from the permanent advance, it shall be immediately entered in the accounts of the District Board. In the former case it shall be entered in the cash-book Form No. III. In the latter case, it shall be entered in the permanent advance account Form No. XIII.

54. Every payment made, either in cash or by cheque, shall be covered by a receipt, stamped if necessary, signed by the person to whom the money is due and to whom it has actually been paid. A receipt signed by another person for the creditor, or with a stamp, is invalid.

55. Bills and vouchers that have been paid by cheque shall be numbered consecutively for the year in order of payment, and shall be pasted in a guard book.

But sub-vouchers, which have been paid in cash out of the permanent advance, shall be separately filed, together with the recoupment voucher covering them. A memorandum instead of this voucher shall be pasted into the guard book mentioned above, viz.:—

MEMORANDUM.

Voucher No. , dated , for Rs. in recoupment of the Chairman's permanent advance will be found in the separate file.

CASH-BOOK.

56. The District Fund cash-book shall be kept in Form No. III.

The receipt entries in this book shall be made as follows:—

(1) In the case of money remitted to the treasury (otherwise than by money-orders) for credit to the District Fund under Rule 23, from the duplicate chalans mentioned in Rule 24.

(2) In the case of money-orders from the coupons attached to the advice list received from the Treasury Officer.

(3) In the case of the book adjustments specified in Rules 32 and 33 from the pass-book.

Expenditure shall be entered day by day as cheques are issued (see also Rule 53).

57. The cash-book shall be closed and balanced once a month and shall be signed by the Chairman. In the event of any cheques issued during a month remaining uncashed by the treasury at close of the month, there will necessarily be a difference between the balance brought out in the cash-book and that of the treasury pass-book, and of the certificate issued by the Treasury Officer under Rule 33. This difference shall be explained by a note in the last page of the cash-book for the month in the following manner: —

	Rs. A. P.	Rs. A. P.

PERMANENT ADVANCE.

58. On first receiving or taking charge of the permanent advance, the Chairman shall sign and file an acknowledgment in these terms:—"I acknowledge to have in my possession a permanent advance of Rupees (Rs.), which sum is due from me to the District Board, and I am personally accountable for the amount."

59. A similar acknowledgment shall also be given by the Chairman on the first working day of each year.

60. The permanent advance when first drawn shall be charged in the cash-book to the head "Advances," and shall be debited to the Chairman's account in the advance ledger.

61. There will be no further operations upon the ledger account until the advance is finally repaid. It need not be repaid at the end of each year. If the amount originally fixed for the permanent advance is subsequently increased or decreased by the District Board, the original advance shall be repaid and a fresh advance drawn.

62 The Chairman shall make payments from his permanent advance from time to time as may be required, and for each payment he shall obtain and hold a bill receipted by the payee, or, in the case of petty office expenses, a written detailed statement of the sums spent.

63. These bills or statements shall be numbered consecutively, enfaced or stamped "Paid in cash," and entered in the Register in Form No. XIII, the classification of the charges being carefully entered in the columns provided for the purpose.

64. The permanent advance may be recouped whenever necessary, and it must always be recouped on the last working day of the month.

65. The procedure of recoupment is as follows:—

The Chairman shall compare the sub-vouchers with the entries in the permanent advance account; he shall deface them by stamping them "cancelled," so that they cannot be used again. He shall total and initial the column "Amount of sub-voucher" in the permanent advance account, and also the amounts in the classification columns, the cross total of which should agree with the total of the column "Amount of sub-voucher," and shall rule a red ink line across the page immediately above which in the last two columns the number, date and amount of the voucher for recoupment shall be shown.

66. The voucher for recoupment shall be drawn out in Form No. XIV, and it shall be enfaced with the usual payment order. The Chairman shall draw out a cheque in his own favour for the amount, and sign the certificate in the voucher and the entries in the last two columns of the register.

ABSTRACT REGISTER OF RECEIPTS AND EXPENDITURE.

67. All the entries on the receipt side of the cash-book Form No. III shall be posted direct from the cash-book into the abstract register of receipts Form No. IV, and all the entries on the payment side of the cash-book shall be posted into the abstract register of expenditure Form No. V.

68. The abstract registers shall be posted as frequently as may be convenient, but in no case later than ten days after the close of the month to which the accounts relate.

69. Each item of receipt or payment appearing in the cash-book shall be posted separately into the abstract registers. Thus, if there be two or three payments on the same day on account of the same head of expenditure, there will similarly be two or three entries under the same head in the abstract register, i.e., the separate items appearing in the cash-book, and not the total of the daily receipts or expenditure for each head, shall be posted into the abstract registers.

70. The columns of the abstract registers shall be totalled every month, and the totals of the cash transactions must necessarily be equal to the totals of receipts and payments in the cash-book.

ADJUSTMENTS.

71. For the record of transactions other than cash, a register of adjustments shall be opened in Form No VI, in which a few sample headings have been given in way of illustration. The chief adjustments are—

(1) Rectification of errors in classification.
(2) The adjustment of a bill against an advance.
(3) The charge to a head of expenditure by credit to deposits of a sum due on a contractor's bill, which sum is retained as a security deposit.
(4) Adjustments due to refunds of income or recoveries of expenditure.

These transactions shall be entered item by item in the register of adjustments Form No. VI, whence the totals pass into the abstract registers of receipts and expenditure.

72. The method of entry in the register of adjustments is as follows :—

In case (1) the adjustment shall be made by entering the amount in the space for "add entries" in the column for the head to which the amount is to be added, and again in red ink in the space for "deduct entries" in the column for the head from which the amount is to be deducted Both entries will be made on the receipt side if the amount is to be transferred from one head of receipt to another, and both will be made on the expenditure side if the amount is to be transferred from one head of expenditure to another.

In case (2) the adjustment shall be made by entering the amount in the space for "add entries" in the column of the expenditure side for the head to which charges on account of the particular expenditure incurred are to be taken, and on the receipt side in the space for "deduct entries" under the head "Advances recovered." A corresponding entry must of course be made on the receipt or credit side of the advance ledger Form No. XV of the person by whom the expenditure was incurred, and to whom the amount adjusted was originally advanced.

In case (3) the adjustment shall be made by entering the amount on the expenditure side in the space for "add entries" in the column for the head to which the balance of the charges of the bill from which the deduction has been made has been taken, and on the receipt side in the spaces for "add entries" under "Deposits received."

In case (4) an adjustment shall be made only when the income was originally received or the expenditure incurred in the same year in which the refund or recovery is made.

When income is refunded the refund shall be charged in the cash-book to the major head of expenditure corresponding to the major head of receipt to which it was originally credited, or if there is no such head, to "32, Miscellaneous." The amount shall then be deducted in the adjustment register from both the head of receipt to which it was originally credited and the head of expenditure to which the refund is charged.

When expenditure is recovered, the amount shall be credited in the cash-book to the major head of receipt corresponding to the major head to which the expenditure was originally charged, or if there is no such head to "XXV—Miscellaneous." The amount shall then be deducted in the adjustment register from both the head of expenditure to which it was originally charged, and the head of receipt to which the recovery is credited.

73. Adjustments made by deduction in the abstract registers shall always be written in red ink.

MONTHLY, QUARTERLY AND ANNUAL ACCOUNTS.

74. Registers of monthly receipts and expenditure shall be kept in Forms Nos. VII and VIII, and shall be compiled from the abstract registers. The progress of expenditure as compared with allotment shall be shown in such detail as may be necessary, the particulars being obtained from the cash-book. The monthly account in Form No. IX, posted from the monthly registers, shall be despatched to the Accountant-General, Bengal, not later than the 25th day of the month following that for which the accounts are due.

75. The quarterly and annual accounts shall be posted from the monthly account, and shall be in Forms Nos. X and XI. The annual account shall be accompanied by a schedule setting forth the sums expended on each work under—

45—Civil Works—
Original works—
1. Civil buildings.
2. Communications.
3. Miscellaneous public improvements.
Water-supply and water-works—
1. New tanks and wells.
Drainage works.

These details shall be obtained from the register of works which shall be carefully compared every month with the register of monthly expenditure, Form No. VIII.

76. The quarterly account shall be published by lodging a copy, signed by the members of the Finance Committee and countersigned by both Chairman and Vice-Chairman, in the office of Magistrate and Collector of the district. The annual account shall be published by lodging a copy, signed and countersigned as above, in the office of the Magistrate and Collector of the district.

77 The quarterly and annual accounts shall be published as provided in the last preceding rule not more than one month after the close of the period to which they respectively relate.

ADVANCES AND DEPOSITS.

78. All moneys advanced to officers or employés of the District Board, or to contractors or other persons (whether on account of the permanent advance or otherwise), shall, in the first instance, be charged to the head "Advances" in the abstract register of expenditure and entered in the advance ledger, Form No. XV. A separate account shall be opened in this ledger for each person to whom an advance has been given, and this account shall be credited with the amount of payments made, and of adjustments made in the manner prescribed in case 2 of rule 72.

79. All sums of money received by way of security deposit from contractors or others and all sums received which are not the property of the District Fund, and have been placed with the District Board for a temporary purpose only, shall be credited to the head "Deposits received" in the abstract register of receipts, Form No. IV, and shall be entered on the credit or receipt side of the deposit ledger, Form No. XVII. A separate account shall be opened in this ledger for each person by whom a deposit is made; and this account shall be debited with the amount of repayments made, and of adjustments such as those referred to in rule 86.

80. Each separate account in the ledgers of advances and deposits shall be specially reviewed by the Chairman not less often than once a quarter. At the close of every quarter a list in Form No. XVI shall be prepared of outstanding advances, and a list of outstanding deposits in Form No. XVIII.

RENTS OF POUNDS, FERRIES AND LANDS, AND OTHER RECEIPTS THE DEMAND FOR WHICH IS FIXED BEFOREHAND.

81. Printed and substantially bound registers of receipts on account of pounds, ferries, &c., the demand for which is fixed beforehand, shall be opened each year in Form No. XII, in which specimen entries have been made for guidance.

A sufficient number of pages shall be set apart for the index, which shall show—

Serial number.	Name of pound or ferry.	Name of lessee.	Page of register.

82. On the agreement with the lessee being signed and the security deposit paid, the accountant shall enter the serial number, name of pound, &c., in the index of the register, and shall fill up entries 1 to 9 at the heading of the page assigned to it in the volume, and shall post the amount deposited as security in the deposit ledger.

83 He shall then lay the agreement, the register, the deposit ledger, the cash-book and the pass-book before the Chairman, who shall—

(a) Initial the entry in the index to the register.

(b) Carefully compare entries 1 to 9 in the register with the agreement.

(c) See by reference to the pass-book and the cash-book that the deposit has actually been paid.

(d) Initial the entry in the register in Form No. XII, and also the memorandum of security deposit received, at the foot of the register, and sign the certificate below entry No. 9 at the head of the register.

84. The accountant shall write up monthly the entries of progressive demands, payments, and outstandings in these registers, and on the 7th, or nearest working day of each month, shall lay them before the Chairman or Vice-Chairman with the abstract register of receipts, the cash-book and the pass-book, and the Chairman shall then take up the registers and examine the account of each pound, ferry, or other receipt head for the previous month, as follows:—

(a) He shall check the receipt by reference to the entries in the cash-book and the pass-book.

(b) Check the entries in the register with the entries in the abstract register of receipts.

(c) See that the progressive demand, progressive receipts and outstandings have been correctly written up, and place his initials in column 8.

(d) Satisfy himself, by reference to the index, if necessary, that no pound, ferry, or other account is missing from the register.

85. The Chairman or Vice-Chairman shall then proceed to deal with arrears and outstandings, and when action is taken by letter of demand or by remission or otherwise, he shall call for the register and record the action taken in column 9 and place his initials in column 10.

86. The security deposit, which usually amounts to one-fourth of the annual rent, will ordinarily be taken in satisfaction of the demand for the last three months of the year, and shall be transferred by adjustment from "deposits" to the budget head to which the receipts are credited and entered in the register relating to such receipts on the last day of the year.

87. If any part of the deposit has been taken as a fine for non-fulfilment of contract, the balance may be taken in part satisfaction of the demand during the last three months of the year, and if on the 31st March the deposit or balance of deposit will more than cover the demand, the balance will be refunded in cash to the lessee. But in no case may any sum be removed from deposit and transferred to another head except under the orders of the Chairman, who shall at the time initial both the deposit ledger and the memorandum of the security deposit at the foot of the register.

AUDIT.

88. The Finance Committee appointed under section 55 of the Act shall audit the accounts of the District Fund before they are submitted to the Accountant-General, and shall certify the result and the correctness of the account as audited by them in the form given on the first page of the monthly account form (Form No. IX). If the meeting of the Finance Committee be delayed for any unavoidable reason, the accounts shall be despatched to the office of the Accountant-General, Bengal, as required by Rule 74 not later than the 25th of the month following that to which they relate, and the certificate of the Finance Committee shall follow as soon as it is ready.

89. The accounts of the District Fund shall be examined and audited by the Examiner of Local Accounts in Bengal as far as possible not less often than once in twelve months.

90. In auditing the accounts the Examiner shall see that they have been kept and are presented in proper form; that the particular items of receipt and expenditure are stated in sufficient detail; and that the payments are supported by adequate vouchers and authority. He shall examine whether all sums received, or which ought to have been received, are brought into account, and also whether the expenditure is in all cases such as might lawfully be made. He shall also reduce such payments and charges as are exorbitant; and shall surcharge moneys not duly accounted for, or lost by negligence, upon the person who ought to account for the same, or whose negligence or improper conduct has caused the loss; and shall disallow and strike out such payments as are not authorised by law or competent authority.

91. The reports of such examinations shall be forwarded by the Accountant-General, Bengal, to the Commissioner of the Division, who shall forward it to the Chairman of the District Board through the Magistrate of the district, if he is not the Chairman, and the Chairman shall be bound to remedy any defects or irregularities that may be pointed out by the Accountant-General or the Examiner.

LOCAL BOARDS.

92. The statement of requirements and estimate of probable expenditure to be submitted by the Local Board to the District Board under section 51 of the Act shall be in Form No. I, and shall be accompanied by full explanatory notes for each head of account in respect of which the Local Board has been empowered under section 101 of the Act.

93. The District Board shall forward to each Local Board subordinate to it an extract of so much of the budget estimate of the District Fund, as sanctioned, as relates to the matters under the control and administration of the said Local Board.

94. The District Board shall from time to time make allotments of funds to each Local Board subordinate to it for expenditure on the matters under their control and administration.

95. In making any such allotment, the District Board shall send an intimation to the Sudder Treasury Officer, who will advise the officer in charge of the treasury or sub-treasury at or near the head-quarters of the Local Board concerned of the amount allotted to such Local Board.

96. On receipt of such intimation, the officer in charge of the treasury or sub-treasury shall place the amount of the allotment to the credit of the Local Board, and shall enter it on the receipt side of the pass-book of the Local Board. The Local Board shall obtain funds by drawing cheques against the amount of the allotments thus placed at its credit from time to time. These cheques shall be signed by the Chairman or Vice-Chairman of the Local Board if their amounts be below Rs. 100; otherwise they shall be signed by both Chairman and Vice-Chairman.

97 Moneys paid into a sub-treasury on account of the District Fund shall not be credited in the pass-book of the Local Board; but shall, when incorporated in the Sudder Treasury account, be credited in the pass-book of the District Board. The Local Board shall send an account of such payments to the District Board not less often than once a month.

98. The Local Board shall keep a cash-book in Form No. III. On the receipt side shall be posted the allotments made by the District Board from time to time; and on the expenditure side shall be posted details of the cheques drawn by the Local Board against the amount of those allotments

100. The transactions of the Local Board, as exhibited in the authenticated copy of their cash-book, shall be scrutinized and passed by the Chairman of the District Board, and shall be at once incorporated in the cash-book and other accounts of the District Board.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Middle Vernacular School bills.

101. The following procedure is to be adopted in cases where it is found inconvenient to require that the fees and fines realized in middle vernacular schools should be remitted to the treasury, and where consequently they are allowed to be retained in part payment of the expenses of the school. As this practice necessitates the opening of a special register, and entails an appreciable increase of work in the account branch of the office of the District Board, it should not be adopted unless the remittance of school-fees to the treasury is really a matter of considerable difficulty.

Each bill as it is received shall be entered in a register in Form No. XXI.

The cheque for the net amount may be distributed in the cash-book and abstract register among the detailed heads "Masters," "Servants," and "Contingencies," as may be found most convenient, e.g. in full payment of any head or heads which it will cover and in part payment of another.

The register shall be totalled monthly, and will enable the correct distribution of the charges as they finally stand to be verified at a glance. The credit to "Fees and fines" and the equivalent charges made by adjustment will then pass on through the adjustment register to the abstract registers in the line "Add adjustments."

Unpaid money-orders.

102. A register in Form No. XXII shall be opened for money-orders which the Postal Department refunds to the District Board owing to the payee not being found.

The register will serve the double purpose of providing a means of watching that these refunds are brought to credit, and, in case of the payee afterwards making application for the money, of ascertaining whether the sum is due from the District Board or from the Postal authorities.

Record of service.

103. A service-book in Form No. XX, printed in English and the vernacular, shall be supplied at his own cost to every employé holding a substantive appointment on the permanent establishment of a District Board. It shall be kept in custody of the Chairman, whose signature as well as that of the employé on the first page shall be attested every five years.

The service-book is a contemporary record of the employé's official life, including leave of every description, every period of suspension from employment, and every other interruption of service, with full details of its duration. Every entry relating thereto shall be written across the page, and attested by the Chairman or Vice-Chairman, or the Secretary.

104. The Chairman or Vice-Chairman is primarily responsible that every necessary entry is made, especially in regard to leave or suspension, but it is also the duty of each employé to remind the Chairman, Vice-Chairman, or Secretary, when any entry is necessary, and to see that his own service-book is properly written up and attested. It should be carefully explained to each employé that, unless he does so, there may be a difficulty hereafter in verifying his service when his claim to pension shall come to be investigated and considered. Service-books shall be introduced and kept up whether rules for the grant of pensions and gratuities have been framed or not.

At the time of preparing the pay bill for March in each year, a detailed statement of the permanent establishment existing on the 1st April should be prepared in Form XXIIIA and transmitted to the Accountant-General direct not later than the 15th April. In preparing the statement the following instructions should be carefully observed:—

(a) The name, designation, and pay of every officer, clerk, or menial servant holding a permanent appointment, whether on duty, or absent on leave or deputation, or under suspension, should be distinctly shown.

(b) The date of birth, of appointment to present post, and of promotion to present pay of each person should be entered in the appropriate columns of the statement; the date of birth by Christian era should be given, and if the exact date is not known, the approximate date or year should be stated.

(c) The name of any person acting in an appointment, as well as the acting allowance paid to him, should be shown in the column "Name of Incumbent" beneath the name of the absentee for whom he is officiating.

(e) A detailed statement in Form XXIIIB should be given at foot of the original return Form XXIIIA, showing new names of officers which are not found in the return of the previous year, and when these new names include those of persons who have entered the service of the District Board for the first time, their age and health certificates should be attached to the statement. Columns are also provided in Form XXIIIB for information required in regard to the names of officers which appeared in Form XXIIIA of the previous year, but are now omitted, as also regarding officers who have been on leave, other than privilege leave, or under suspension, during the previous year. In the case of any who have been under suspension, a note is required stating whether it has been expressly declared that the period of suspension shall count as service qualifying for pension.

(f) If any person on the establishment is a Government pensioner, or is not the servant of the District Board solely, the fact should be noted in the statement. If he be an officer transferred from the pensionable service of Government, for whose pension contribution is paid, a note should be entered against his name to the effect "Contribution paid to Government for pension."

When completed in accordance with the preceding instructions, the statement should be carefully checked with the service-books, as it will be the authority by which hereafter pension claims will be tested by the Accountant-General.

Application for Pension or Gratuity where rules for the grant of the same have been framed and sanctioned.

105. When an officer applies for an invalid pension or gratuity, he should be referred, if his age be less than 60 years, to the Medical Officer in charge of the civil station of the district for medical examination. After he has been declared by the Medical Officer to be unfit for further service, he must not be retained in active service, pending a decision on his application for pension. Service after the date of the medical certificate does not count for pension.

106. After the medical certificate of incapacity for further service has been received, an application for pension or gratuity in Form XXIV should be drawn up, and the applicant's service detailed in page 2 of the form verified from office records, and the result of the verification noted in the column provided for the purpose.

107. In the case of pensions or gratuities other than invalid, the applicant's services should be verified, and the form of application filled up in the same way as in the case of invalid pension, when application for pension or gratuity is made by the applicant.

108. The Chairman should certify on the application whether the character, conduct, and past services of the applicant are such as to entitle him to the favourable consideration of the District Board. If the application is for pension on the superior scale, he must enter all periods of leave, suspension, &c., which are not reckoned as service. He must also record his opinion whether the service claimed has been established and should be admitted or not.

109. The application in Form XXIV, with the applicant's service-book, his last-pay certificate, the medical certificate of incapacity for further service (if the application is for an invalid pension), and the documents relied upon for the verification of the service claimed, will then be forwarded to the Accountant-General, who will return the papers with a certificate as to whether the service claimed has been duly proved, and whether the pension applied for is admissible under the rules.

110. The application with the Accountant-General's certificate and other papers will next be laid before the members of the District Board in meeting for sanction.

111. After the close of each quarter, the Chairman should submit to Government, through the Accountant-General, a statement in Form XXV of the pensions and gratuities sanctioned during the quarter. Where this statement is blank, a simple intimation to that effect will suffice.

Payment of Pensions and Gratuities granted under sanctioned Rules.

112. When the payment of a pension or gratuity shall have been sanctioned by the District Board, the amount, if it be gratuity, may be paid in a single sum; but if it be pension it shall ordinarily be paid monthly to the pensioner in person at the office of the District Board on an authority issued in Form XXVI.

113. On the issue of the authority in Form XXVI for the payment of pension, it should be entered in a register in Form XXVII. On appearance of a pensioner claiming pension, his personal marks should be checked, and his signature to the receipt for pension compared with that given in the register and the payment noted on the back of the order in Form XXVI, which must be presented every time payment is claimed.

114. A pensioner who is unable to appear in consequence of bodily illness or infirmity may receive his pension upon the production of a life certificate signed by some well-known and trustworthy person approved by the Chairman. In such cases the disbursing officer, who is personally responsible for any payments wrongly made, must take all possible precautions to prevent imposition, and must, before the first payment of each year, require proof not only of the existence of the pensioner, but also of his inability to attend in person to receive payment.

115. If a pensioner or a person entitled to gratuity dies, payment of any arrears actually due may be made to his heirs, provided that they apply within six months after his death. Even if the pension or gratuity has not been sanctioned before the death of the officer, the payment may be made under special sanction of the members of the District Board in meeting. If an officer dies before actually retiring, or being discharged, his heirs have no claim to anything.

NOTE.—Pension can be drawn for the day of the pensioner's death; the hour at which death takes place has no effect on the claim.

116. If a pension remains undrawn for more than six months, it ceases to be payable, and if the pensioner afterwards appears, the Chairman before resuming payment is to satisfy himself that the claimant is the identical pensioner, and that he could not draw his pension owing to circumstances to be fully explained.

SUPPLEMENT TO THE ACCOUNT RULES, DISTRICT BOARDS.

8. The interest on each Ledger account (see No. VIII of the Provident Fund rules) shall be posted into an abstract in the following form for the purpose of working out the total:—

NEW MEMBER.

The Hon'ble Mr. C. A. Wilkins took his seat in Council.

ALLEGED WASTE AND MISAPPROPRIATION OF HINDU RELIGIOUS ENDOWMENTS.

The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee asked—

Will the Government state whether it has received any representations from public bodies on the question of Hindu religious endowments complaining of the waste and misappropriation of temple funds by Mohunts, and what action does the Government propose to take on these representations?

The Hon'ble Mr. Buckland replied:—

"A memorial on the subject referred to by the hon'ble member was received from the British Indian Association on the 16th March. There has not yet been time to give the memorial the careful consideration which it deserves and will receive."

COMPENSATION ALLOWANCE TO NON-DOMICILED EUROPEANS AND EURASIANS.

The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee asked—

(a) Will the Government state the number of non-domiciled European and Eurasian servants of the Government (stating the number in each case) who in the Bengal Establishment draw compensation allowance, and the average amount of such allowance per month?

(b) Whether any allowance is paid, if so, what is the total amount and in how many cases, to non-domiciled European and Eurasian employés who draw salaries of over Rs. 200 a month, but whose appointments have not received the sanction of the Government of India as required under the existing rules?

(c) Whether any officers of the latter cases have applied for compensation allowance. If so, how have such applications been dealt with?

The Hon'ble Mr. Bourdillon replied:—

"The information asked for by the hon'ble member was not immediately available, and had to be sought from the office of the Accountant-General: it has not yet been furnished in full, but I hope that I shall be able to supply a complete answer on the occasion of the next meeting of Council."

ALLEGED ORDER PROHIBITING ACCEPTANCE OF BAIL IN CERTAIN NON-BAILABLE CASES.

The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee asked—

(a) Whether the attention of Government has been drawn to an order passed by Mr. Westmacott, Commissioner of the Presidency Division, directing all Magisterial officers within his jurisdiction to refuse bail in all non-bailable offences where a charge has been framed against the accused?

(b) Whether the Government approves of such an order being issued by an executive officer, which is calculated to fetter the exercise of judicial discretion on the part of Magisterial officers?

(c) Whether, having regard to the hardship of such an order and the uncertainty of the law in the matter, the Government will consult the Advocate-General as to the legality of the order?

(d) And whether, if the order is declared to be illegal, the Government will direct that it be withdrawn?

The Hon'ble Mr. Cotton replied:—

"The Lieutenant-Governor has ascertained that Mr. Westmacott has issued no such order."

ENQUIRY AS TO TRUTH OF CERTAIN STATEMENTS IN AN AFFIDAVIT.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked—

(a) Whether the attention of the Government has been drawn to an affidavit, No. 50, dated 19th February, 1894, filed before the Court of the Sessions Judge of Saran, and published in the Amrita Bazar Patrika of the 1st March, 1894, in which Ali Hossein, resident of Mohanuda, subdivision Siwan, district Saran, among other things, solemnly affirmed as follows:—

"(1) I was a witness in the case of Empress versus Khendhari Rai and Dilram Sahu under section 107 of the Criminal Procedure Code on behalf of Dilram Sahu in the Court of Mr. Lang, the Joint-Magistrate of Siwan. During my examination, Mr. Lang said to me:—'You have come to depose on behalf of a Hindu. You are not a Mussalman. You are born of a Hindu. You are born of a Rajput. I have not taxed Mussalman, Chamars and Dasadhs, but other Hindus of that eleka. You will also be now taxed.'

"(2) I sent a petition to the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, complaining of the above, and that petition was under my sanction and with my knowledge and on my behalf.

"(3) I do not know to read and write, and therefore could not sign my name on it.

A. SINGH,
Comr. of Affdts."

CHAPRA; the 19th February, 1894.

(b) Whether the attention of the Government has been drawn to the statement published in the same paper to the effect thate affidavit is supported by the statements of some half a dozen eye-witnesses?

(c) Will the Government, having regard to the affidavit, direct a further enquiry to be made, and if the affidavit is false, prosecute Ali Hossein for perjury: if it is true, take such action as the justice of the case may demand?

The Hon'ble MR. COTTON replied:—

"The Lieutenant-Governor does not consider it necessary to take any further action in regard to this matter."

BENGAL PROVINCIAL SERVICE BUDGET FOR 1894-95.

The Hon'ble MR. BOURDILLON laid on the table the Bengal Provincial Service Budget for 1894-95. He said:—

"The Financial Statement for the Province of Bengal, which under the new Rules of Council had for the first time to be laid before Council in 1893, afforded the Hon'ble MR. RISLEY, who was then Financial Secretary, an opportunity of explaining the origin of the system of Provincial Finance, the conditions of the administration of finance by the Provincial Governments, and the general results of the working of the system in Bengal during the twenty-one years covered by what are colloquially called the four financial contracts with the Government of India, the last of which expired with the year 1891-92. He also explained the distinctive features of the existing Provincial contract for five years which took effect from the 1st April, 1892.

"2. This contract is based upon the assumption that, taking one year with another, the sum required by the Government of Bengal to meet the reasonable demands of the Province on heads of expenditure classed as Provincial is Rs. 4,07,91,000; and as the average annual income was estimated by the Supreme Government in March, 1892, at Rs. 4,22,30,000, the difference of Rs. 14,39,000 is the sum which the Local Government has to hand over to the Imperial Exchequer every year, the Province being thus left with an estimated income and expenditure exactly equal. The receipts under some heads are credited entirely to Provincial revenues, while the revenue under others is shared in varying proportions by the Imperial and Local Governments. The same system is applied to heads of expenditure, the general principle being observed (with a few exceptions) that the proportion of receipts and of expenditure made over to the Local Government should be the same. In these circumstances, it is obvious that a Local Government has every incentive to careful administration, for the larger the gross income which it can raise, or the greater the economies which it can effect consistently with efficient administration, the larger will be the sum represented by its proportionate share of the revenue.

"3. Under this system, the Provincial Government gets one-fourth of the Land Revenue together with 12 per cent. of the revenue collected from Government Estates, half of the receipts on account of Income-tax, Forests, and Registration, and of the net traffic earnings of the Eastern Bengal Railway, three-fourths of Stamps and one-fourth of Excise. It takes the whole of the receipts under all the other heads except such as are virtually Imperial, but in which a small credit is allowed for special reasons such as Salt, Customs, Interest on Loans and Advances, Superannuation, and Stationery and Printing. On the other side, the Government of Bengal is required to meet all charges under the great spending departments such as General Administration, Courts of Law, Jails, Police, Education, Medical, &c., as well as those under the producing departments—Land Revenue (except Settlement), Provincial Rates, Salt and Customs. It has to meet the whole cost of Stationery and Printing, excluding purchases for the Central Stores, the working expenses of Irrigation and Navigation, and Civil Works, with the exception of Imperial Buildings. It is responsible for one-half of the expenditure under Income-tax, Forests and Registration, for three-fourths of Stamp expenditure, and a quarter of that on Excise.

"4. It is not to be supposed, however, that, with the announcement of the total annual assignment for the Province, the control exercised by the Government of India over Provincial finance comes to an end, for, in the first place, the Local Government is required to maintain all the Provincial services in a state of administrative efficiency, providing increased expenditure in any directions necessary for that purpose, either by reduction of expenditure under other heads, or from increased revenue; secondly, the powers of the Local Government as regards the expenditure of the funds thus placed by estimate at their disposal are carefully defined; and thirdly, with the double object of maintaining a proper supervision over the proceedings of Local Governments, and of ascertaining as closely as possible what its own financial position is, the Supreme Government has laid down strict rules for the preparation of Provincial budgets and for their submission for approval, and they reserve to themselves the right of altering figures both on the receipt and expenditure side, if later or more precise information justifies such action. These budgets, after a careful examination by the Financial Department and the Secretaries of the Departments which have administrative control in each case, are compiled and forwarded to the Government of India as a whole on the 15th of January through the Accountant-General, who, by that time, has before him the actual figures for nine months. Soon after the close of February, the actuals for two more months, or eleven in all, are available, and on or about the 10th of March a final revised estimate for the expiring year, together with a final forecast for the year beginning on the 1st of April, are laid before the Government of India for approval and for incorporation in the great Imperial Budget for the whole of India. The figures now presented to Council in columns 4 and 5 of the abstract statements of revenue and expenditure already circulated to members are those which have been accepted by the Supreme Government after being subjected to the processes which I have just described.

"5. I now pass on to notice briefly the principal points under those heads in the Financial Statements already in the hands of the hon'ble members which seem to require comment or explanation, and I propose to treat them in succession under three heads, viz.—

(3) The budget estimate for 1894-95.

(1)—ACCOUNTS OF 1892-93.

"6. In the Financial Statement which was laid before the Council on 1st April, 1893, it was shown that, according to the revised estimate for 1892-93 as passed by the Government of India, the aggregate Provincial receipts of the year would amount to Rs. 4,22,82,000, and the Provincial expenditure to Rs. 4,23,89,000. The actual figures prove to have been Rs. 4,24,45,567 for receipts, and Rs. 4,25,43,825 for expenditure, so that in round numbers the result has been an improvement of Rs. 1,64,000 in revenue, which an increase of Rs. 1,55,000 in expenditure reduces to a net gain of Rs. 9,000. The improvement in revenue was chiefly under direct receipts from Irrigation Major Works, which amounted to Rs. 18,88,000 against Rs. 16,50,000 originally expected, showing a net better result of Rs. 2,38,000 against a decrease of Rs. 1,06,000 under Railways. The increase in expenditure was mainly due to a grant of Rs. 1,00,000 in aid of famine relief expenditure incurred by the Darbhanga District Board, and also to the payment of Rs. 99,307, being a portion of the cost of constructing a vessel to replace the Coleroon, pilot brig, which was expected to be built in the current year, and for which a provision of Rs. 25,000 only was included in the revised estimate for 1892-93.

"7. The budget estimate for 1893-94, as originally passed by the Government of India, assumed that the year would open with a credit balance of Rs. 22,46,000, that the total revenue would amount to Rs. 4,22,30,000, and the total expenditure to Rs. 4,24,04,000, so that the year would close with a balance of Rs. 20,72,000. The latest estimate for the year shows that the total revenues have been better than was originally expected by Rs. 11,80,000, while the increase in expenditure is Rs. 2,74,000 only, giving a net betterment of Rs. 9,06,000. Much of this extra expenditure was caused by the payment of the Exchange Compensation Allowance granted to non-domiciled European and Eurasian officers of Government aggregating Rs. 4,50,000 altogether. The heads which contributed chiefly to the increase in revenue in the revised as compared with the original estimate are Land Revenue (Rs. 59,000), Stamps (Rs. 2,63,000), Excise (Rs. 1,50,000), Miscellaneous (Rs. 1,01,000), Railways (Rs. 4,25,000), Irrigation Major Works (Rs. 50,000) and Civil Works (Rs. 98,000). The increase in Stamps is attributable to the numerous transactions which take place in a year of prosperity when business is brisk and funds are available for indulgence in the luxury of litigation. The same cause, combined with administrative reforms rendering more elastic the arrangements for settling shops for the sale of country spirits, has operated to produce the advance in Excise revenue. Under Railways, the great advance of 4¼ lakhs is due to the large traffic which has sprung up in the early months of 1894, chiefly consisting in the transport of jute: the principal factors in the increase of Rs. 1,01,000, under Miscellaneous, have been an increase in Partition fees and a special credit for rent and sale of railway lands in Muzaffarpur. The receipts under Civil Works were swelled by better revenue from ferries, but chiefly by a special payment of Rs. 95,250 by the Darjeeling-Himalayan Railway in settlement of a disputed claim. According to the latest estimate, it is expected that the accounts of the year will close with a credit balance of Rs. 29,87,000. Thus, owing to a sudden accession of revenue during the last quarter of the year 1893-94, in addition to the usual gradual improvement which it is usually safe to assume, Government, after paying 4½ lakhs for exchange compensation, finds itself with a surplus of nearly ten lakhs above its minimum closing balance of 20 lakhs, and is thus able to meet the call of the Government of India for a contribution of three lakhs.

(3)—BUDGET ESTIMATE FOR 1894-95.

"8. The Budget Estimate for 1894-95, as finally passed by the Government of India, accepts as an opening balance the figures just mentioned, viz., Rs. 29,87,000, and contemplates receipts aggregating Rs. 4,28,28,000, thus making a total of Rs. 4,58,15,000 available for expenditure in the course of the year, less a sufficient closing balance. The estimate of receipts framed by the Local Government was 3 lakhs higher than this sum, but orders have lately been received from the Government of India to the effect that the contribution of 3 lakhs which the Imperial Government has decided to levy will be shown as a deduction under the head of Land Revenue, and the net receipts from that source will appear as Rs. 83,73,000 only instead of Rs. 86,73,000.

On the other hand, the sanctioned grant for expenditure in 1894-95 is Rs. 4,35,98,000 compared with Rs. 4,26,78,000, the revised estimate of 1893-94, and Rs. 42,04,000, the sanctioned estimate of the same year; the closing balance is estimated at Rs. 22,17,000 as compared with Rs. 29,87,000 at the end of 1893-94, and Rs. 22,55,000 at the end of 1892-93.

"9. After deducting the 3 lakhs of rupees which have been adjusted by the Supreme Government under the Land Revenue head, the receipts estimated for 1894-95 exceed the sanctioned estimate of 1893-94 by Rs. 5,98,000, to which the principal contributors are expected to be—Stamps, Rs. 2,63,000; Excise, Rs. 1,50,000, and Provincial Rates Rs. 99,000: while Courts of Law, Medical and Police show an estimated increase of about a quarter of a lakh each. On the expenditure side the total grant, as already stated, exceeds the sanctioned estimate of 1893-94 by Rs. 11,94,000. A large part of this extra expenditure (Rs. 7,27,000 according to figures supplied by the Government of India) is debitable to exchange compensation, and many of the heads are swelled by this item, especially the great administrative departments of Land Revenue, Courts of Law, General Administration, Police, Education and Medical; but the advance of Police expenditure by Rs. 2,33,000 over the Budget figures of the present year includes also a large proposed expenditure of Rs. 2,09,000 devoted to carrying out some of the recommendations of the Police Commission. The expenditure on Public Works, on the other hand, has been reduced, the grant for buildings and roads being lower by two lakhs, while an additional lakh is to be expended on irrigation works.

"10. The three years the figures of which I have been discussing present features of great dissimilarity. In 1892-93, the disturbing causes so nearly counterbalanced each other that the net result shows a betterment of Rs. 9,000 only over the year's transactions. The receipts of the year 1893-94, as far as we can see, will be better than the estimate by Rs. 11,80,000, thanks to the great advance in the earnings of the Eastern Bengal State Railway and to large increase under Stamps and Excise, the sure signs of a prosperous season; and even though the Provincial revenues have had to meet the unexpected demand of 4½ lakhs for exchange compensation allowance, yet the balance at the end of the year (Rs. 29,87,000) will be greater by 7¼ lakhs than the balance of Rs. 22,55,000 with which it opened. The windfall of these large receipts from the railway has enabled the Province to meet without serious discomfort the application of the Government of India for a contribution of 3 lakhs of rupees, and though the necessity of such a demand is greatly to be regretted, the candid critic cannot deny that the wants of the Imperial Treasury with its deficit of 3 crores of rupees, are greater than those of the Provincial Treasury with its unanticipated surplus of 7¼ lakhs of rupees, and that the Bengal Government is bound loyally and uncomplainingly to contribute its share towards meeting the difficulty in which the Government of India finds itself. The growth of the charge of exchange compensation allowance is a more serious check on the ability of the Government to meet the constantly expanding demands of the country. But, in spite of this drawback, we have been able to devote a lakh of rupees to improvements in the administration of justice, more than two lakhs to much-needed and long-deferred improvement in the Police, and Rs. 30,000 to Education. We have had to postpone some important measures and some useful buildings which we desire to undertake, but such is the elasticity of the revenues in Bengal that we may confidently hope that, as the year wears on, the financial horizon will brighten, and that funds will yet be available for the execution of measures conceived in the best interests of this great Province and fraught with benefits for its teeming population.

(1)—Receipts.

"11. Land Revenue.—The total collections in 1892-93 amounted to Rs. 3,84,93,000, the sanctioned estimate for 1893-94 was Rs. 3,84,33,000, and the estimate for 1894-95 has been placed at Rs. 3,85,00,000. It is expected that the 12 per cent. which is levied on the collections of all Government estates for charges of management and improvement will produce Rs. 4,75,000 Before the Provincial share of one-fourth is calculated, this sum is deducted from the total and added again to the Provincial share after the calculation of one-fourth has been made: the estimated Provincial share for 1894-95 thus arrived at is Rs. 99,81,000. This total is subject to a further debit of Rs. 16,08,000, which is shown under Land Revenue adjustments, and is made up of the following items:—

	Rs.	Rs.
To contribution to Imperial revenues under the terms of the Provincial contract	14,39,000
To special contribution during 1894-95 under the orders of the Government of India	3,00,000
To interest on the capital outlay on the Hidjili Tidal Canal advanced by the Government of India ...	23,000
		17,62,000
Deduct receipts—
By capital outlay on the Hidjili Tidal Canal ...	1,26,000
By grant for maintenance of Imperial buildings entrusted to Local authorities	10,000
By compensation for reservation of the Western Duars for Khedda operations	18,000
Total payable to Imperial Funds ...		16,08,000

"12. Stamps.—The total revenue from Stamps has been estimated at Rs. 1,60,50,000 against Rs. 1,55,46,000, the actuals of 1892-93, and Rs. 1,60,50,000, the revised estimate of 1893-94. This large increase over the actuals of 1892-93, and the sanctioned estimate of 1893-94, which was Rs. 1,57,00,000, is justified by the actuals of the current year, which in eleven months showed an increase of Rs. 5,17,000 over the receipts of the corresponding period of last year. The Provincial share is three-fourths of the revenue, and for 1894-95 amounts to Rs 1,20,38,000.

"13. Excise.—This source of revenue shows a steady upward movement, the gross figures having been as follows during the last three years:—

	Rs.	Increase. Rs.
1891-92	1,11,34,000	6,69,000
1892-93	1,15,94,000	4,60,000
1893-94 (revised estimate) ...	1,21,00,000	5,06,0 0

"As was explained in the Resolution on the Excise Department for 1892 93, the rise in revenue was accompanied during that year by a decrease in the consumption of exciseable articles under four important heads—a very satisfactory result. The rates of duty on all kinds of ganja, except flat ganja, have been raised from 1st January, 1894. In view of this fact and of an increase in the actuals of the current year amounting to Rs. 5,07,000 in eleven months, the estimate for next year has been placed at the same figure as the revised estimate of the current year, viz. Rs. 1,21,00,000. The Provincial share of this revenue is one-fourth, and for 189 -95 amount to Rs. 30,25,000.

"14. Provincial Rates.—The current demand of the Public Works Cess for 1892-93 was Rs. 40,94,343, and the actual collections were Rs. 41,95,000. In 1893-94, the first estimate was Rs. 41,50,000, and the revised estimate Rs. 41,65,000. Some increase is anticipated in 1894-95 on account of revaluations which have been completed in several districts, and the estimate has been placed at Rs. 42,00,000. The effect of the rules issued under the Management of Private Estates Act of 1892 will be to raise the receipts from the Management Rate to Rs. 1,40,000. These items account for the total rise under Provincial Rates from Rs. 45,61,000 in the budget of 1893-94 to Rs. 46,60,000 in that of 1894-95.

"15. Income-Tax.—The revenue under this head showed a progressive increase from 1888-89 to 1891-92, but the actuals for 1892-93 aggregated only Rs. 42,28,000, a falling off which was attributable to larger collections of arrears in the year 1891-92. The sanctioned estimate of Rs. 43,30,000 for 1893-94 has been reduced to Rs. 43,00,000, and the estimate for 1894-95 has been passed for the same figure. The Provincial share is one-half, and amounts to Rs. 21,50,000.

"16. Under Forests, an advance of Rs. 26,000 in all has been estimated owing to the probability of an increased demand for timber. The Provincial share is one-half. Under Registration, the estimated increase over the latest figures of 1893-94 is Rs. 20,000, of which half is Provincial, and it has been based on the normal development of the operations of that Department.

"17. The receipts of the great spending departments of the Government, such as Courts of Law, Jails, Police, Marine, Education and Medical, are of course quite incommensurate with the expenditure incurred upon them, and the amounts besides being small are liable to little variation. Under the first-named head, about 9 lakhs are derived from fees and sales as against an expenditure of 88 lakhs. The Jail Department usually earns about 9 lakhs by its manufactures, but the sum has been swollen in 1894-95 by half a lakh on account of sales of quinine. The receipts of the Police Department are mainly derived from payments for the services of the force and from fees and fines: the total of less than two-and-a-half lakhs bears but a small proportion to the expenditure of 59 lakhs. Pilotage receipts account for the greater part of those under the head of Marine, and School fees compose almost the whole of the income under the head of Education (Rs. 5,70,000), against an expenditure of nearly five times that amount. Under Medical, the estimate for 1894-95 is slightly below the revised estimate of 1893-94, but considerably above the sanctioned estimate of that year, which seems to have been too low. An increase of Rs. 20,000, under Hospital receipts above the budget of 1893-94 is due to the orders of Government, by which a higher rate is allowed out of the Hospital Port Dues Fund for the maintenance of sailors in hospital.

"18. Scientific and other Minor Departments.—The total receipts under this head in 1892-93 amounted to Rs. 1,90,000. This sum includes a special credit of Rs. 25,000, the amount contributed during that year by Sir Dinshaw Manockjee Petit for the construction of a veterinary hospital. The receipts under the subhead 'Cinchona Plantations,' that is, receipts from the sale of cinchona and quinine, amounted to Rs. 1,18,000. in 1892-93; and, in view of the increase expected from the sale of quinine in pice-packets, the estimate for 1894-95 under this subhead has been framed at Rs. 1,25,000. But there has been a falling off of emigration fees, and the total estimate has been placed at Rs. 1,74,000.

"19. Miscellaneous.—The average receipts for each of the past five years amount to Rs. 8,14,000, and the estimate for next year has been placed at Rs. 8,13,000, although this is a good deal below the revised figures of 1893-94.

"20. Railways.—There has been a large increase in the gross earnings of the Eastern Bengal State Railway consequent on transport of jute and despatches of rice from Bihar to the Eastern districts. The original estimate of net receipts for 1893-94 has been raised by the Government of India from Rs. 64,00,000 to Rs. 72,50,000, and for 1894-95 it has been placed at Rs. 67,00,000. Half of this sum is credited to Provincial revenues.

"21. Irrigation Major Works.—The average of the actuals of the past five years amounts to Rs. 15,51,000, but in order to be on the safe side both the revised estimate for 1893-94 and the estimate for 1894-95 have been placed at Rs. 15,00,000.

"22. Irrigation Minor Works.—The average actual receipts of the past five years were Rs. 8,15,000, and a like amount has been accepted as the estimate for next year.

2.—Expenditure.

"23. Land Revenue.—The total Provincial expenditure for 1893-94 was originally estimated at Rs. 34,19,000, but it has been found necessary to raise this to Rs. 34,88,000. The amount, viz. Rs. 1,17,000, by which the grant for 1894-95, viz. Rs. 35,36,000, exceeds the sanctioned estimate of the current year, is more than accounted for by the provision for exchange compensation allowance, aggregating Rs. 99,000 in all, and by an additional expenditure of Rs 29,000, caused by an increase of 8 Deputy Collectors and 14 Sub-Deputy Collectors, involving also the appointment of additional establishment under them: there is also the appointment of a Personal Assistant to the Director of Land Records and Agriculture, which involves an additional expenditure of Rs. 4,800.

"24. Stamps.—Expenditure under this head takes the direction of commission to stamp-vendors and the cost of plain paper which has to be purchased from the central stores. Obviously therefore an increased revenue from stamps carries with it an increase in the expenditure under the same head. The largest increase anticipated in 1894-95 over the revised grant for 1893-94 is under the head of Stamp Paper supplied from central stores (Rs. 14,000), the value of which is recovered by sales to the public, and the rest is due to larger commission to stamp vendors for larger sales. Three-fourths of the expenditure fall on Provincial revenues.

"25. Excise.—The changes in the budget are very small and are chiefly owing to a reduction of the grant for new works necessitated by the financial pressure of the time.

"26. Provincial Rates.—The charges under this head comprise the cost (a) of collecting the Road and Public Works Cesses (Rs. 3,16,000), and (b) of valuation and revaluation proceedings in progress (Rs. 80,060). The share payable by Government for (a), which is a fixed proportion, amounts to Rs. 52,000, and that for (b), which is nearly one-third of the total, has been placed by the Accountant-General at Rs. 24,000. Accordingly, out of the total estimated expenditure of Rs. 3,96,000, Rs. 3,20.000 are recoverable from the District Funds, and a credit for this amount has been taken on the receipt side The revised estimate of 1893-94 largely exceeds the sanctioned estimate of the same year on account of the cost of revaluation establishments having been originally placed at too low a figure.

"27. Customs.—The total expenditure for the year 1894-95 has been estimated at Rs. 5,79,000 against Rs. 5,52,000, the sanctioned and Rs. 5,56,000 the revised estimate for the current year, and Rs. 5,40,120, the actuals of 1892-93. The increase in the estimate for 1894-95 is due partly to the provision made for the payment of exchange compensation allowance, partly to the entertainment of additional Preventive and Wharf establishments sanctioned in connection with the shipment and loading of goods at the Kidderpore Docks, and partly to the necessity of meeting increased requirements for the construction and repairs of boats. The estimate does not include any establishment to be employed to carry out the provisions of the new Tariff Act, since the cost of this establishment will be met from an assignment to be made for the purpose from the Imperial revenues.

"28. Forests.—The expenditure in 1893-94, of which the Provincial share is one-half, was estimated at first at Rs. 4,81,000, but was in the revised estimate placed at Rs. 4,10,000. The advance of Rs. 50,000 beyond this figure, which is estimated for 1894-95, is due to the introduction of a much-needed increase in the salaries of Foresters, Rangers and other native servants of the department.

"29. The advance of expenditure on Interest from Rs. 1,38,000 in 1893-94 to Rs. 1,78,000 in 1894-95 is due to the larger loans to be taken from the Government of India in order to be lent again to local bodies and others in the Province. Prominent among these is the loan of 15 lakhs of rupees to the Municipality of Howrah.

"30. General Administration.—The total expenditure during 1894-95 has been estimated at Rs. 16,77,000, as compared with Rs. 15,92,000, the original, and Rs. 16,96,000, the revised, grant for the current year, showing an increase of Rs. 85,000 over the budget grant of 1893-94, of which Rs. 74,000 is due to exchange compensation allowance. The allotment includes the additional grant made once in five years for the renewal of the furniture at Belvedere and Darjeeling, a provision made for the first time for the travelling allowance of non-official members of the Legislative Council, and also an increased allotment for contract contingencies and purchase of tents.

"31. Law and Justice, Courts of Law.—The increase in 1894-95 compared with the sanctioned grant for 1893-94 is Rs. 3,48,000, of which Rs. 2,30,000 is on account of exchange allowance. Provision has also been made for the appointment of an Additional Judge for the districts of Dacca, Jessore and Faridpur, and of 8 Deputy Magistrates and 2 Munsifs, together with increased provision for their establishment. There is a decrease under 'Courts of Small Causes' (Rs. 11,000) due to revision of establishment and economies carried out in accordance with the suggestions of Mr. Beighton, who was appointed to investigate the expenditure of the Calcutta Small Cause Courts.

"41. Irrigation Minor Works in charge of Public Works Department.—The works included under this head comprise (1) the Saran Canals, the Calcutta and Eastern Canals, and the Orissa Coast Canal, for all of which capital and revenue accounts are kept; (2) the Nadia Rivers, for which only revenue accounts are kept; (3) the Eden and Tour Canals, for which neither revenue nor capital accounts are kept; and (4) Agricultural works including Government and takavi embankments.

"42. The actual outlay against the capital account during 1892-93, i.e., charges for original work and construction, as distinguished from maintenance and repairs, was Rs. 1,12,502, and the budget estimate for 1894-95 is Rs. 2,26,000. The increase is chiefly for remodelling the Hijili Tidal Canal, the grant for which, though recorded in the Provincial account, is advanced from the Imperial funds and adjusted as an addition to the Provincial share of Land Revenue, as has been shown in paragraph 11 of these notes.

"43. The amount originally provided for 1893-94 as debitable against revenue account was Rs. 3,59,700, which has been raised to Rs. 3,80,280 in the revised estimate on account of repairs of cyclone damage on the Orissa Coast Canal, and heavy silt clearance from the Bhangor Khal, Calcutta and Eastern Canals. For the Nadia Rivers the grant for 1894-95 is Rs. 1,22,000 against Rs. 1,23,072, the actuals of 1892-93. For other minor works and embankments for which separate accounts are not kept either of revenue or capital, the grant for 1894-95 is Rs. 8,57,000 against Rs. 8,72,300, the original grant for 1893-94, and Rs. 8,29,012, the actuals of 1892-93.

"44. The total sum expected to be spent on Minor Works and Irrigation of all kinds during 1894-95 is Rs. 15,72,000, and it is anticipated that it will be distributed under the following heads:—

	Rs.
Works	3,20,900
Repairs	7,11,500
Establishment	4,89,200
Tools and Plant	50,400
Total ...	15,72,00

"45. Civil Works in charge of the Public Works Department.—Under this head are comprised all the charges on Civil Buildings, Roads, Bridges, &c., and the grant for 1894-95 has been fixed at Rs. 26,36,000, being distributed thus—

	Original works.	Repairs.	Total.
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
Civil Buildings ...	7,66,000	3,05,900	10,71,900

Total ...	13,33,862	13,02,138	26,36,000

"46. The total sum which the Lieutenant-Governor desired to spend on new buildings in 1894-95, for the construction of which administrative sanction has been received in the Public Works Department, amounts to about 13½ lakhs, but owing to the want of funds and the urgent necessity of postponing all expenditure that was not absolutely essential, no more than Rs. 7,66,000 could be set aside for new civil buildings. After a careful consideration of the requirements of the several departments and branches of the Public Service, and the relative importance and urgency of each of them, this sum has been distributed among the various classes of buildings as follows:—

		Rs.
Collectors' and Magistrates' Courts		50,000

"47. Among the important works which will be undertaken in 1894-95 may be mentioned Magistrates' and Collectors' court-houses in Faridpur (Rs. 33,300), civil buildings in Angul (Rs. 11,900), single munsifis at Meherpur and Ranaghat (Rs. 7,800 and Rs. 11,500), double munsifi at Begu Sarai (Rs. 7,300), treble munsifi at Tamluk (Rs. 10,000), quadruple munsifi at Comilla (Rs. 22,800), Sub-divisional Courts at Kishoreganj (Rs. 5,500), Jamalpur (Rs. 5,900), and Jahanabad (Rs. 8,000), Stamp and Stationery buildings in Calcutta (Rs. 1,65,000), additional accommodation for the Calcutta Museum (Rs. 1,00,000), additional wards in the Bhagalpur Central Jail (Rs. 30,000), as also additional accommodation in Dinajpur (Rs. 20,000) and Comilla Jail (Rs. 14,000), new workshops in the Alipore jail (Rs 7,000), subsidiary jail Lohardaga (Rs. 7,000), additional accommodation in Sibpur Engineering College (Rs. 30,000), science ward in Dacca College (Rs. 20,000), additions to the zilla school at Pabna (Rs. 8,000), new roofing of the Ravenshaw College, Cuttack, (Rs. 14,800), and Kurseong Boarding School (Rs. 7,000), female ward in the General Hospital (Rs. 10,800), surgical ward in the Campbell Hospital, Sealdah (Rs. 10,000), and a residence for the District Superintendent of Police, Jalpaiguri (Rs. 7,000). On the other hand the list of works for which administrative sanction has been given, but which cannot be taken up for want of funds, contains such important items as the following: Magistrate's office and record-room at Burdwan (Rs. 24,831), munsifi at Dubrajpur in Burdwan (Rs. 8,000), court-houses for Munsifs and Subordinate Judge at Barisal (Rs. 70,000), and additional wards in the Central Jail at Buxar (Rs. 20,000).

"48. The main items in the total of Rs. 1,54,000 to be spent on communications (original works) are the following:—(1) Completing Lebong Road, Darjeeling, Rs. 18,800, (2) Causeway over the Damudar River (Ranchi and Hazaribagh Road), Rs. 10,000, (3) Bridging over the Lilajan river (Grand Trunk Road), Rs. 10,000, (4) Completing road from Bangaon to Chakradharpur, Rs. 30,000, (5) Improving roads in the Eastern Duars, Rs. 15,000, (6) Feeder roads to the Duars Railway, Rs. 10,000, (7) Constructing the Tuichong bridge on the Demagri road, Chittagong Hill Tracts, Rs. 23,900, and (8) Constructing Dâk Bungalow at Comilla Rs. 7,300.

"49. The expenditure under the head of Civil Works in charge of the Civil Department is liable to considerable fluctuations, since to this head are debited many charges for works extraordinary and non-recurring which for convenience sake are entrusted to Civil officers.

"50. Contributions.—The charges under this head consist of the net grants made to Local Funds from Provincial revenues to enable them to maintain equilibrium between the receipts and the charges of certain departments made over to them for management and maintenance. The following table gives some details of these contributions for 1894-95 and the two previous years. The large receipts under Police and Civil Works are due to receipts for pounds and ferries respectively. The largest items of expenditure are Education (Rs. 10,39,000) and Civil Works (Rs. 5,47,000), which alone make up nearly sixteen lakhs out of the total cost of the transferred departments, viz. seventeen lakhs and a half estimated for 1894-95. The accounts for 1892-93 include a contribution of one lakh to the District Board of Darbhanga towards the cost of famine relief operations in that district, and the sum of Rs. 1,04,000 in the estimates for 1894-95 represents a reserve to meet urgent and unforeseen expenditure:—

CALCUTTA PORT ACT, 1890, AMENDMENT BILL.

The Hon'ble Mr. Cotton moved for leave to introduce a Bill to amend the Calcutta Port Act, 1890. He said:—

"Under section 113 of the Port Act of 1890, it is enacted that the Port Commissioners shall immediately, after the landing of any goods, take charge of them and store such as are liable to suffer from exposure in sheds or warehouses belonging to the Commissioners. It is not quite clear whether, under this section, the responsibility imposed upon the Port Commissioners applies to all goods which may be taken charge of by them and stored in their godowns. The expression used in the Act is 'any goods,' and the question has arisen whether it applies to the storage of petroleum in the Port Commissioners' sheds at Budge-Budge. The difficulty has arisen in this way: The Port Commissioners have, for the public convenience, erected sheds capable of accommodating twelve lakhs of cases of petroleum at Budge-Budge, and this accommodation has been shown by experience to be ample for the purposes of ordinary trade. But within the last few days there has been a block owing to the extra duty imposed upon petroleum, and I am informed that, at the present moment, the number of cases stored at the Port Commissioners' premises at Budge-Budge exceeds fifteen lakhs, that is to say, a very large number of cases are now stored in the open, and as such are undoubtedly liable to suffer from exposure. Now, there is a special Act and there are special rules having the force of law which relate to petroleum; and were there no other reason, it would be doubtful on this account whether section 113 of the Port Act would apply to the storage of petroleum. But the important point to settle is that it does not apply to goods which the Commissioners do not land. The Port Commissioners have taken the advice of Counsel upon this point; and, with the permission of the Council, I will read the opinion given by the Hon'ble Sir Griffith Evans on it. Sir Griffith Evans wrote:—'I think an amendment should, without delay, be made in Act III of 1890, section 113, which at present makes the Commissioners liable to store goods which they do not themselves land—a result which could hardly have been intended, and makes them liable in respect of all sorts of goods at their other wharves which they do not land. They do not land petroleum. It would be sufficient, in order to get rid of the difficulty, to insert the words "by them" after the word "landing" in clause (1) of section 113.' It is in accordance with the advice given by Sir Griffith Evans in this opinion to the Port Commissioners that the Government have deemed it necessary to introduce a Bill in order to declare distinctly that it is only in respect of goods landed by the Port Commissioners themselves that the responsibility imposed under clause 1 of this section applies. The law as altered will then apply to all goods which are landed by the Port Commissioners themselves, but it will relieve the Commissioners of responsibility in respect of goods, such as petroleum at Budge-Budge, which are not landed by the Port Commissioners. The matter is an urgent one, inasmuch as all the cases not now stored in sheds lie in the open and are undoubtedly liable to damage should storms occur, or any other accident befall them to which goods lying in the open are always liable. The Commissioners are advised, and the Government have accepted the opinion, that it is eminently desirable that no delay should be allowed to occur in passing this Bill through the Council; and therefore it stands in my name, not not only to ask for leave to introduce a Bill, but to introduce it and also to ask the President to suspend the Rules so as to allow it to be passed at this day's sitting. The exact form of the Bill consists merely in the insertion of the two words 'by them' after the word 'landing' in clause (1) of section 113, in order to make it clear that the clause relates to goods landed by the Commissioners and by no other people."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Cotton also applied to the President to suspend the Rules of Business.

The Hon'ble the President having declared the Rules suspended—

The Hon'ble MR. COTTON introduced the Bill and moved that it be read in Council. He said:—

"I have only to add one remark to the statement I have already laid before the Council, and that is, that the learned Advocate-General has also been invited by the Port Commissioners to express his opinion on the difficulty which has arisen, and that the Hon'ble SIR CHARLES PAUL's advice is identical with that of Sir Griffith Evans which I have already read."

The Hon'ble MR. STUART said:—"I have a few remarks to make upon this Bill. My position in this connection is a dual one; because, as a member of the Port Commission, it is my duty to see that no claims are made upon the Port Trust which were not contemplated or which are not equitable, and on the other hand, as a representative of the merchants, I have to see that advantage is not taken by the Port Commissioners, who hold a monopoly of storage room to the undue disadvantage of the merchants. The present excessive quantity of oil, as I understand in the sheds, is not entirely due to keeping back sales by dealers. To some extent that has been the case; but I believe that considerable deliveries are taking place since the Tariff Act was passed, and I am assured by importers that, in the future, very large stocks of oil will continue to be held at Budge-Budge. However, in acquiescing in the passing of this Act, I do so in the belief that it will make no difference in the actual intention of the Act, and also I believe that the Port Commissioners will take immediate steps to provide increased accommodation for future oil imports, as the quantity of oil now upon the water was considerably in excess of any possible means of storage the Port Commissioners have now got."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Bill was read accordingly.

The Hon'ble MR. COTTON said:—"The Rules having been suspended, I have now the honour to move that the Bill be passed. In doing so, I think I should read another portion of the Hon'ble Sir Griffith Evans' opinion which bears particularly on this point:—

'The matter is very urgent, as there are over 3 lakhs of cases outside the sheds, and the owners have given notice that they will claim for any damage from exposure, and if rain comes, there may be some lakhs of rupees damages. It is not wise to run the risk of taking the judgment of the Court upon this point, and the risk can only be avoided by an immediate amendment of the Act. As the amendment would only be of two words, and would be carrying out the probable meaning of the Act, and it is eminently reasonable and the risk is very imminent, it is probable that the Lieutenant-Governor would suspend the standing orders and pass the Bill at once.'

"The reasons for urgency are fairly explained in these words. Speaking on behalf of the Government, I think I may say that we could not allow such a measure as this to be passed at one sitting of the Council were we not satisfied that the legislation which is proposed will in effect be carrying out the intention of the existing law. There can be no reasonable doubt that the law was intended to apply to goods landed by the Port Commissioners, and to none other and we are advised that that is the meaning to be attributed to the existing law. But as a doubt exists regarding it, and the law is capable of being construed in more ways than one, the present Bill is introduced in order to make the point perfectly clear."

The Hon'ble SIR CHARLES PAUL said:—"I think there can be no doubt that this measure is an urgent one. Section 113, when properly read, implies that the 'landing' meant is by the Commissioners. It says:—'The Commissioners shall immediately upon the landing of any goods take charge thereof.' It never could have been intended that when goods are landed by other persons and is in their possession, the Commissioners shall, by taking them out of such possession, take charge thereof; therefore it is pretty plain that the landing in section 113 means landing by the Commissioners. The words are unfortunately so wide as possibly to induce some court of justice to hold a different view, and should such a view be entertained, heavy responsibility would be incurred by the Commissioners in regard to a matter as to which no liability was intended.

This Act provides for the landing of goods alongside of the wharves or jetties of the Commissioners; and under the Port Act of 1876 (which this Act cannot in any way affect) oil must be landed at Budge-Budge. The Port Act refers to the place of landing and to the mode of landing, and it may possibly be said that there is a doubt as to whether landing does not refer to all landing. The opinion given by Sir Griffith Evans was put before me, and I arrived at the same conclusion, first, that it would be a matter of great moment to the Port Commissioners to have the wording of this section made precise, in order to preclude their liability for goods not landed by them. It must always be remembered that all people do not look at the same thing with the same eyes. Some people's eyes have the microscopic attribute of looking at things so minutely as to throw a doubt upon everything which has ever been written. It is for that reason that the Port Commissioners wish to guard themselves against the possibility of liability. Then, with regard to the urgency of the matter, there cannot be any doubt. At present there is a block at Budge-Budge, and there are other ships coming into port with petroleum. I have no doubt that the Commissioners will do their best to assist the public by erecting more sheds, but in the meantime there is a block, and a possible responsibility is thrown on them, which they naturally wish to avert. It is therefore quite clear that the matter is urgent. It being the fact that the liability was never intended to be imposed upon the Commissioners, but that owing to the general language of the section that liability would and might be attempted to be thrown upon them it is nothing but fair that the Legislature should make their intention clear. On that subject I apprehend that not a single member of this Council will entertain any doubt. For these reasons, I think, both the necessity for legislation and the urgency of it will be admitted."

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said:—"The Government has been asked by the Port Commissioners of Calcutta to allow this Bill to be passed through Council at a single sitting. The Bill has not been long under consideration, and it has been hastily prepared on account of a sudden emergency. On these grounds, there might have been, in the eyes of hon'ble members, some hesitation as to whether they are sufficiently prepared against the unforeseen to justify them in taking this step. But considering the opinions they had just heard expressed by the most eminent legal adviser of this Council that the amendment is one which will only carry out the spirit and intention of the original Act, and considering what we have heard from the hon'ble member who represents the mercantile community of Calcutta, and who is also a Port Commissioner, who tells us that in his opinion this Bill will not cause injustice to importers of petroleum, and that the Port Commissioners will take all possible steps they can to prevent inconvenience to importers, I venture to think that we are not incurring undue responsibility if we accede to the request of the Port Commissioners and pass this Bill into law on the present occasion."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

THE REVENUE SALE BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. BUCKLAND moved for leave to introduce a Bill to amend the Revenue Sale Law. He said:—

"As it is my intention to ask you, Sir, to suspend the Rules of Business to enable me to introduce a Bill to amend the Revenue Sale Law at this meeting, I do not propose to offer any observations at the present stage. I merely now move for leave to introduce the Bill."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. BUCKLAND also applied to the President to suspend the Rules of Business. He said:—

"It is considered desirable that a Bill of such importance and of so grave a character should receive the fullest consideration from all those whom it may affect, and that object it is thought would best be attained by referring the Bill at once to a Select Committee. When Bills are introduced they are according to Rule published in the Gazette. It is expected that the Select Committee would, as was done in the case of the Drainage Bill, pick out the points of special importance on which the opinions of the district officers and of the public associations interested in the subject of the Bill should be sought. There is no intention whatever of proceeding with this Bill with any undue expedition and it will probably not be taken actively into consideration until the next cold weather."

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said:—"I declare the Rules to be suspended. I make this declaration in full conformity with what has fallen from the Hon'ble MR. BUCKLAND, that it is not the intention of the Government to hurry the Bill through the Council with undue speed, and this step is taken merely to pass the Bill through its formal initial stages at once and to enable us to place it before the public immediately so as to obtain opinions on the different important points at an earlier stage than if we postponed these stages for one or two subsequent meetings of the Council."

The Hon'ble MR. BUCKLAND introduced the Bill and moved that it be read in Council.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Bill was read accordingly.

The Hon'ble MR. BUCKLAND also moved that the Bill be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon'ble MESSRS. ALLEN and LYALL, the Hon'ble MAHARAJA RAVANESHWAR PROSAD SINGH BAHADUR OF GIDHOUR, the Hon'ble MAHARAJA SIR LUCHMESSUR SINGH BAHADUR OF DARBHANGA, the Hon'ble MAHARAJA JAGADINDRA NATH ROY OF NATOR, the Hon'ble MR. GHOSE and the MOVER. He said:—

"As the Bill to amend the Revenue Sale Law is formally before the Council, I rise now, Sir, to make an explanatory statement before moving that it be referred to a Select Committee. I will not tax the patience of the Council more than I can help; and, though I have to advert to the origin of the main principle of the existing law, I shall touch very lightly on its ancient history. In Lower Bengal, everything goes back to the Permanent Settlement of 1793. A reference to section 7 of Regulation I of that year will show that it was distinctly declared that in the event of any zamindar, independent talukdar or other actual proprietor of land, with or on behalf of whom a settlement might be concluded, failing in the punctual discharge of the revenue assessed on his land, a sale of the whole of the lands of the defaulter or such portion of them as might be sufficient to make good the arrear, would positively and invariably take place. This is the cardinal principle of the Sale Law. Since the Permanent Settlement the following Regulations and Acts have been passed, down to the main Act now in force for the realization of the land revenue in the Lower Provinces:—Regulations 14 of 1793, 3 of 1794, 5 and 12 of 1796, 7 of 1799, 1 of 1801, 12 of 1805, 5 of 1812, 18 of 1814, 11 of 1822, 12 of 1824, 7 of 1830; Acts 12 of 1841, 1 of 1845, 11 of 1859. I mention them to show that they have not been overlooked rather than from any desire to refer to them in any detail. An analysis of them would be interesting, but would occupy too much time. I will merely state that the Act of 1841—48 years after the Permanent Settlement—settled the general principles by which sales of land for recovery of arrears of revenue were to be regulated. Its provisions were re-enacted with slight modifications in Act I of 1845, and are still to be found in almost their original form in Act XI of 1859. The occasion for the Act last mentioned arose, not so much from any necessity of altering the law of 1841, or remedying defects which time had brought to light in the working of the law, as from the expediency of affording protection to new interests which had sprung into existence during a further period of progress and prosperity. It may, therefore, be laid down as an axiom that the main principles of the law which have stood the test of 50 years should not be disturbed. Again, a glance at this list of laws will serve my purpose to point out that the existing law, Act XI of 1859, has been in force much longer than any of its predecessors, though it, too, soon required and obtained support in some details from the auxiliary measures—Acts III (B.C.) of 1862, VII (B.C.) of 1868, II (B.C.) of 1871 and I (B.C.) of 1875. Act VII (B.C.) of 1868 was half repealed by Act VII (B.C.) of 1880, the Public Demands Recovery Act, now in force. The main principles of the law were not affected by these Acts. It will help the Council, I think, and anybody who has comments to offer on the Bill, if I briefly enunciate the main points of the existing law for the recovery of the land revenue as contained in the several Acts in force. At the Permanent Settlement it was arranged that the land revenue should be paid by monthly instalments. It has been defined by law since 1841 that when the whole or a portion of one of these instalments remains unpaid on the first of the following month of the era of the settlement, the sum so remaining unpaid is considered an arrear of revenue. The collection of such arrears is the main function of the sale law. By the law, latest days of payment are to be fixed on which all such arrears must be paid, and, in default of payment of the arrears in full by sunset on the latest days of payment, the estates or shares of estates in arrear are to be sold at public auction. These latest days of payment are for the most part fixed at four dates in the year. The meaning of this is, that the zamindars have been allowed the privilege of paying four times a year, instead of by monthly instalments. When these latest days of payment have passed, notifications are issued with lists of the estates or shares in arrears, and a date is fixed for the sale of such estates or shares to take place. Hitherto it has not been the general practice for any notice of their default to be sent to defaulting proprietors, though Collectors may, by section 6 of Act VII (B.C.) of 1868 be empowered to send them, but a proclamation is issued to the raiyats forbidding them after a certain date to pay rents to the defaulting proprietor. The law at the same time provides means by which proprietors and other persons than the proprietors can save their estates or their interests from sale, for instance, by making deposits, and recorded sharers may open separate accounts with the Collector, and in the latter case, the entire estate is not sold if the sale of the defaulting share satisfies the arrear of revenue due from it. Certain estates, such as those under the Court of Wards or under attachment, receive special protection. Though the law lays down that defaulting estates shall be sold, it gives the Collector and Commissioner discretionary power to exempt an estate or share from sale at any time before the sale has commenced, and Collectors have been permitted to exercise this right until the fall of the hammer at the auction. The law then provides for the payment by the auction-purchaser of a deposit of a portion of the purchase-money, and subsequently of the full amount, and for a re-sale under certain circumstances. It also authorises a defaulting proprietor to appeal to the Commissioner to have a sale annulled, and the Commissioner's order on such appeal is final. But it is open to a Commissioner on the ground of hardship or injustice to suspend passing final orders in appeal and to move the Board to recommend Government to annul the sale. This is done whenever required. Supposing the sale to have become final by course of law, the purchaser receives a certificate of title and formal delivery of possession. Every such certificate of title is to be conclusive evidence of regularity in the service of all notices; and the law clearly intended that no title should be impeached by reason of any informality or irregularity in these notices. Nothing can be done by the ousted proprietor to recover his estate except by a suit within a limited time in the Civil Court, upon the grounds of disregard of the provisions of the Act and substantial injury caused by the irregularity. The Collector applies the purchase-money first to the liquidation of arrears of revenue, then of all outstanding demands on the estate, and holds the surplus sale proceeds in deposit for the benefit of the late recorded proprietor.

"The purchaser of an estate in a permanently-settled district acquires it free from encumbrances, and can annul all under-tenures and eject all under-tenants with certain exceptions. Hitherto it has been possible for new talukdari and other similar tenure-holders, i.e., those holding tenures direct from the proprietors, to protect their tenures from annulment and themselves from ejection by registering their rights in specified methods within three months of the constitution of the tenures. For various reasons, much advantage has not been taken of these provisions. Under certain circumstances, that is, when there is no other bid for an estate put up to auction, Government may purchase it. By Act VII (B.C.) of 1868, tenures paying revenue to Government can be sold up for arrears in the same way as estates can be sold under Act XI of 1859.

"These are the main features of the existing Revenue Sale Law. Its importance is unquestionable, and it may fairly be claimed that it works with smoothness and efficiency. Its importance is proved by the fact that there were, according to the Board's last Land Revenue Report, 158,205 permanently-settled estates, yielding a current demand of Rs. 3,22,63,793 of land revenue, and 9,562 temporarily settled estates yielding Rs. 27,10,912 land revenue. I will not quote the figures in the Board's Cess Report, which shows a million and a quarter tenures and two million and a third recorded shareholders in tenures, because those figures include revenue-free estates, but it may be accepted that the revenue-paying tenure-holders are very numerous indeed. All of these persons, it may safely be said, are interested in the sale law as it is and as it may be amended. Again, according to the Board's last report, whereas 16,913 estates, shares and interests became liable to sale for arrears of Government dues, only 1,355, or 8 per cent. of those liable to sale were actually sold, i.e., about ·58 per cent. of the total number of estates and shares opened. This is good evidence that the law is not enforced with any excessive frequency.

"It would be wonderful if a law which has been developed by stages during 100 years, so much used and subjected to such constant criticism, did not in the course of time exhibit weak points, in which improvement would be admissible. Very few projects of law have been the subject of so much attention and enquiry as this Bill has been by reason of its widely extended application. I will allude briefly to the earlier enquiries, from which the changes now advocated really sprang to some extent. In referring to the previous correspondence, I wish to bring out clearly three points—firstly, that the whole subject has been very fully considered; secondly, that Government has, as Government, very little interest in passing the measure; thirdly, that the chief objects of legislating at all are to improve the law in respect of the facilities afforded to the zamindars and others concerned. The papers are very voluminous, amounting to 370 large pages: the correspondence has extended over 23 years. I find that in 1871, Sir George Campbell, when reviewing the Board's Land Revenue Report for 1869-70, called for a special report on the working of the sale law. He particularly wished to know whether the sales were really on account of inability to pay or in order to give a good title to the purchaser, and whether the effect had been to cause hardship to the holders of under-tenures or much litigation regarding them. He also asked whether the provisions of the law for registration and protection of under-tenures were operative and to what extent, and if not, why not; and whether any further provision was required. The Board replied that sales rarely took place owing to the inability of the proprietors to pay the Government demand thereon, the only exception being in those cases in which the estate or a large portion of it might have diluviated. Sales chiefly took place, it was said, owing to disputes among the minor share-holders and the desire of proprietors to obtain the highest value for their property, when owing to extravagance or other causes sales became necessary. By sales a good and certain title could be obtained, so that the utmost value of the land was realized. It was reported that sales did not practically cause much hardship to under-tenure-holders who were not as a rule interfered with under the law. The provisions of the law for the protection and registration of under-tenures were not utilized as much as had been expected. But the Board were willing to allow an under-tenant to deposit the arrears due from the estate at any time before the day of sale.

"The Board in 1872 considered the working of the law most beneficial, and deprecated altering a law with which the people were acquainted, and which entailed very rare instances of individual hardship, and such too as local authorities could remedy. 'The punctuality with which the Government demand must be met under pain of forfeiture of the estate in arrears induces habits of forethought and thrift, and tends to check the spirit of extravagance and recklessness which a knowledge that under a less stringent system the payment can be deferred from time to time is apt to create.' The Board thought that no other system of enforcement of the Government demands would be so beneficial or prove so acceptable to the people.

"Accordingly the matter dropped for the time. In 1874, Sir Richard Temple renewed the enquiries on the working of the law. In this Council, on the 19th December, 1874, he stated, after enquiries had been made from zamindars in various parts of the country, that he did not find that the law operated with any excessive harshness. He mentioned two points in which improvement might be possible—(1) that some notice should be given to defaulting zamindars before their estates are advertised for sale, and (2) that sometimes estates are advertised for sale for arrears for very small amounts. He thought it possible to insert some conditions to this effect in the existing law, provided always that any failure to fulfil such conditions on the part of the Revenue authorities should not affect the validity of the sale which might have to be carried out. On April 10th, 1875, again, Sir Richard Temple spoke in this Council of a brief amending Act. The Board asked for instructions. In July, 1874, a Government circular had been issued calling for a statement of the history of each estate or share advertised for sale for arrears in 1872-73. The replies showed that only 298 were sold, i.e., 10·6 of the number liable to sale, or 0·12 per cent. of all the estates on the revenue roll. In a Minute, dated the 26th August, 1875, Sir Richard Temple reviewed the question of the necessity for legislation, and mentioned that he had not learnt that any considerable grievance was felt by the zamindars. The only complaints he had heard of related (1) to the advertisement of estates for sale for comparatively trivial arrears, and (2) to defects in sending notice to defaulters respecting the occurrence of the arrear and the several stages in the procedure of the sale. The idea of immediate legislation was abandoned, but the British Indian Association were asked to state what alterations they considered to be needed in the sale law. In November, 1875, that Association made three suggestions for the amendment of the law, (1) that a mortgagee might be allowed to register his name and interest in the Collectorate, and in case of default that a notice might be served upon him giving him option to pay in the revenue within a prescribed time, after which the sale should take place; (2) that the proprietor might be allowed to register in the Collectorate the name of the patnidar and the conditions of the tenure, and in case of default of payment by the patnidar notice should be served upon the proprietor giving him time to pay in the revenue; (3) that when zamindars' muktars play them false, wide discretion should be given to the Board to receive the Government demand after due date. The British Indian Association recommended no radical changes. They wrote of the law:—'Although it is extremely rigorous, it has not been without substantial advantages. It has ensured the punctual payment of revenue, and taught the zamindar habits of providence and regularity.' They asked for a certain degree of leniency in its administration. The Government of the day accepted the proposal that a mortgagee should be permitted to register his name and interest in the Collector's books, and that, in case of default of payment by the mortgagor, a notice should be served on the mortgagee permitting him to pay in the arrears within a specified time. In section 52 of Act VII (B.C.) of 1876, provision was made for the registration of the mortgagee's interest. But Government declined to accept any other person, such as the patnidar, other than the zamindar as primarily responsible for the payment of the land revenue. The third proposal was accepted and provided for by circular orders.

"For some years, while the Rent Law of the Province was under consideration, the question of amending the Revenue Sale Law remained untouched. In 1883, the Board brought to notice the provision contained in section 27 of Act XI of 1859, by which sales which have once become final and conclusive cannot be interfered with either by the Board or by Government, except in special cases. The Lieutenant-Governor desired that the state of the law should be more fully considered, in communication with the Law Officers of Government. In a case which came before the Board in that year, they expressed their views that the policy of the Legislature was to put an early end to the uncertainty which must attend a purchase at a revenue sale as long as the higher executive authorities have the power of interfering to set it aside, and so to secure a higher price for estates so sold. Again, in 1884, the Board adverted to the subject, and

Mr. Dampier thought that something more might be done without material risk to the public revenues for giving security to tenures and encumbrances generally on estates on the model of sections 38 et seq., which protect talukdari and other similar tenures. He mooted the idea of putting up an estate to sale in the first instance subject to registered and declared encumbrances only, and afterwards to sale with power to avoid all encumbrances, if the arrears had not been realized by the first sale. He pointed out that this proposal followed the system provided for the sale of tenures for arrears of rent inserted in the Tenancy Bill, and that shares of estates are sold under Act XI of 1859 subject to all existing encumbrances. The Lieutenant-Governor was then too busily engaged with the Tenancy Bill, but expressed his intention of taking up this subject if set free to attend to other matters on the passing of that Bill.

'In 1885, Mr Reynolds, who had succeeded to the Board, submitted three definite proposals, after premising that the Tenancy Act had given legislative recognition to the principle that the sale of a tenure for arrears of rent shall be held subject to registered encumbrances. I will here quote the proposals but with the warning that the first two of them were withdrawn by Mr. Reynolds in February, 1889. They were (1) (as Mr. Dampier had suggested) that estates in respect of which a default has occurred in the payment of revenue should in the first instance be put up to sale, subject to declared and registered encumbrances, and should be sold with power to avoid encumbrances only in the event of the bidding at the first auction being insufficient to cover the outstanding demand with costs; (2) that, where a Commissioner dismisses an appeal and does not exercise his power of reporting the case under section 26 with a view to the sale being set aside by Government on the ground of hardship, the appellant should be allowed to make a further representation to the Board; (3) that the law as to delivery of possession to auction-purchasers be amended so as to remove doubts which had been expressed in some quarters regarding the legality of the present practice. These were criticised by Government in November, 1887, when it was for the first time suggested for consideration whether the cess demand should not be made realizable under the sale law instead of by the Certificate Procedure. This suggestion the Bengal Government subsequently withdrew, on the ground that it would be universally unacceptable to the zamindars. The Board were desired to further consult Commissioners and experienced Revenue Officers. I may mention that about this time the High Court's decision in the case of Lala Mobaruk Lal was much considered, and I may here state the main points of their decision, as it has been constantly referred to and as it is one object of the Bill to meet this decision, so as to give greater security to auction-purchasers. It was a case in which the Collector fixed a sale day which was not 30 clear days from the date of affixing the notification under section 6 of Act XI of 1859. A full Bench of the High Court held in January, 1885, that, notwithstanding the provisions of section 8 of Act VII (B.C.) of 1868 this error of procedure made the sale null and void. It would follow from this that, if the sale was not merely voidable, but void ab initio, the limitations of section 33 of Act XI of 1859 would not apply to it. It would not be necessary for the plaintiff to show that he had sustained substantial injury, or to have appealed to the Commissioner, or to bring his suit within the term of one year. This decision manifestly tends to make the title of auction-purchasers insecure, and also to involve Government in liability for costs in suits for the reversal of sales. The problem has been, how to meet these contingencies. I shall describe later how they have been met in the Bill. But I should mention here that since the Bill was drafted and submitted to the Government of India my attention has been drawn to an important decision of the Privy Council, reported in the Law Reports of last February. In the case of Gobind Lal Roy versus Ramjanam Misser and others, which was heard in June and July last, the Privy Council ruled as follows:—'Their Lordships, having regard to the scheme of the Act and the express direction contained in section 33, are of opinion that in every case where a sale for arrears of revenue is impeached as being contrary to the provisions of Act XI of 1859, no grounds of objection are open to the plaintiff which have not been declared and specified in an appeal to the Commissioner.' They went on to say:—'In the opinion of their Lordships a sale is a sale made under the Act XI of 1859 within the meaning of that Act, when it is a sale for arrears of Government revenue, held by the Collector or other officer authorized to hold sales under the Act, although it may be contrary to the provisions of the Act either by reason of some irregularity in publishing or conducting the sale or in consequence of some express provision for exemption having been directly contravened.' It is evident from the further remarks of their Lordships that they had in view the security of the titles of auction-purchasers. This also has been the object of the Bill now in my hands. I am not prepared to say, without taking the best legal advice, how far this recent decision of the Privy Council provides for all that this Bill was framed to secure in this respect, how far the Bill needs modification, or should be allowed to stand as drafted. The point will require careful consideration. I will now return from my digression, which I thought it best to complete. The Board's report, framed after consulting Commissioners and others, was submitted to Government in February, 1889. They called attention to the unsatisfactory and confused state of the law, comprised as it is in several Acts, and they suggested the consolidation and codification of both the laws for the recovery of arrears of land revenue and public demands recoverable as such arrears. They thought it would be impossible to pass a merely consolidating Bill, and suggested an examination of the law by the light of the experience gained in 30 years. They withdrew, as I have said, the first two of the proposals which they had made in 1885. They adverted to the suggestion which had originated with the British Indian Association, that notices of arrears should be served on defaulting proprietors, and they proposed to allow any person interested in an estate, whether proprietor, mortgagee, judgment-creditor or tenure-holder, to register a name and address in the Collector's office on payment of a reasonable annual fee; the Collector then to be bound, on the occurrence of any default, to send immediate notice of the same by registered letter to the registered address. It was to be understood, firstly, that the Collector would be responsible only for the despatch and not for the receipt of the notice, and, secondly, that the registration of a name and address would not involve any transfer of the liability to pay the revenue They suggested that any person should be allowed the right to obtain exemption of an estate from sale on payment of the arrear with all Government demands and a penalty, provided that the payment must be made and the order for exemption passed at least seven clear days before the day of sale, and that the Collector should have no discretion to give an exemption or to waive the penalty. They thought that landed proprietors would welcome this scheme as a valuable concession, and that Collectors would be glad to be relieved of exercising their discretion. The Board were opposed to extending the provisions of the Sale Law, instead of the Certificate Procedure, to the recovery of cesses. They agreed to a proposal to extend section 49 of the Cess Act to excess payments of revenue by sharers. They agreed also, in consequence of Lala Mobaruk Lal's case, to amending the law so as to secure finality of sales; and they again proposed to make more clear section 29 of Act XI of 1859 regarding the delivery of possession. Almost simultaneously with this correspondence about the revision of the sale law, there was other correspondence between the Board and Government on the interpretation of section 19 of the Public Demands Recovery Act arising out of the case of Sadhusaran Singh versus Panchdeo Lal in the High Court, to which allusion will be made at greater length subsequently.

"I have so far briefly run over the correspondence which took place preparatory to the first definite proposal for legislation, submitted by the Bengal Government in September, 1889, to the Government of India The letter of this Government mentioned that the expediency of undertaking fresh legislation with the object of tempering the alleged severity of the law in some respects and of remedying such defects as, for instance, the insecurity of under tenures under the existing Acts, had been discussed in Bengal from time to time, but for various reasons action had been postponed. This Government suggested that the laws should be amended to meet the difficulties which had arisen from the cases of Sadhusaran Singh and Lala Mobaruk Lal. It was also proposed to extend the principle of registration to under tenures (which is now only allowed to tenures of the first degree under section 38, as I have stated), and to allow the registration of all tenures and under-tenures at any time on a reduced fee of Rs. 2 in each case, provided that the deeds constituting them have been duly registered in time. Sir Steuart Bayley's Government also proposed (1) to amend the working of section 20 of the Act so as to leave no doubt as to what is required of the Collector in giving possession of an estate after sale; (2) by registered letter to give notice of default to any person interested who had registered his name and address; (3) to allow payments of revenue subsequent to the fixed latest days of payment, but subject to a penalty; (4) to extend section 49 of the Cess Act [IX (B.C.) of 1880] to excess payments on account of land revenue; (5) to allow any one affected by a revenue sale to appeal against it—a right at present restricted to the defaulting proprietor; (6) to allow the rate of interest payable on the refund of purchase-money to be fixed at 12 per cent.

"Sir Steuart Bayley proposed to have two separate Acts, each complete in itself—one on the subject of the collection of land revenue and the other on that of the realization of other public demands recoverable as land revenue, and he placed Mr. J. Beames, C.S., on special duty for the purpose of preparing them. The Government of India approved of this and generally of the proposals of the Local Government, subject to further consideration. It is well known that Mr. Beames framed two Bills during the cold weather of 1889-90. They were laid before Government in May, 1890, accompanied in the one case by explanatory notes, and in the other by a Statement of Objects and Reasons. Under cover of a brief Resolution, dated the 17th June, 1890, they were published in the Calcutta Gazette, and the opinions of the leading Associations interested in land were invited. The Bills were also submitted to the Government of India, who asked for the opinions of the Hon'ble the Chief Justice and the Judges of the High Court. The Associations consulted expressed their opinions. The Board reported at full length on the Bills in February, 1891. In August of that year, the High Court furnished the Government of Bengal with a copy of the report of the Hon'ble Judges to the Government of India on the Bills. That report chiefly dealt with the Public Demands Recovery Act, to which I shall have occasion to refer hereafter. With regard to the Bill to amend the Revenue Sale Law, the Hon'ble Judges made certain proposals of so fundamental a character that it was necessary for Government to consult the Board again, and further to address the High Court. The upshot of this correspondence was, that Government accepted the High Court's proposals as follows:—(1) that the system should cease whereby a purchaser runs the risk of two costly series of litigation—one before the Revenue authorities, the other in the Civil Courts; (2) that the Collector should be the final authority to decide conclusively upon the question of the arrears due; (3) that in cases of claims for arrears of land revenue, all recourse to the Civil Courts should be barred, i.e., that it should not be open to the defaulter to appeal to the Civil Court or to contest the sale in the Civil Court either on the ground of non-indebtedness or on any other ground. This proposal (3) was made on the understanding (a) that a special system of notice should be enforced by which the defaulters should be assured of really receiving notice of the date of the intended sale of their property; (b) that, in lieu of the right of suit to contest such claims in the Civil Court, the Legislature should give a right of redemption after sale similar to that which is allowed by section 174 of the Tenancy Act in the case of a tenure or holding sold for arrears of rent.

"The Local Government did not accept in all its details the system suggested by the High Court for the service of notices; for instance, the suggestion that Civil Court peons should serve the notices instead of the revenue peons, and that it should be made by law the duty of the Police to co-operate with the serving peons; but the Lieutenant-Governor accepted the suggestions that the serving peons should be bound to obtain the countersignature of the panchayats and chaukidars, and that, where proprietors had registered their addresses, duplicate notices should be sent to them from the Collectorate by registered letter.

"On this it was determined, with the assent of the High Court, to cut out from Mr. Beames' Bill the part dealing with the powers of the Civil Courts, and to substitute a single section providing that no Civil Court shall entertain a suit to set aside a sale either on the plea of non-indebtedness, or of irregularity of procedure, or want of jurisdiction, or for any other cause.

"The Bill was then redrafted by Government after full consideration of all the reports received. It was submitted to the Government of India in May, 1893, and after some correspondence this Government has been permitted to proceed in this Council with the Bill to amend the Revenue Sale Law, which is in the hands of hon'ble members.

"Before proceeding to describe the principal changes which the Bill proposes to introduce into the existing law, I desire to pause here for a minute or two and offer some general observations. I have endeavoured to explain to the Council how the project of legislation has grown up. The enquiries into the working of the sale law in Sir George Campbell's time came to nothing; Sir Richard Temple's idea of legislating was similarly infructuous for the time: it was not until the Board took up the subject with earnestness, while Mr. Reynolds was the Member in charge, that the proposed legislation began to assume definite shape between 1885 and 1889. The object of the contemplated legislation, as I have tried to show, is not only to put the law in a more convenient form by consolidation and re-arrangement, but also to introduce such substantive improvements as it seems possible to effect for the convenience of the different classes concerned without impairing the efficiency of the system. The view taken by the Board at one time was that the Revenue Sale Law, as embodied in Act XI of 1859, is a measure of extreme stringency, both as it bears upon proprietors of estates and as it affects the holders of subordinate tenures and interests. The alleged stringency upon the former class is that, if the arrear demand of revenue is not discharged in full before sunset on the latest day of payment, the Collector has an absolute right to sell the estate. The position of subordinate tenure-holders has been described as precarious, in that their titles are liable to be annulled by the default of the superior landlord. In the case of the former, the alleged severity of the law has been tempered by section 18, which permits a Collector to exempt a defaulting estate from sale at any time before the sale has actually commenced, and by Government orders issued from time to time enjoining leniency and moderation in the administration of the law. I am not prepared to admit that the law is unduly stringent: it is an obligation coming down from the Permanent Settlement, section 7 of Regulation I of 1793, that if the proprietor fails in the punctual discharge of the land revenue, the whole of his lands, or sufficient to make good the arrear, will positively and invariably be sold. This provision and penalty were thought just in 1793 when the revenue represented 90 per cent. of the rental. Without referring to Road Cess figures, it is notorious that the rental has increased considerably, while the revenue permanently assessed has remained stationary: at any rate, if the zamindars should be disposed to question this single provision of the Permanent Settlement, they would run the risk of having the whole arrangement re-opened.

"I have quoted a passage from the report of the British Indian Association of November, 1875, in which, while admitting that no radical change in the law is required, and complaining of its extreme rigour, that influential body admitted its substantial advantages, as it had ensured the punctual payment of revenue and taught the zamindars habits of providence and regularity. The keynote, then, to the Bill which I hold in my hand is that, so long as the punctual payment of the revenue is secured, Government have no objection to making changes of procedure which will facilitate the retention of their estates by the proprietors, and will assist the subordinate tenure-holders to preserve their interests in the event of the parent estate being sold for arrears of revenue. But, in making concessions which will admit of defaulting proprietors saving their estates up to the day preceding the day of sale or redeeming them after sale, Government propose to place a limit to further concessions by withdrawing from the Collectors the discretionary power they have enjoyed under section 18 of Act XI of 1859. Perhaps I should not say that they have enjoyed the power in question, for it has laid them open to the rebukes and censures which have occasionally been administered: the variety in practice has at any rate caused an undesirable uncertainty which has been a cause of anxiety to proprietors and their agents. It is impossible for Government to allow concessions and further discretionary leniency as well. The security of the revenue is the first consideration, and it is, I might almost say, the only consideration in which Government is really concerned in this Bill. At the same time, I should point out that the measure in no way aims at any increase in the Government land revenue. If the zamindars pay their revenue punctually, the Bill will add nothing but possibly some comparatively unimportant stamp duties to the coffers of the State. It is brought forward necessarily as a Government measure, but it will be evident that the interest of Government in its passing is very small as compared with the interests of those classes whose rights of property will be benefited by it. If therefore any amendment is carried, which will have the effect in the remotest degree of endangering a rupee of the Government revenue, it will be my duty immediately to move that the progress of the Bill be suspended, and, as they say in Parliament, to move the Government to reconsider the situation. It would be very easy for Government to introduce a much smaller Bill, merely for the object of meeting the High Court's judgment in the case of Lala Mobarak Lal, by which it may be thought that the safety of the Government revenue was to some extent likely to be exposed to risk.

"I will now proceed to explain some of the most important of the changes introduced by the Bill into the existing law as contained in the Acts mentioned at the beginning of my remarks. They have been set out in order in the Statement of Objects and Reasons attached to the Bill. There can, I presume, be no objection to the re-arrangement of the law in a natural order, so as to correspond with the actual course of events in the history of an arrear of revenue from its inception to its ultimate consequences. I may also mention that some definitions have been added, some altered, and all arranged in alphabetical order.

"The most important paragraphs of the Statement of Objects and Reasons with which only I need trouble the Council are those numbered 10, 11, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 25, on each of which I will offer some explanations. These refer to the particular points for which legislation is considered, if I may not say absolutely necessary, yet advisable for the improvement of the law.

"In the first place, it is considered desirable to provide for the service of notices upon defaulters, so that their estates may not be sold without their knowledge. This will be effected by sections 10-12 of the Bill. It will be remembered that the zamindars in 1875 complained of want of notice of default before their estates were sold for default. Both Sir Richard Temple and Sir Steuart Bayley were willing that some notice should be given, and indeed section 6 of Act VII (B.C.) of 1868 empowers the Lieutenant-Governor to authorize the issue of such notices as he may please to defaulting proprietors, though no general use has been made of these provisions. The Bill does not propose that proprietors should receive notice of defaults, for it may rightly be assumed that when the revenue is settled in perpetuity, and even under a temporary settlement, every proprietor must know the amount due from him, the latest day of payment, and whether he has paid or not. But what is proposed is, that the defaulter should receive information not of his default, but of the date fixed for the sale, in order that he may attend the sale and secure that a fair price is bid for the property. Then, as notices to this effect are to be given, it is essential to secure their due service. It has, therefore, been provided in the Bill that when notifications of sale are issued, notices of the date of sale shall be served at the same time locally on the recorded proprietors, and shall specify the estate or share notified for sale and the date fixed for the sale. The chaukidar and a member of the chaukidari panchayat of the proprietor's village are to co-operate with the serving officer and to certify to the service of the notice. It is intended also to instruct the police, not by law as the High Court proposed, but by executive orders to use their weight and authority to impress on the chaukidars and panchayats that it is their duty to assist the process peons in this way. One great difficulty has always been to ascertain the names and addresses of the proprietors of estates, and some improvement has been effected in this respect by the Land Registration Act, though many mutations still escape registration. In order that no available means may be neglected for ensuring the service of these notices, any person interested in an estate by whatever title is to be allowed to register his name and address with details in the Collectorate, and thereby to become entitled to receive another notice of the date of sale by registered letter. No sale is to be held void or voidable by non-receipt of the letter, if it be proved that it has been duly registered and posted. The High Court, as well as Government, attach great importance to the due service of these notices of dates of sale.

"The next important sections are 14 and 15 of the Bill, which are to take the place of section 18 of the main Act in force. Paragraph 11 of the Statement of Objects and Reasons is so full that I need add little to it. It runs thus:—

'By section 18 of Act XI of 1859, a Collector is authorised to use his discretion, at any time before the sale of an estate shall have commenced, to exempt such estate from sale, but the section contains no instructions for the guidance of Collectors in the exercise of their discretion. The orders of the Board and Government issued from time to time have inculcated leniency, but the discretion allowed has necessarily been exercised without uniformity; so that landed proprietors have been left in uncertainty and Collectors exposed to an embarrassing responsibility and the risk of errors and reprimands. It is considered desirable to leave no discretionary power to Collectors, and to fix exactly by law the rights of Government and of the proprietors who desire to save their estates from sale. It has accordingly been provided by sections 14 and 15 of the Bill that arrears are to be received by a Collector after the latest days of payment (fixed under section 6 of the Bill) up to the day preceding the day fixed for the sale, on payment by the defaulting recorded proprietor of all Government dues, interest on the arrear of revenue, and a penalty graduated according to the delay in payment (between the latest day of payment and the day before the sale day) up to one-fifth of the arrears, with certain provisos limiting the penalty in the cases of very large and very small estates. Their default will not, as at present, be liable to be followed invariably by the extreme measure of sale, but will involve in the first instance only some additional expense. In allowing the right of payment later than the fixed latest days of payment, it becomes necessary to charge interest on the arrear. This entails the repeal of the surviving section of Act XII of 1841, which prohibited the demand of interest or penalty upon any arrear of land revenue. The Collector is to have no power to receive any payment on the sale day.'

"If these sections are approved by the Council, the payment of the land revenue will be thus provided for:—

(1) up to what is commonly called the kist day, i.e., the latest day of payment, as a matter of right of the payer, without any penalty;

(2) up to sunset of the sixth day before the sale day, as a matter of right of the payer, on payment of a penalty of one-tenth of the arrear due;

(3) during the last five days before the sale day, as a matter of right of the payer on payment of one-fifth of the arrear due;

(4) on the sale day, no opportunity of any sort to be allowed to a defaulter to protect his estate from sale: the sale to be obligatory.

"In all cases the arrear and interest and all outstanding charges are to be paid: the proportionate penalty is to be modified in the case of large estates, and is never to be less than one rupee.

"It may be anticipated that these proposals will be much discussed. Considerable thought and care have been expended on making them substantial and reasonable. The zamindars, it may be expected, will be glad of the concession of opportunities of saving their estates after kist days, but will wish to do it on easier terms as to the penalty to be levied for the concession. I may say at once, in the most emphatic manner, that there is no desire to increase the land revenue by the levy of a penalty on late payments. The whole and sole object of the penalty is to enforce punctuality in the payment of the revenue. The Bill embodies all that the Government is prepared to concede: it may turn out that too much has been conceded. On the other hand, it has been objected that this concession allows a later day of payment than the fixed latest day of payment, which is absurd, as Euclid says. I do not agree in this criticism. It allows an opportunity of paying under a fixed penalty, which is a very different thing. It is essential to preserve the importance of the kist day, i.e., the latest day of payment, and to allow no payment on the sale day on any terms. The confusion and inconvenience caused by the power that defaulters have of tendering arrears up to the very commencement of a sale are notorious, and it is very desirable that the sale proceedings should not be disturbed by the efforts and clamours of defaulters demanding permission to pay at the last moment.

"I have next to refer to sections 43 and 59 of the Bill which are meant to meet the difficulty caused by the High Court's ruling in the case of Lala Mobarak Lal. I have referred to this case already. It is obviously desirable that, when estates are brought to sale and sold, the proceedings should not be liable to be set aside unless for some serious defect. There is a section of the law, viz., section 8 of Act VII (B C.) of 1868, which already provides that a purchaser's title is not to be impeached or affected by any omission, informality or irregularity as regards the serving or posting of any notice connected with the sale. But this case decided that, where sufficient legal notice of the sale had not been given, the sale was in consequence not a sale under Act XI at all, so that there was no power under that Act or its subsidiary Acts to prevent such a sale from being set aside. The object of legislating is to secure the titles or auction purchasers which are rendered unsafe by such a decision. To do this, it is proposed to require the Collector or his Deputy, before a sale is held, to go through all the notifications and notices, see that they have all been duly issued, and record an attestation proceeding to that effect. It is intended that this attestation and the certificate of title shall together protect the sale from being upset on the grounds of any omission, informality or irregularity regarding the notices. I need only repeat here what I said a few minutes ago, that the effect of the recent Privy Council decision in the case of Gobind Lal Roy versus Ramjanam Misser and others will require careful consideration in connection with these provisions of the Bill. I have mentioned above the existing provisions regarding appeals against sales. They are not satisfactory because it is beyond the power of the Collector to review his own action if he wished to do so. An appeal against a sale must be made to the Commissioner at a distance, and the defaulting proprietor is the only person who can make it There is no appeal from the Commissioner, and, if he does not choose to move the Board of Revenue to recommend the Local Government to annul a sale on the ground of hardship, no remedy is available. It is thought that the opportunities of appeal and remedy should be increased, but not to an unlimited extent. It is important at the same time that the Collector should be the final authority regarding the due service of all notices. Any person interested is to be allowed to appeal to the Collector to annul a sale on the ground of irregularity in any of the notices, if substantial injury has been caused thereby, and an appeal is to be allowed to the Commissioner against a Collector's refusal to annul a sale, but allowed on the ground of substantial injury only. As now, no right of appeal is to be allowed beyond the Commissioner, but, whether the Commissioner sends up the case or not, any person interested is to be allowed to represent the case to the Board on the ground of hardship or injustice. The Local Government will no longer have anything to do with the matter; but, with two appeals available and the right of representation, there is no need to fear any miscarriage of justice.

"The Council may be aware that under section 174 of the Tenancy Act it is open to judgment-debtors in sales for arrears of rent to have the sale set aside by making certain deposits in Court. The High Court have proposed that, analogously, a right to redeem their estates after sale should be conferred on recorded proprietors, the right to be exercised within a given time by depositing certain amounts, and a penalty. Obviously, the penalty to be paid to entitle to redemption after sale must be higher than that required to entitle to exemption before sale. It is a moot point what effect this right of redemption will have on the price obtained for an estate at a revenue sale. On the one hand, it is alleged that the result will be to decrease the price, and that it may involve the redeeming proprietor in difficulties with the purchaser. As a general rule estates, it is believed, fetch a full price at revenue sales, because they are sold free of encumbrances for the most part, and an absolutely secure title is given. On the other hand, the High Court have expressed an opinion that this right of redemption would tend to secure prices at revenue sales corresponding more nearly than now with the value of the land sold: for, instead of having to face the possibility of costly and complicated litigation on the part of the person whose land is sold, the worst that a purchaser would have to fear would be the return of his purchase-money with interest, and the High Court anticipate that it would provide a remedy against the extreme hardship that occurs from time to time when properties, in consequence no doubt generally of the carelessness of the proprietors, are sold at revenue sales for a small fraction of their value, and the owners are brought to ruin. This extreme hardship it is thought desirable to obviate by this right of redemption The zamindars will doubtless express their opinion in due course on this new proposal; but it is one on which the High Court lay great stress, as it is upon this right of redemption and upon the efficient service of notices that the High Court rely as conditions precedent for their proposal to which I must next allude, that the Civil Courts should be debarred from entertaining a suit to annul a sale for arrears of land revenue. By section 33 of Act XI of 1859, the jurisdiction of the Civil Court in suits to annul sales is surrounded by certain limitations. But weighty objections have been taken to the Civil Court having any jurisdiction at all in such cases. The High Court point out that now a purchaser runs the risk of two costly series of litigation—one before the Revenue authorities and the other in the Civil Courts. The property sold is injuriously affected, as it is seldom that at a revenue sale the price fetched reaches the real value; and other evil effects, such as disastrous litigation, follow. In the opinion of the Hon'ble Judges this system ought not to continue, and they recommend that there be substituted for it a method of procedure analogous to that which they recommend for the recovery of other public demands. They consider that the Collector should be the general authority to decide conclusively, subject to the control of his official superiors, upon the question of the arrear due; and they would not permit a suit to be brought in a Civil Court to dispute or set aside a sale on any other grounds, such as those of jurisdiction or irregularity in the proceedings. But before barring all recourse to the Civil Courts they stipulate for two points as conditions precedent. These are a high standard of efficiency in the service of notices, and a right of redemption after sale. I have already dilated sufficiently on these points. The object of section 55 of the Bill is to provide in general terms for the High Court's suggestion, other sections being framed to carry it out in detail. It is obviously desirable if possible that the revenue work should be done by the Revenue officers, and that opportunities of litigation should not be unduly increased.

"Sections 57 and 58 of the Bill are of some importance and may be mentioned. Their object is not to add any new law, but to make clearer and to enforce the intention of the present law. Under section 28 of Act XI of 1859, the Collector is required to give a certificate to the purchaser at a sale. But in practice purchasers constantly neglect to take certificates for various reasons, because they do not want to get possession, or because the Collector notifies the transfer of the estate without waiting for the purchaser to take the certificate, or to avoid the stamp duty which is the same on a certificate as on a conveyance. The Bill provides for an application to be made for the certificate, and requires the payment of the stamp duty before a certificate is granted. Not till then is the Collector to notify the transfer of the estate or to give possession. Doubts have before now been expressed as to the proper method for a Collector to give possession, and it was at one time thought that he was required to do so by metes and bounds, that is, by indicating the actual boundaries of an estate and placing the purchaser in actual possession. It is provided in the Bill that the manner of delivery of possession is to be assimilated to that of the Civil Procedure Code for giving possession of immoveable property in execution of a decree. The procedure is explained at length in section 58.

"There is only one more matter of importance on which I need now touch. It has long been felt that the holders of interests in landed property, subordinate to the interest of the revenue-paying proprietor, were not sufficiently protected by the sale laws, which permitted the annulment of such interests or charges, defined in the Bill as encumbrances, by a purchase at sale for arrears of revenue. Before 1859 a system of double sales was in force, whereby an estate might be put up to sale in the first instance, subject to all encumbrances whenever necessary: in the event of such a sale not producing a sum sufficient to cover the arrear, it was not to be confirmed, but a second sale with power to annul encumbrances was to take place. As is well known, the matter was much discussed when Act XI of 1859 was passed. One of the objects of that Act, as stated in the preamble, was to protect certain registered under-tenures (as they were called) from loss, i.e., annulment, by avoidance of the tenures through the sale of the superior estate for arrears, and a system of special and common registry was adopted in the Act for the purpose of protecting certain tenures and farms when the estate was sold for arrears. This system only applied to talukdari and other similar tenures holding direct from the proprietor: registration of old tenures was only allowed for a limited time, which was subsequently extended: now only newly created tenures can be registered. It is now thought that under-tenures of all descriptions are as much deserving of protection as those of the first degree,

An objection has been taken to the extension of the principle of registration and protection of all tenures, and to the sale of a defaulting estate subject to such encumbrances, on the ground that the existence of such tenures diminishes the sale value of a defaulting zamindari. On the whole, however, it is thought equitable that tenure-holders should be capable of protecting themselves from the consequences of the laches of the proprietor, for which they are not responsible, and that it should not be open to the zamindars first to derive consideration from the creation of tenures and then to derive a second consideration from the same land by allowing it to go to sale free from encumbrances. Actual instances of such malpractices are on record. The talukdars and tenure-holders have not availed themselves largely of the power of protecting themselves, and it remains to be seen whether the under-tenure-holders will do so more. My references to the correspondence of the last few years will have shown that the revival of the system of double sales which I have just mentioned was at one time contemplated by the Board, but was dropped as open to various objections, inter alia that it would be regarded by the zamindars as tending to a general reduction of the value of their property. If, then, on the one hand, estates are to be made over to purchasers free of all encumbrances of doubtful validity, and on the other hand, adequate protection is to be secured to bonâ fide tenants of all classes, so that their interests may not be jeopardized through no fault of their own, the only resource lies in an extension of the principle of registry. The provisions of the Act for the registration of talukdari tenures have therefore by the Bill been extended to tenures of all descriptions without limitation of time and on payment of a small fee: such tenures must either have been in existence for twelve years, or have been created by registered deeds. This change is not mentioned now for the first time. It was alluded to in the Government Resolution of 17th June, 1890, under cover of which Mr. Beames' Bills were published in the Calcutta Gazette.

"I have now glanced, perhaps too briefly, at the principal changes in the law for which it is thought desirable to legislate as distinct improvements, beneficial to one class or the other, to the zamindars in some points, to under tenure-holders in other respects, and to Government only in the case of stamp duty. The subject is so technical that it has been difficult to be clear without prolixity. But ample time for studying it will be available before next cold weather, when it is intended to proceed with it actively, and I trust that on examination it will be found to have been framed with circumspection and with a reasonable regard for the interests of all concerned. The Bill will be published in the Gazette according to the Rules. The Select Committee will not be expected to deal with the Bill finally with a view to a Report at present. It is rather expected that they will examine the Bill carefully, and, as was done in the case of the Drainage Bill, will indicate specially the points on which the opinions of officials and Associations should be obtained. If the Select Committee should see fit to adopt such a course, the Bill, with the Statement of Objects and Reasons, and the Select Committee's letter would be circulated for the purpose of eliciting the opinions of all persons interested in the subject. I will only repeat that there is no intention whatever of unduly expediting legislation in connection with so important a measure. I have now, Sir, to move that the Bill to amend the Revenue Sale Law be referred to a Select Committee of this Council."

The Hon'ble MAULVI SERAJUL ISLAM KHAN BAHADUR said:—"With your Honour's permission, I beg to offer a few observations with reference to the general provisions of the Bill before the Council. It would appear that the present measure is in some respects an improvement on the previous Acts regarding revenue sales, the right, for instance, which is given to the defaulter by the present Bill to redeem on payment of revenue within a certain time and to pay arrears of revenue after the latest date of payment and the facilities which are further given to mortgagees and others, who are interested in a zamindari to register their names and to receive notices of sale and so on. No doubt these are improvements for which the public ought to be thankful to the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill. But, at the same time, there are some provisions which seem to me open to objection. The Bill proposes to take away a right which the public have hitherto enjoyed. I mean the right to have the question of the validity or invalidity of a sale tried by a Civil Court. That is a right which I submit is valued by the people and ought not to be taken away after a series of years. The reason given in the Statement of Objects and Reasons for taking away this right appears to me, I say so with great respect, not sufficient to justify a departure from the established law of the country, and that reason is this, that according to the opinion of the High Court suitors ought not to have recourse to two tribunals the Revenue Court and the Civil Court. The object no doubt is a very generous one, namely, to save the public from the costs of litigation. In that I quite agree. But the remedy which is proposed is, I am afraid, one which will not meet with the approbation of the public. The remedy ought not to be by taking away the right of the people to have recourse to the Civil Courts to have their rights tried, but it is a very simple one, namely, to repeal section 33 of Act XI of 1859. It is that section which, I submit with great respect, has created all the mischief. It compels suitors to go first to the Commissioner of the Division by way of appeal, and then to go to the Civil Court by way of a regular suit to have the sale set aside. So suitors are obliged under that section to resort first to the Revenue authorities. If the object of the Bill is to do away with this double set of tribunals, I submit the simple remedy is by repealing section 33 of the present Act As I said before, I quite agree with the general object with which this section has been framed It is not my desire that there should be a loophole in the Bill to encourage litigation, but I would urge the Council to take into their serious consideration that some provision should be made in the Bill to protect the rights of the people, and for that this Bill, I submit, does not make sufficient provision.

"The only safeguard I find is, the attestation of the Collector to the service of notice by a peon. That attestation will go to show that a notice was issued, but it is not a sufficient safeguard to protect the rights of the people. The right of applying to the Collector and of appealing to the Commissioner is given by the Bill, and the only question is, whether the public would have the question of right tried in a summary way by the Revenue authorities or by regular suit in a Civil Court. As far as I am aware, I think the public would prefer to have this question tried by the Civil Courts, and that being so, I do not think it necessary to deprive the people of a right which they have hitherto enjoyed. The hon'ble member in charge of the Bill has said that the Government has no interest in the matter. No doubt that is so, but the policy of the sale law is to protect the Government revenue, and the law was founded on the assumption that after the Permanent Settlement some zamindars by improvident gifts of taluks and other sub-tenures endangered the security of the revenue. That was considered a breach of the conditions on which the Permanent Settlement was created; and it was in order to meet such a state of things that the sale law was first enacted. I do not propose to discuss the question whether the reasons which induced the Legislature at that time to frame the Sale Law exist now or not, but I submit that the Government has ample security for their revenue in the estates themselves. There is an efficient machinery in the hands of the Government to enforce that security against defaulters That being the state of the law, as the interests at stake are very large, and as valuable properties are sometimes sold through the oversight of some ministerial officers, I ask whether it would be right or expedient to deprive the people of a right to a regular suit? I submit this for the consideration of the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill.

"There is an omission in the Bill to which I wish to draw attention, namely that there is no distinction made between illegality and irregularity in sales. No doubt there are irregularities or technical defects which may be covered by the certificate given to the auction-purchaser. Section 59 of the Bill provides that such certificate and attestation by the Collector should be conclusive evidence in favour of the purchaser. The mere granting of a certificate and attestation by the Collector will be conclusive evidence and serve to cure every defect. If it be a technical defect or a slight clerical error, it may be so, but the Bill does not provide for an important defect in the procedure, where, for instance, there was no actual service of notice at all. That is not a mere ordinary irregularity, but an illegality which goes to the root of the jurisdiction. Section 49 provides that the Collector shall satisfy himself that all the notices required previous to the sale have been duly served, and his attestation will be conclusive to cure all sorts of defects whatever. I humbly submit that this Bill does not provide sufficient safeguards to protect the rights of the people."

The Hon'ble SIR CHARLES PAUL said:—"I feel called upon to say a very few words upon the subject of this Bill, although I have not studied it sufficiently to be able to pronounce a positive opinion. I wish to point out for the consideration of the Select Committee that any attempt to deprive the High Court of its jurisdiction will be useless, because this Council has no power to interfere with the jurisdiction of the High Court. I have also to observe that in former days when land was not so valuable as it is now, it was sometimes necessary to resort to personal eviction for the purpose of recovering the deficiency after the sale of land. Now, fortunately, circumstances have so changed that there is no necessity for imprisoning a zamindar for the recovery of any deficiency in the sale proceeds.

"It is not the zamindar now to whom the Government looks for its revenue, but to the land itself. It is the land which is charged with the payment of revenue. It is the duty of everybody connected with the land—the zamindar, the mortgagor, the putnidar, &c., to take care that the revenue is paid; and therefore if the provisions of Act XI of 1859 are not sufficient to allow all persons interested to pay in the Government revenue, I shall be very glad to see the law amended, so that any person interested in the smallest degree in the land should be entitled to pay the arrears of revenue in order to save the estate from sale. Further, I am averse to requiring a notice of arrear to be sent by the Government to any human being. I should like to see a different procedure altogether adopted. I would proceed on the principle that the land is responsible for the revenue, and that any person interested be permitted to save the estate from sale by paying the arrears of revenue. And that being so, instead of embarking on a sea of confusion by requiring the service of a number of notices by registered post or otherwise, I think the special procedure ought to be something like this. A default in the payment of revenue takes place; it should be advertised and notified in all public places, and stated distinctly that two or three months (as may be determined upon) from that date the sale will take place. That being done, there should be some provisions such as those contained in this Bill that the arrears may be paid within that time with 5 per cent. interest. After the sale takes place, no opportunity should be allowed to attack that sale through the Revenue Courts. The only attack which should be permitted should be on the ground that no arrear of revenue was due.

"By a procedure such as this, all the trouble as to the service of notices and proof of service would be avoided, and no injustice would be done from my point of view. I do not think the lines on which the Bill has been drawn disclose improvements. They appear to me to indicate a retrograde movement."

The Hon'ble MR. BUCKLAND in reply said:—"The remarks which were addressed to the Council by one of the gentlemen who has spoken will be dealt with by the Select Committee, and I accept them as valuable contributions from a gentleman who is interested in the subject of this Bill. I cannot say that I share at all in the fears expressed by the learned Advocate-General that any estate is likely to be sold for arrears of revenue when no arrears are really due. I think the Collector of the district and other officers entrusted with the revenue administration of the district are fully capable of ensuring that no estate will ever be brought to sale unless there are arrears of revenue due from the estate. It seems to me that my hon'ble and learned friend has raked up an imaginary grievance on this point. With regard to the question of staying the jurisdiction of the Civil Court, it has been very fully dealt with in the correspondence, and the proposal which now finds shape in the Bill has been adopted on the recommendation of the High Court itself. I think the Bill might very well go to the Select Committee, where the observations which have now been made will be thoroughly considered."

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said:—"The question before the Council is one of such technicality that it would be undesirable to attempt to answer here on the spur of the moment the observations which have fallen from my hon'ble friend the Advocate-General; but, as far as I understand him, I venture to think that whatever disagreement there may be in matters of detail between the procedure enunciated in the Bill and the procedure recommended by him, at any rate our aim is the same It seems to me that he desires, like the Government, that the advertisement of sale should be a complete notice to a defaulter to pay up the arrear if he is able to pay it, and thus save his estate from sale, but that if he does not pay, the sale should be so absolute that there should be no means of upsetting it. The land is undoubtedly liable for the payment of revenue, not the person, but it should not be possible that a man's property should be sold without his being aware of it. All that I wish to say at the present stage is, that the object of the learned Advocate-General and of the framers of the Bill seems to me to be the same, and I trust it will be quite possible for the Select Committee to make such alterations in the Bill as may meet his views. Our intention is that the subject should be considered as fully as possible, that the Bill should be circulated and opinions should be called for, and that the remodelling or alteration of the Bill to such an extent as may seem necessary should be placed in the hands of the Select Committee."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

PUBLIC DEMANDS RECOVERY ACT, 1880, AMENDMENT BILL.

The Hon'ble Mr. Buckland also moved for leave to introduce a Bill to amend the Public Demands Recovery Act, 1880. He said:—

"As in the last case, it is my intention to ask you, Sir, to be good enough to suspend the Rules of Business to enable me to introduce this Bill at the present meeting of the Council. I shall therefore offer no observations at this stage."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Buckland said:—"I now also apply for the suspension of the Rules with a view to the Bill being read in Council and referred to a Select Committee. As I said when dealing with the Bill for the amendment of the Revenue Sale Law, it has been thought desirable to obtain all possible opinions before the Bill is actively proceeded with next cold weather. The object of referring the Bill to a Select Committee is, that they should examine it in connection with those opinions when they are received."

The Hon'ble the President having declared the Rules suspended—

The Hon'ble Mr. Buckland introduced the Bill and moved that it be read in Council.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Bill was read accordingly.

The Hon'ble Mr. Buckland also moved that the Bill be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon'ble Messrs. Allen and Lyall, the Hon'ble Maharaja Ravaneshwar Prosad Singh Bahadur of Gidhour, the Hon'ble Maharaja Sir Luchmessur Singh Bahadur of Darbhanga, the Hon'ble Maharaja Jagadindra Nath Roy of Nator, the Hon'ble Mr. Ghose and the Mover He said:—

"The second Bill which I have the honour of laying before the Council today is a measure to amend and consolidate the Public Demands Recovery Act. In the explanation which I have to offer, I shall not occupy the time of hon'ble members to such length as I was constrained to do just now: the Bill itself does not contain so many important changes, and it has not been the subject of so much correspondence as the Revenue Sale Bill. The whole system of the Recovery of Public Demands is an offshoot of the system of the realization of the land revenue, and the present Bill has sprung from the correspondence connected with the amendment of the Revenue Sale Law. It is now intended to divide the offshoot from the main stock, and to give it a separate existence.

"I propose to divide my remarks into several portions. I will first make some reference to the history of the system of the recovery of public demands; secondly, I will give an outline of the existing law; in the next place I will trace the correspondence which led up to the proposal for legislation, and in the last place I will explain the important points in which it is intended to amend the law now in force.

"The main Acts on this subject have been only two, viz., Act VII (B.C) of 1868 and Act VII (B.C.) of 1880. Two brief subsidiary Acts, I (B.C.) of 1875 and I (B.C.) of 1891, have been required; the former of these merged in the Act of 1880, and the latter was requisite to correct an oversight. The principles of the system are briefly, that Government is thereby allowed to recover certain demands due to the State by a special Certificate Procedure, without resorting to a Civil Court: and that execution of the certificate is to be effected by the Revenue authorities. The history of the system and its principles were clearly stated by Mr. Field when he introduced into this Council, on the 13th March, 1880, the Bill which afterwards became Act VII (B.C.) of that year. He referred thus to the first of these Acts, VII (B.C) of 1868. The object of the Act was twofold. It first amended the Revenue Sale Law—Act XI of 1859; that is, the law for the recovery of arrears of land revenue by the sale of the estate upon which those arrears had accrued. In the second place, it provided a procedure for the recovery of certain demands due to the State. The nature of that procedure was this: A public officer of Government was empowered to certify that a certain sum of money was due, and to this certificate was given the force of a decree. This decree is executed as the decree of a civil court, but, with this difference, that the machinery employed in executing it consists of the Collector and his subordinate officers, instead of the ordinary machinery of the civil courts. In all countries the State—the Exchequer—has reserved to itself a special and peculiar procedure for the recovery of certain dues and debts owing to itself. Between private individuals the ordinary practice is, that a person to whom a debt is due resorts to the civil court, and after an adjudication upon the rights of the parties, the court embodies this adjudication in a decree, the execution of which enables one person, the plaintiff, to compel another person, the defendant, to pay the debt justly demandable from him. In the case of the State, in most countries the Government has declined to resort to the ordinary tribunals, and it has reserved to itself a special procedure to enforce its own demands. In this country, from the earliest period, there has been a difference. In all cases of disputed right the Government has submitted itself to the jurisdiction of civil courts. In this principle, as a principle, no change was made in 1868, and it is not proposed to make any change now. But there are certain demands in the nature of taxes, fines and other dues, in respect of which the only real question is, whether they have been paid or not, and as to the right of recovering which no question arises. It is in respect of this class of claims, then, that the Act of 1868 provided a special procedure, and that procedure it is on the present occasion proposed to maintain and improve. In 1868, it was attempted to enumerate and classify the particular demands to which this procedure should be made applicable. The Statute book was, however, then in an uncertain and confused state, and it was extremely difficult to know what portions of the old Bengal Regulations were in force, and what portions had been repealed or modified. As a natural consequence, the classification attempted in 1868 was, in the course of a few years, found to be incomplete, and in 1875 a short amending Bill was brought into this Council and passed. In the course of the few years that have since elapsed, the working of the Act of 1868, and the experience derived from its working, have brought to light further omissions; and now (I am still quoting from Mr. Field's speech of March, 1880,) that the Statute-book has been brought into a state of order, and it is known exactly what old Regulations are in force and what have been repealed, it is possible to attempt a complete enumeration and classification of those items of Public Demands created by existing Statutes, which it is desirable to bring under this special procedure. What then the Bill proposed to do is this: it would repeal so much of the Act of 1868 as was connected with the second object already stated, viz., the recovery of public demands. That portion of the Act which was connected with the realization of land revenue by the sale of estates, and which was an amendment of Act XI of 1859, it was not intended to touch. The second portion it was proposed to repeal, and to enact in an amended and more complete form. It has been attempted to give a complete enumeration of all those public demands created by the existing law which it has been thought desirable to recover by this special procedure, and a clause has been added enabling future Acts by a few words to refer to this special procedure, so that in the case of any new demand, or tax, or fine, or due, a few words introduced into any future Act will make it recoverable under this procedure

"The object of the present Bill is not to make any change in the main principles of the previous legislation, but rather to carry them out more completely.

"I will now give an outline of the present law and its working under the rules. When certain arrears of land revenue accrue, the Collector files certificates of his own motion; in the more numerous cases of public demands enumerated in the Act, when they remain unpaid, the officer or manager responsible for realising them, called under the rules the Requiring Officer, makes requisitions on the Collector with statements of the debts; and the Collector or his Deputy, called the Certificate Officer, files certificates in his office.

"The certificates at once have the force and effect of Civil Court decrees so far as regards the remedies for enforcing them. Thereupon the Collector issues a notice to the debtor to show cause within 30 days why such certificate should not be enforced. The debtor may then either file a petition of objection before the Collector denying his liability, or he may within a year of the notice bring a civil suit to contest his liability. In the case of demands for certain arrears of land revenue, the debtor can only sue in the Civil Court on the ground of non-indebtedness, and he must have paid the arrears before such suit may be entertained. In the case of other public demands, he must have petitioned the Collector before he can bring a Civil Suit and a Civil Court can cancel a certificate only on certain specified grounds. The petitions of objection are ordinarily referred by the Collector, i.e, his Deputy, the Certificate Officer, for hearing and determination to the Requiring Officer, who has the best knowledge of the case. The law provides for appeals and power of revision. A certificate may be enforced and executed when a month has elapsed from the service of the notice, or the petition of objection against it has been heard and determined. The execution and enforcement are to be according to the Code of Civil Procedure as of decrees for money, but it is the Collector who is to enforce the certificate, not the Civil Court. I should mention that on the issue of the notice to the debtor all his immoveable property is bound as if attached under the Code of Civil Procedure, and under certain circumstances his moveable property may be attached.

"I will now refer to the correspondence which has led up to the present proposal for legislation. It was in November, 1887, when the Government were asking for the opinion of the Board and Revenue officers on certain definite proposals for legislation regarding the Sale Law, that they enquired also whether some modified form of the Sale Law should not be applied to the recovery of such demands as cesses now realized under the Certificate Procedure. The Board thought there would be much to recommend the change on grounds both of convenience and economy, as the system of recovering cesses by the Certificate Procedure was dilatory and expensive. But they did not think the Sale Law should be made applicable to such demands unless it was shown that the landholders generally favoured the proposal. They recommended that a fuller expression of the zamindars' views should be invited on the suggestion that, when the payment of the land revenue of an estate can be enforced under the Sale Law, the payment of cesses due from it should be enforced by the same procedure. Nothing came of this suggestion. Meanwhile the case of Sadhusaran Singh versus Panchdeo Lal had occurred, and as I shall have to explain somewhere its bearing upon the case for legislation, I may as well deal with it here in its chronological order. Section 19 of Act VII (B.C.) of 1880 declares that all the practice and procedure provided by the Code of Civil Procedure in respect of sales in execution of decrees shall apply to every execution issued to enforce a certificate. In cases which came before the Board, they held that section 311 et seq. of the Civil Procedure Code (concerning applications to set aside sales) came strictly within the terms practice and procedure as above employed, and that therefore those sections were applicable to sales under the Public Demands Recovery Act; that Act VII (B.C.) of 1868 was not applicable to certificate sales; that a sale under a certificate was not a sale under Act VII (B.C.) of 1868 or XI of 1859, but a sale under the Code of Civil Procedure; that, if immoveable property was sold under a certificate, the sale was not a sale of an estate or share, but a sale of the rights and interests of the judgment debtor. But in Sadhusaran Singh's case the High Court decided in April, 1886, that only the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure up to the stage at which the auction sale is held apply to an execution issued to enforce a certificate, so that sections 311 and 312 are not applicable. They thought that the remedy of a judgment debtor, whose property has been wrongfully sold, is not under sections 311 and 312 of the Code, but by appeal to the Commissioner under the Revenue Sale Law.

"The Board pointed out to Revenue officers that by this ruling all the provisions of Act XI of 1859 with regard to appeals against sales of estates became applicable. A Commissioner brought to notice the inconvenience caused by this ruling, which necessitated all appeals being made to the district Commissioner, whereas previouly section 311 of the Civil Procedure Code was considered applicable to such sales, so that any person aggrieved by a sale would apply for relief to the Certificate Deputy Collector, and an appeal lay to the Collector under section 588 of the Code. The Board at once suggested legislation to amend the Public Demands Recovery Act and provide for a simple procedure to afford a remedy on the spot, and to prevent the possibility of sales of moveable property being regulated by Acts which applied to sales of immoveable property. The Board also pointed out that what passes by a sale under Act VII (B.C.) of 1880 is the right, title and interest of a judgment-debtor, so that it is inappropriate to give possession of an estate or share under section 28 of Act XI of 1859.

"This was the correspondence before Government when Sir Steuart Bayley in September, 1889, proposed to put Mr. John Beames, C.S., on special duty to prepare two separate Bills—one to amend the Revenue Sale Law, the other to amend the Public Demands Recovery Act. I have already explained how Mr. Beames prepared two Bills, how they were published and opinions asked and received. I then mentioned that the report of Hon'ble Judges of the High Court chiefly dealt with the Public Demands Recovery Act, and that it led to further correspondence with the High Court and the Board. It would be tedious to go into too much detail, but I must mention the main points of the discussion. The High Court stated their views that the Certificate Procedure should be limited to public demands in the strict sense of the term, and to demands which can be ascertained simply by an examination of the public records under the control of the Collector; that Revenue authorities should not be vested with incidental powers such as those relating to insolvency; that the procedure for questioning the validity or correctness of a certificate is defective as it involves two series of litigation—one before the Revenue authorities, the other before the Civil Courts. They proposed to leave the present procedure up to the service of the certificate untouched; but its execution they would leave to the Civil Court, allowing the judgment-debtor the choice of paying the amount or depositing the amount of the claim in Court so as to gain the right to resist execution on the ground that the sum claimed is not due. They wrote:—'If the intervention of the Civil Court be thus made before, and not after, the certificate is enforced, there would seem to the Judges to be no reason for setting aside the certificate on the ground of any irregularity; for, if any irregularity has occurred of such a kind as to place the judgment-debtor at a disadvantage, the remedy would naturally be to delay the execution for a reasonable time. Nor would the Judges allow any objection to be taken on the ground of jurisdiction. They do not see why a debtor to the Government should be permitted to raise questions, often very difficult to solve, as to the boundaries between administrative districts, and they would therefore limit his right strictly to disputing his indebtedness. If this system were adopted, no subsequent suit should be allowed to lie for the purpose of questioning the certificate or invalidating the sale thereunder by reason of one or the other not being warranted by the Act.' And in the last place, the High Court proposed that a debtor whose property has been sold should always be given the right of redemption, that is be at liberty to come before the Court and pay the amount of the demand with a penalty and interest on the purchase-money and thereupon have the sale set aside. The Board contested these views in several respects. The conclusions arrived at by the Local Government on the several points above mentioned were as follows: that there was no reason why any change should be made in the law which for years had admitted of rents in Courts of Wards' estates being included in the list of public demands recoverable under the Act, but that it should be provided that no certificate should issue in any case where a question of right or title is involved. The result will be to limit the action of the law to demands which are certain or easily ascertainable from the records. As to the exercise of powers in cases of insolvency, it has been shown that the matter is of no great practical importance as there have been only 47 such cases in three years. It has been admitted that Deputy Collectors should not have such powers, and it has been provided that the Collector of the district is not to delegate his powers in respect of insolvent debtors.

"With regard to the change of procedure proposed by the High Court, it has been thought advisable to retain the execution of certificates in the hands of the Revenue authorities on the grounds that the execution work of the Civil Courts is not better done than that of the Revenue authorities, and that the Revenue authorities would do better the work in which they are concerned than the Civil Courts who are not interested in the revenue would do it. But the Government fully accepted the High Court's objection to the double series of litigation which is now open to parties—one before the Revenue authorities, the other before the Civil Courts, and adopted the view that there should be no setting aside of a certificate after it has been carried into effect on the ground of irregularity; that no objection should be taken on the ground of jurisdiction, and that no suit should be allowed to lie for the purpose of questioning the certificate or invalidating the sale thereunder. Government are desirous that the procedure in the Revenue Courts, which will by the law be conducted under the Civil Procedure Code, should be as careful and accurate as that of any Civil Court and follow the same procedure. The High Court's proposal to grant a right of redemption after sale has been agreed to. This recommendation has been supported by the Board though with some misgivings; it is opposed by some officers of considerable weight, while it is approved of by the majority of the experienced officials who have been consulted. It is probably correct to anticipate that the result of making all sales liable to be set aside will be to reduce the auction price, but it is thought that this risk should perhaps be run rather than inflict on the debtor what the Judges call the frightful penalty of having an estate sold for a fraction of its value and himself reduced to ruin through his neglect to pay what may be only a trifling sum. At the same time safeguards seem to be necessary. The time allowed for redemption of purchase should be short, and the debtor should be required to pay a heavy penalty and a high rate of interest on the purchase-money. The principle of allowing a right of redemption after sale has recently, as the Council may be aware, received further sanction from the Legislature in another place.

"I will now proceed to refer to the principal changes which it is proposed to effect by the Bill As will have appeared from my previous observations, the general object is to separate the two systems (1) of realization of the land revenue, (2) of recovery of other public demands. In the first case, the land is theoretically responsible. The remedy should, it is thought, be speedy by the sale of the land. But, in the case of the other demands, the land is not liable in the first instance, and there is no necessity for providing the speedy remedy of land sales. At the same time it has been thought right, according to universal practice, that Government should have a special and more summary procedure allowed it for the collection of public demands than is permitted to the private creditor, and that for this purpose the Civil Code procedure should be carried out by the Revenue authorities. The main lines of the procedure previously in force have been retained, but the words in the Act of 1880, which directed that it should be construed as one with the Revenue Sale Law, have purposely been omitted. The Statement of Objects and Reasons shows all the changes beyond mere words introduced into the Bill. I will now only advert to paragraphs 4, 5, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 14, 15, 16 of the Statement.

"In section 4 of the Bill a new definition has been inserted to distinguish the Collector of the district from the officers who are specially appointed to exercise the functions of a Collector under the Act. It has always been the intention of the law that the general direction, control and supervision of the Certificate Department should remain in the hands of the Collector of the district, while the ordinary routine business of applying for certificates and of hearing and determining petitions of objection should be entrusted to the staff of Assistant and Deputy Collectors. It would be impossible for the Collector himself to do all the work; the certificates issued are too numerous, and he has many more important duties. I may mention that in 1892-93, 146,572 certificates were filed, 83,283 were pending, and 159, 522 were disposed of. Act I (B.C.) of 1891 was passed for the purpose of making it clear that it was not necessary for the Collector of the district himself to make all the certificates under section 7 of the Act, and that a specially appointed Collector might do it. By use of this new definition, and by making such changes as it entails throughout the Act, it is now possible to see at a glance what powers are to be exercised by the District Officer only and what he may exercise concurrently with the specially appointed Collectors. It has long been a rule under the law, and it is now included in section 31 of the Bill, that specially appointed Collectors are not to exercise appellate powers unless expressly authorised to do so by Government, and that they are still to be subject in the exercise of their functions to the general control of the District Officer.

"The changes proposed in section 7 of the Act generally speak for themselves. The list of demands recoverable under the Certificate Procedure has been brought up to date. Interest is to be allowed, as in the Sale law, on arrears of revenue or rent due to Government. A proviso to sub-section 7 of section 7 protects arrears of rent in managed estates from being levied at enhanced rates except by agreement or orders of Court. This sub-section has been remodelled to adapt it to the Tenancy Act. Provision has been made to carry out the decision that no certificate is to be made in case of any demand involving a question of right or title. Certificates filed while an estate was under the Court of Wards are not to lapse on account of the release of the estate.

"By the proviso to section 12 of the Bill the Collector is to be empowered to order that no petition of objection to a certificate shall be entertained unless at the same time the judgment-debtor deposits the full amount entered in the certificate. It will be remembered that, with regard to cases in the Civil Court to contest liability, the High Court proposed that the amount claimed should be deposited in Court to give the right to resist execution on the ground that the sum claimed is not due. This proviso is somewhat analogous, but it makes the deposit demandable—not obligatory.

"In the proviso to section 13 it is proposed to give the Collector power to refer a petitioner to the Civil Court if the petition of objection discloses a case which could, in his opinion, be more suitably tried by such Court. This is a suggestion from the Board of Revenue, and is taken from a section of the Land Registration Act.

"Section 16 contains the grounds on which a certificate may be cancelled by a Civil Court. It will effect considerable changes in the existing law by eliminating the grounds of error, defect or irregularity in the proceedings and want of jurisdiction on which a certificate may now be cancelled by a Civil Court. The grounds for cancelment will now be only two, viz., that the amount had been paid before the certificate was made, and that no part of the amount stated in the certificate was due. The section as drafted will maintain the right of objecting in the Revenue Court on technical grounds of irregularity, non-service of process, and on the substantial ground of non-indebtedness, the reference to the Civil Court being only admissible on the ground of non-indebtedness. In referring to the correspondence with the High Court, I have sufficiently stated how this result has been arrived at. By section 18 of the Bill, the present system of appeals—first to Collector and then to a Commissioner—is generally maintained. But some small changes have been introduced. The appeals from his subordinates will lie to the District Collector, who may, with the permission of Government, transfer the hearing of them to any specially appointed Collector subordinate to him; also, with the permission of Government, appeals from a specially appointed Collector may be made to a District Collector instead of to the distant Commissioner. By section 20 of the Bill, a judgment-debtor whose property has been sold under the Certificate Procedure will have a right of redemption on payment of the demand with penalty and interest analogous to that which is given to judgment-debtors under section 174 of the Tenancy Act. This section corresponds with a section of the Revenue Sale Bill. The High Court think this right should be given without any enquiry into the circumstances. Extremely bad cases have occurred in which properties have been sold very much under their real value, and although the judgment debtor may himself be to blame for his negligence, the High Court consider it, as I have said, too severe a penalty to impose upon a man for his neglect to pay a trifling sum that his estate should be sold for a fraction of its value and the debtor be reduced to ruin. To recover his estate the judgment-debtor will be required to pay the heavy penalty (a portion of which should be paid to the purchaser as compensation) and a high rate of interest on the purchase-money. It is argued that by such a plan Government cannot possibly be a loser, a purchaser can sustain no serious injury, and extreme hardship will be avoided in individual cases.

"A change has been made in section 22 of the Bill, which replaces section 19 of the Act of 1880, by setting out distinctly the numbers and description of the sections of the Code of Civil Procedure which will be applicable to the enforcement of certificates. This change had its origin in the case of Sadhusaran Singh, on which I have dwelt so fully that I need not revert to it here. The effect of the changes will be that appeals against certificate sales will not be to a Commissioner under the Revenue Sale Law, but under the Civil Procedure Code they will be to the Court which held the sale; and possession will be given under that Code of the right, title and interest of the debtor instead of being supposed to be given of an estate which was not really being sold.

"Under section 23, the Board of Revenue will be given the power now vested in the High Court of making rules under the Code of Civil Procedure regarding sales of immoveable property, so that the Board may frame such rules as may be suitable to the circumstances of certificate sales. The High Court's orders have been found unsuitable for certificate sales, as they entail expense and add to the length of the procedure. They were framed for a state of things differing very considerably from that prevailing in certificate matters. The remedy adopted has been to direct Collectors to follow certain portions of the High Court rules and to disregard the rest as inapplicable, but the correctness of this course is open to question: the rules should apply in their entirety or not at all. It is considered best to allow the Board of Revenue to make suitable rules. This continues the principle of allowing the Revenue authorities to carry out Civil Procedure, just as the execution of certificates is made over by the Act to Revenue Officers not to Civil Courts. By section 32, provision is made for the service of notices under the Code of Civil Procedure. It was wrongly considered at one time that Act VII (B.C.) of 1880 provided no system for serving notices, but it was overlooked that that Act was to be read with Act VII (B.C.) of 1868, which did prescribe rules for serving notices. Now that the Revenue Sale laws and the recovery of public demands are to be kept distinct, it becomes necessary to avoid misleading and confusing references from one Act to another. This section has therefore been introduced prescribing the method of serving notices under the Bill. In accordance with the system followed in other parts of the Bill, the course has been adopted of declaring certain sections of the Code of Civil Procedure applicable to notices issued under this Bill, which is thus provided with a procedure entirely independent of any enactment relating to sales for arrears of land revenue.

"As I indicated just now in the case of the Revenue Sale Bill, so also in this case there is no intention whatever of hurrying it through the Council. The object has been to launch both the Bills together, with such explanation as I have been able to offer, and by doing so now, nearly at the end of a Session, and referring them to a Select Committee, to afford several months for their circulation and for their consideration by public bodies and by Government officers before the Council meets next cold weather. It is expected that the Select Committee will be willing to examine the Bill and to indicate the points on which opinions will be specially valuable. I beg, Sir, to move that the Bill to amend the Public Demands Recovery Act, 1880, be referred to a Select Committee."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

BENGAL MUNICIPAL ACT, 1884, AMENDMENT BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. BOURDILLON moved that the clauses of the Bill to amend Bengal Act III of 1884, as amended by the enlarged Select Committee, be further considered for settlement in the form recommended by the Select Committee.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. BOURDILLON said:—"I have now the honour to bring forward the amendment to the Municipal Bill which stands against my name, and the consideration of which, it will be remembered, was postponed at the last occasion by direction of the President upon the suggestion of the Hon'ble MR ALLEN.

"The circumstances which led up to the introduction of this amendment have already been mentioned. Briefly, the difficulty is this—that sometimes considerable delay occurs in the election of a Vice-Chairman or the appointment or election of a Chairman for a new body of Commissioners. As the ordinary official life of a Municipal Commissioner, a Vice-Chairman, or a Chairman is three years, the result is that the Commissioners at the end of their term go out of office some weeks, or sometimes months, before their Chairman and Vice-Chairman. In these circumstances, the old Chairman and Vice Chairman continue to preside over a body of Commissioners who did not elect or nominate them. The Hon'ble the Advocate-General has given his opinion that such a state of things is quite legal, but it is obvious that the position may often be trying, and especially will this be the case when—as may easily happen—the old Chairman and Vice-Chairman may not be included in the new body of Commissioners.

"To remove this difficulty and to arrange that a Chairman and Vice-Chairman shall go out of office as soon as possible after the body of Commissioners over whom they preside, is the object of the amendment now before Council.

"But objections have been taken to the amendment as originally drawn, and I have now, with the permission of the President, to suggest that the amendment may take the form which it bears on the printed slips supplied to each member—a form for which I am indebted to the Hon'ble MR. COLLIER—

'26A. Notwithstanding anything contained in sections twenty-four and twenty-five, the Chairman and Vice-Chairman of any municipality shall resign their office at the first meeting of the body of Commissioners newly appointed and elected at which a quorum shall be present. The meeting shall thereupon proceed to elect, or to request Government to appoint, a Chairman, and to elect a Vice-Chairman.'

"Section 15 of the Bill proposes to enact that the outgoing Commissioners shall hold office till the first effectual meeting of the new Commissioners, and the amendment as now framed provides that the Chairman and Vice-Chairman shall go out of office at the same time, and that the meeting shall forthwith proceed to elect their successors or to elect a Vice-Chairman and ask Government to appoint a Chairman. I submit that the amendment supplies a real want, and that it will incidentally decide a question which has sometimes given rise to much local feeling, viz., who shall preside at the meeting for the election of new officers. In many cases, the outgoing Chairman claims the right to preside at this meeting, but he will now have no title to do so, for, since he and the Vice-Chairman will already have resigned, the meeting will be at liberty to elect a President ad hoc, which is doubtless the proper course. I, therefore, recommend that the amendment be accepted as it now stands."

The further consideration of this amendment and the next moved by the Hon'ble MR. BOURDILLON that in section 16 of the Bill for the number "26" the number and letter "26A" and for the number and letter "26A" the number and letter "26B" be substituted were again postponed to the next sitting of the Council.

The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee moved that in section 22 of the Bill, at some convenient place, the following proviso be introduced:—

"Provided that when the Commissioners of one municipality are required to show cause under sub-section (l) against any such scheme, a resolution against the introduction of such scheme passed at a meeting specially convened for the purpose, in favour of which a majority of not less than two-thirds of the whole number of Commissioners shall have voted, or when the Commissioners of two or more municipalities are required to act conjointly with each other for that purpose, a similar resolution passed by the Joint-Committee constituted under section 37B, in favour of which a majority of not less than two-thirds of the total number of votes allotted to such municipalities and apportioned to each of them according to their respective incomes shall have been recorded, shall be final; and in either case no further action shall be taken by the Local Government under the provisions of this section."

"The difference between this amendment and the one which originally stood against my name is that the amendment, as altered, allows the Commissioners to impose their veto at an earlier stage of the proceedings than what was contemplated under the original amendment. At the last meeting of the Council, the hon'ble and learned Advocate-General remarked that one of the amendments which I had the honour to move was unnecessary and uncalled for. I regret I could not acquiesce in the justice of that observation, and I am certain that when the hon'ble member comes to reconsider his remarks, he will find reason to modify the severity of the criticism which he passed on that occasion. However that may be, I think there can be but one opinion with regard to the question now before the Council. It involves a consideration of the gravest public importance. The section to which my amendment refers represents an important departure in municipal law. It introduces a principle unknown to our municipal institutions. It is not control but compulsion that is sought to be secured. The powers of control are there reserved to the Government under section 64 of the Act. These powers have been confirmed and consolidated by the provisions of this Bill; first, as regards the appointment of an assessor by the Government when the assessments made in any municipality are considered to be unsatisfactory or inequitable; secondly, as to the appointment of auditors when the accounts of a municipality are in a state of hopeless confusion It is worthy of remark that the Act of 1876 did not secure to the Government the powers of control reserved to it under the Act of 1884. The powers of control are a creation of the Act of 1884, and now we pass from control to compulsion. I should be guilty of grave injustice were I to question the motives of the Government. The Government has in this matter been actuated by the highest and purest intentions, namely, by the desire to reduce the terrible record of mortality due to causes that are in their nature preventible. Cholera and fever are the two great scourges of Bengal—awful visitations of Providence that decimate more than a million of our people every year. A Government that seeks by its measures to reduce such a terrible death-rate is entitled to our lasting gratitude. But what is felt is, that the Government should in this matter co-operate with the representatives of the people; that they should not coerce them, but endeavour to carry them with it in the path of sanitary improvement.

"Health is a matter of such first importance, human life is such a sacred thing, that I should not hesitate to have recourse to compulsion if I did not believe, having regard to the public controversy which has taken place since the Belvedere Conference, that compulsion, pure and simple—compulsion which went beyond the limits of moral pressure—would end in failure. Sanitation is a practical art: it is a branch of the general administration. It is an axiomatic principle that the sanitarian must carry the people along with him. If he advances ahead of public opinion, he incurs the risk of failure; if he defies public opinion, runs counter to it, or seeks to coerce it, failure is inevitable. No Lieutenant-Governor was more partial to personal government or was less influenced by sentimental considerations than the late Sir Ashley Eden. Let me quote his remarks bearing upon this point in connection with a controversy between the Calcutta Corporation and their Health Officer, Dr. Payne:—

'Mr. Eden is persuaded that to make sanitation efficient in Calcutta, the people of the city must be led, and not driven, into co-operation with the Sanitary Department. Dr.

Payne should bear in mind that one case in which native society is induced by conviction to adopt a sanitary theory is worth hundreds of cases in which they are pressed into submitting to reforms of the benefits of which they are not satisfied. The Sanitary Officer must remember that the principles and theories which to him seem so obvious and so indisputable have not even yet received practical acceptation in many countries in a much more advanced condition of social progress than India. In some of the finest cities in civilized Europe, with every appliance and convenience for sanitary improvement available, there are streets, lanes and houses whose description, if faithfully given, would throw into the shade the vivid pictures of the filth of Calcutta so graphically drawn by Dr. Payne.'

"I invite the Government to adopt the principle which is here so emphatically set forth, and to accept it for the sake of the great experiment upon which it is about to embark. By conciliating public opinion, by meeting it half way, Government will more effectually promote sanitation than by the adoption of compulsory measures. Let me here gratefully acknowledge that Government has already done much in this direction. The Bill provides that before any municipality can be required to provide a system of water-supply or a system of drainage, it will be called upon to show cause why it should not carry out the scheme. The explanation of the municipality will be considered by the Government. If satisfactory, no doubt it will be accepted. If, being unsatisfactory, it is rejected, the Government will publish its decision with a full statement of the reasons thereof. These are important concessions to public opinion. I ask the Government to advance a step further and to crown the edifice of its graceful concessions by recognizing the principle in the Bill that where there is a clear, emphatic and overwhelming consensus of opinion against any proposal which the Government makes, it shall be abandoned. For what does my amendment propose? It says that a municipality being called upon to show cause, if two thirds of the whole number of Commissioners vote against any scheme, or when several municipalities are called upon to show cause if two-thirds of the whole number of votes allotted to a Joint-Committee constituted under section 37B are recorded against it, the scheme shall be abandoned by the Government. Let it be observed that a vote against the Government by a bare majority will be inoperative; a majority of two-thirds voting at the meeting would be infructuous: it must be a majority of two-thirds of the whole number of Commissioners. I am sure such a vote would not be recorded against the Government except in a case of real and absolute necessity. I rely upon the precedent of a great municipality which I have the honour to represent in this Council. Sections 39 and 41 of the Calcutta Municipal Act lay down the procedure under which some of the high officers of the Corporation may be removed from their office. They provide that the Chairman, Vice Chairman and certain other officers of the Corporation, especially mentioned in the sections referred to, can only be removed from office if, at a meeting specially convened for the purpose, two-thirds of the Commissioners present vote for the removal of any such officer. These sections have remained inoperative—not that they were never sought to be enforced. There was at least one case where the aid of these sections was invoked, and invoked in vain. The two-thirds majority could not be obtained.

"It would be impossible under the terms of my amendment for a small municipality to stand in the way of any great sanitary improvement in which larger and more important municipalities may be interested. The votes will be allotted to the municipalities according to their income. This is not a novel procedure, but one with which hon'ble members are acquainted in connection with the election of Members of Council by municipalities and District Boards.

"My amendment proceeds upon the principle of local option, which has already been adopted in the Drainage Bill, with this difference that the concession which I pray for is much more restricted than what has been so freely granted to the local bodies under the Drainage Bill. Under the Drainage Bill, the Government may take the initiative, but the last word will lie with the District Board. The assent or dissent of the District Board is conclusive, and its assent or dissent will be expressed by a bare majority. The Drainage Bill and the clauses which we are now considering are allied to each other. They are kindred measures; they refer to the same subject; they are the outcome of the same Conference; they should proceed upon the same lines.

If, as regards the rural bodies, the principle of local option has been adopted in cases such as those we are dealing with, the same principle should also be adopted as regards the municipalities. If in the case of the rural bodies the principle of coercion has been abandoned, it should also be given up in the case of the municipalities which enjoy a much larger measure of self-government.

"I have heard it said that it would involve loss of prestige on the part of the Government if, having called upon a municipality to undertake a scheme of water-supply or a scheme of drainage, it was to give it up at the bidding of the Commissioners. I have yet to learn that a Government loses prestige or forfeits popular regard by deference to popular opinion. Why, Sir, this very Municipal Bill which we are now considering affords striking evidence in support of the anxious solicitude of the Government to be guided by the expression of public opinion. What a vast difference between the Bill such as we now have it and the Bill such as it was, as originally drafted. Clause after clause have been drafted and re-drafted in deference to the demands of public opinion. Why, only the other day a coercive clause which had found its way into the Fire brigade Bill was abandoned in deference to a strongly expressed opinion by a member of the Select Committee.

"I very much fear compulsion will do more harm than good. It will irritate public feeling; it will alienate the sympathies of the people; it will array them against reforms, in favour of which the whole of whatever there is of popular sentiment should be enlisted. For ten years you have had the sections relating to control on the statute-book. How often has it been found necessary to enforce them? I have great faith in large bodies of men acting together. They seldom go wrong. They exemplify the old adage that the voice of the people is the voice of God. Our municipalities are daily improving in knowledge, in efficiency and in administrative capacity. Day by day they are being penetrated with a deeper sense of responsibility. Would you weaken their sense of responsibility by holding in terrorem over their heads the punitive clauses of a compulsory enactment? I would advise the Council to trust them, to repose confidence in them, to put faith in their honesty, their public spirit, their devotion to their duties. Your trust will not be abused, your confidence will not be misplaced. Let the compulsory clauses be abandoned; let the principle of local option be recognized. It will be a graceful concession; it will not be soon forgotten; the memory of it will long linger in the public mind; it will be deeply appreciated by the municipalities and the country, and public opinion thus conciliated will enforce obedience to the mandates of Government with an authority such as no Government in the world can command."

The Hon'ble Mr. BOURDILLON said:—"It is to be observed in the first place, with reference to this amendment, that it seeks to deprive Government of the final decision on the question of schemes of drainage and water-supply, and if carried, it will become possible for the local authorities to resist successfully the proposed reform. The earlier sections 37 B to 37J, as they stand in the Bill, give the initiative to the local bodies. Section 37K provides for the case of a municipality, or two or more municipalities and local bodies, abstaining from action and being then required to take action by Government. A priori it would appear that after ample time has been given to the local authorities to object the ultimate decision should be left to Government, and it would not, I think, be unreasonable to ask this Council to declare that this power should be given. But it is understood that an apprehension exists to the effect that the law if passed in this form, would be used to force upon an unwilling municipality reforms which it neither appreciates nor desires. Such an apprehension, I need hardly say, has little foundation in fact, but I am authorised to say that, in pursuance of the policy of moderation which Government has throughout maintained in regard to this Bill, the Lieutenant-Governor is willing to waive under certain conditions the final word on this point. The amendment, as it now stands, will still leave to Government the decision in doubtful cases, but declares that if local feeling is so unitedly hostile that two thirds of the Commissioners of a single municipality, or two-thirds of the Joint Committee when more than one local body is concerned, pass a resolution against the scheme—in that case I say Government shall accept the remonstrance as an authoritative expression of local opinion and cease to take action in the matter. On the whole, I am inclined to think personally that the proposal is not unfair. Hon'ble members will know that a two-thirds majority of the whole numbers of any local body is not easy of attainment, and therefore when such a majority is secured it may be taken as entitled to great weight. I therefore intend to offer no objection to the amendment in its latest form."

The Hon'ble MR. LYALL said:—"As this amendment has been accepted by the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill, I wish to suggest whether it would not be better to reconstruct the whole section. It seems to me that the body of the section is somewhat conflicting with the amendment. I think it would be better to postpone the consideration of the amendment, so as to introduce it in a more workable shape."

The Hon'ble SIR CHARLES PAUL said:—"Now that we hear that the municipality has so far advanced in intelligence and independence and honesty of purpose as to deserve the high and grandiloquent eulogium of the hon'ble mover of this amendment, I am glad that the Government does not press this compulsory provision of the Bill. For my own part, I am for the amendment, because I think municipalities now understand their own interests better, and that that justifies the hon'ble member in saying that we may trust them, and that seriously speaking anything like the application of a vis major is unnecessary."

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said:—"I associate myself with the remarks which fell from the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill, as well as from the Hon'ble the Advocate-General. I think this amendment is a reasonable and a sensible amendment, and I think there is really no risk that we should ever have a thoroughly sound scheme rejected by a majority of two-thirds of the whole body of Commissioners of the municipality concerned. When the suggestion as to this amendment was first made, my only anxiety was with regard to the case in which a scheme was framed for a series of municipalities, and in which the refusal of one or two small municipalities might block the whole scheme or cause such an increase in the cost of carrying out the whole scheme, as would impose a severe burthen upon the others. But as the amendment which has been brought forward to-day has completely covered that case and removed any anticipation of danger from such a cause, we may safely accept it. With regard to what fell from the Hon'ble MR. LYALL, I do not see exactly the difficulty of wording which he referred to, but it will be understood that when all the amendments have been considered and passed, the final revision of the wording will be considered by the Legislature, and any amendments necessary from the draftsman's point of view will be laid before the Council at the last stage when the Bill comes forward to be passed. I think, therefore, that it is not necessary to postpone the consideration of this amendment. The only thing that occurs to me is, that I should like to know whether the Hon'ble MR. GHOSE is prepared to vote for the amendment now before the Council, and to abandon the next amendment in the agenda paper. The two amendments appear to me to cover almost the same ground."

The Hon'ble MR. GHOSE said:—"I will, with your permission, Sir, ask that the sitting of the Council may be now adjourned, so that I may consider whether it will be necessary for me to bring forward my amendment. The first of my two provisos is quite covered by my hon'ble friend's amendment, but the second proviso somewhat differs from the present amendment, and I shall therefore ask, Sir, you to give me time to consider whether it will be worth while to press that portion of my amendment."

Motion was put and agreed to.

The consideration was postponed to the next sitting of the Council of the Hon'ble MR. GHOSE's motion that in section 22 of the Bill, after sub-section (3) of section 37K, the following provisos be added:—

"Provided that no such order shall be made in respect of any municipality, the Commissioners of which, upon being required to show cause under sub-section (1), shall, by a resolution in favour of which not less than two-thirds of the whole number of Commissioners shall have given their votes at a meeting specially convened for the purpose, determine that such supply of water or such drainage is unsuitable or unnecessary or would be too expensive for such municipality:

"Provided further that if within two months from the date of the publication of the particulars of any such scheme in the Calcutta Gazette, a petition is presented to the Local Government by a majority of not less than two-thirds of the registered rate-payers of a municipality, objecting to the compulsory introduction of such scheme into such municipality, the Commissioners thereof shall not be compelled to carry out such scheme."

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE moved that in the first paragraph of section 46 of the existing Act, the words "Health Officer or Assessor" be substituted for "or Health Officer." He said:—

"As the Government is prepared to accept this amendment, it is unnecessary for me to detain the Council with any explanation."

The Hon'ble MR. BOURDILLON said:—"My acceptance of this amendment is subject to certain modifications which I shall shortly indicate, and with that reservation I have little objection to offer to it. Its scope is merely supplementary, and intended to supply an omission; but it will, if accepted, read with section 40 of the Bill as it now stands, operate to leave in the hands of the Municipal Commissioners the appointment of an Assessor and the fixing of his salary.

"Section 40 of the Bill provides for the appointment of an Assessor, but says nothing about his pay, but the Hon'ble MR. COLLIER has an amendment, No. (13 in the List of Business, to correct this omission and to enable Government to fix a reasonable salary for the Assessor and his establishment. If the present amendment be carried and section 40 be not altered at the same time, as I hope it will be, then any municipality will be able to frustrate the intentions of Government by appointing an Assessor on some salary so inadequate that no one will be found to accept the appointment."

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said:—"I think it is hardly necessary to anticipate what the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill fears may happen, namely, the appointment of an Assessor on so low a salary that no one will be found to accept the office. I think we must assume that municipalities will act reasonably."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The consideration of the other amendments was postponed to the next sitting of the Council.

The Council adjourned to Saturday, the 14th April, 1894.

RESOLUTION ON THE REPORT ON THE WORKING OF THE EDEN SANITARIUM FOR THE YEAR 1893.

MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT—MEDICAL.

RESOLUTION No. 1793Medl.

READ—

The report on the working of the Eden Sanitarium for the year 1893.

Read also—

The report for the year 1892, and the Resolution recorded upon it.

The following statement shows the admissions into the institution during the past nine years:—

	1885.	1886.	1887.	1888.	1889.	1890.	1891.	1892.	1893.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
Patients	192	273	344	336	370	316	356	370	328
Relatives and attendants	68	120	84	107	132	86	151	44	31
Total .	260	393	428	443	502	402	507	414	359

As compared with the figures of the preceding two years, there was a falling off during 1893 in the number both of patients and of relatives and attendants admitted. The decrease in the number of patients is attributed to fewer admissions during the first half of the season, owing to the comparative coolness and healthiness of that portion of the year in the plains, while the falling off in the number of relatives and attendants is said to be due partly to the nature of the cases admitted, but chiefly to a better understanding of the fact that the arrangements for the nursing, care, and comfort of the sick in the Sanitarium make the services of relatives and attendants unnecessary in many cases.

2. The following statement compares the number of residents in each class during the past four years:—

1	2	3	4	5
First class	57	75	59	51
Intermediate „	79	123	90	52
Second „	164	169	146	144
Total ...	402	507	414	359

It will be observed that the second class continues to be the most popular.

3. The Sanitarium was as usual opened on the 1st March, but it was closed a little earlier than is generally the case viz., on the 18th instead of on the 30th November, in order that the repairs to the building might be taken in hand and completed in time to permit of the institution being re-opened in the current year as near the usual date as possible.

4. Of the 328 patients treated, 257 were adults (159 males and 98 females) and 71 children. The total number of patients who occupied free beds rose from 12 in 1892 to 19 during the year under review. Of these seventeen were sent from the Calcutta Hospitals and two were admitted by the Sanitarium Committee. But besides these, thirteen patients were paid for from the grant of Rs. 2,000 sanctioned in March 1893, from the Hospital Port Dues Fund, to enable convalescent European sailors to be sent to the Sanitarium from the Calcutta and Howrah hospitals. Thus the total number of patients who enjoyed the benefits of the institution free of cost amounted during the year to thirty-two. The daily average number of patients in the institution, including those who occupied free beds, was 31·23 against 31·99 in 1892 and 31·02 in 1891. The daily average therefore was well maintained notwithstanding the decrease in the number of admissions. The average stay of each patient in the Sanitarium was 24·94 days as compared with 23·77 in 1892 and 23 97 in 1891. Of the patients about 40 per cent admitted were suffering from diseases directly or indirectly of malarial origin, 18·5 per cent. from diseases of the digestive system, while diarrhœa and diseases of the liver and of the respiratory system were the next most common forms of complaint. Ninety-four surgical operations, of which 5 were major and 89 minor, were performed against 40 in the year 1892, and all of them were successful. This is a very creditable record. Only three deaths occurred during the year against eight in 1892. One of these three deaths was due to dysentery, one to cerebral effusion, and the other to tubercle of the lungs. The percentage of deaths was 0·91 against 2·16 in 1892.

5. The total income of the institution fell off from Rs. 31,524 in 1892 to Rs. 29,526 during the year under review. Of this amount Rs. 28,327 were received from patients, Rs. 935 as subscriptions, Rs. 195 as interest, and Rs. 69 as miscellaneous receipts. The decrease is attributed to the falling off in the number of relatives and friends admitted, the cause of which has already been noticed. The expenditure showed a more than corresponding reduction, and amounted to Rs. 27,367 only against Rs. 31,307 in 1892. Thus the credit balance at the close of the year rose to Rs. 10,076 against Rs. 7,918 at the close of 1892—a satisfactory result, inasmuch as owing to the repairs that are required to the building, it is expected that the institution will not open as early as usual in the current year.

6. The free cot for children provided in 1891 was occupied during the year under review from the 18th April to 6th October. The expenditure was met from the principal of the fund, as the amount raised was not sufficient to form a permanent endowment. It is to be hoped that in the current year sufficient funds will be realized to secure this object. Mainly through the exertions of Mrs. C. M. W. Brett, who collected a sum of Rs. 150 at Dacca for the purpose, a second cot was made available for sickly children from 24th May to 5th September. Seven children in all occupied these cots during the year, and all of them returned to the plains in robust health.

7. The Lieutenant-Governor is glad to learn that the superior establishment of the institution performed their duties satisfactorily. His acknowledgments are due to the Superintendent, Surgeon Lieutenant-Colonel E. G. Russell, and to the Committee of Management, for their efficient working of the Sanitarium during the year.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

J. A. BOURDILLON,

Offg. Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The month of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

Explanation.—Summary—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period for the Humidity of the atmosphere is expressed as percentage, saturated air being represented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The mean are the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the subdivisional stations for the period in question stations in the district sending in returns divided by the number of stations. A rainy day is one of which at least a tenth of an inch fell.

Explanation.—... indicates that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is wherein fallen 0·1 inch of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 17th April 1894.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY, THE 14TH OF APRIL 1894.

THE meteorological changes during the week have again been unimportant, and fine settled weather of ordinary hot season character has prevailed in all districts of Bengal for almost the whole period, though in Assam in the early part of the week conditions were abnormal. On the 8th instant, or the first day of the week under review, a brisk fall of pressure occurred in Assam, and a moderate fall generally over Bengal. Pressure was largely below the normal over the whole province, the defect ranging up to no less than 0·27 inch at Sibsagar. Very disturbed weather existed in Assam and Cachar, where Silchar reported no less then 5·34 inches of rain, but over the greater part of Bengal weather was fine, and rainfall was practically absent. On the 9th instant a brisk increase of pressure had occurred in Assam, where the low-pressure area was filling up, while a slow increase of pressure also took place in Bengal. Silchar again reported 3·36 inches of rain during a thunderstorm with hail, but over Bengal weather still remained generally fine. On the 10th a brisk increase of pressure took place over both Assam and Bengal, and the low-pressure area hence continued to fill up. Disturbed weather still existed in Cachar, and Silchar again reported 3·8 inches of rain. Over Bengal, however, weather was still fine generally, though a few unimportant showers were reported in East Bengal on this day. On the 11th again a brisk to rapid increase of pressure occurred, and pressure became practically normal. Silchar reported on the 11th a further fall of 3·84 inches of rain during a thunderstorm with hail, making sixteen and a third inches of rain within four days, but in Bengal weather was fairly settled, and beyond one or two light local showers no rain was reported. On the 12th pressure continued to increase, and it became decidedly in excess of the normal. The area of disturbance had, however, shifted over to South-East and East Bengal, where very numerous local storms with rain occurred between the 11th and 12th. On the 13th the pressure changes were small and irregular, the disturbed conditions had to a great extent ceased in East Bengal, but one or two local storms occurred in South-West Bengal, though generally on this day weather was fine and settled. On the 13th again the pressure changes were very small, and pressure was generally above the normal by from about 0·03 to 0·05 inch, while weather over the whole province remained fine and no rain was reported. Ordinary hot-weather winds have been blowing over Bengal throughout the week, and winds were usually westerly and south-westerly in the west and south-west of the province, southerly and south-easterly in the eastern districts, and frequently easterly along the foot of the hills.

Pressure.—Owing to the unusually low pressure during the early part of the week, the mean pressure for this period has been below the normal in all districts. The defect has usually equalled from 0·03″ to 0·06″.

Temperature.—High temperatures have prevailed throughout the week in almost all districts. The average mean temperature for the whole province has been 1·5° above the normal, and in South-West and North Bengal this excess has been between 2° and 3°. At some stations decidedly high maximum temperatures have been registered. Thus Midnapore on the 9th recorded 111·9°, Bankura on the 8th 109·1°, Cuttack on the 8th 109·8°, and Chaibassa on the 9th 108·1°.

The actual temperatures registered during the week and their variations from the normal temperature for the present season are most clearly seen in the table below, where the average maximum, minimum and mean temperatures for the week at nine typical stations in the province are compared with the normal values for the same period. The day, or maximum, readings for the week have shown a considerably higher temperature than usual and the excess at the nine stations in the maximum, or day, temperature has equalled 1·8° while the night, or minimum, temperature has also been in rather large excess, the variation at the nine stations averaging nearly 1·3°.

Rainfall.—Behar and Chota Nagpur have been rainless, while Orissa, South-West and North Bengal have received a few local showers, but of no practical importance. The only rainfall of importance has occurred in East Bengal, which has received an average amount of 0·37 inch. In this Division the districts which have received the largest and most general falls have been South Lushai Hills, Chittagong, Backergunge, Dacca and Mymensingh.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 14th of April 1894:—

NOTIFICATION—No. 2565S.R.

The 23rd April 1894.—The following rules framed under sections 9, 105 and 130 of the Sea Customs Act, VIII of 1878, for regulating the weighment and removal by rail or water under bond of non-duty-paid salt from shipboard or from the Government Salt Golahs to a warehouse appointed or licensed under the Sea Customs Act or under Act XXI of 1887 (the Inland Bonded Warehouse Act), and for the clearance of the salt from the warehouse, having been sanctioned by the Lieutenant-Governor, are published for general information as required by section 204:—

1. On receipt of an application under section 91, Act VIII of 1878, for the admission of salt into a warehouse appointed or licensed under the Sea Customs Act or under the Inland Bonded Warehouse Act, XXI of 1887, and after the due execution of a bond under the provisions of section 92 of the Sea Customs Act, the Collector of Customs shall make such arrangements as he may deem necessary for the proper weighment of salt during its discharge from the vessel or from the Golahs for the purpose of being conveyed to the warehouse. When the salt is to be re-warehoused it shall ordinarily be permitted to be re-warehoused under the original bond in cases where no injury is likely to occur to the revenue, but the Collector may require a fresh bond in addition to the bond under section 92.

2. The weighment of salt on shipboard shall be carried on in the presence of the Preventive Officer, subject to such charges as may be in force and under such subsidiary arrangements as may from time to time be made by the Collector of Customs in respect of salt intended to be bonded in the Government Golahs. When the salt has to be conveyed to a vessel which is not alongside the discharging vessel, a fee of one rupee per 100 maunds up to 500 maunds and two rupees for each 500 maunds or part of 500 maunds thereafter will be payable.

3. Delivery may be made in bulk from the Golahs or from shipboard. The salt may be discharged direct from the ship or the Golahs into the wagons, and the amount of the salt so discharged may be ascertained by passing each wagon over the railway weigh-bridge in the presence of a Preventive Officer, or it may be weighed at the discretion of the Collector of Customs. When the salt is being delivered to any one other than the owner, delivery by weigh-bridge weight shall only be allowed when both parties give their consent in writing to this method of weighment.

4. A pass in the annexed form will be granted by the Preventive Officer to the guard of the train as a protective document, on which the name of the importing vessel, and of the bonder, the quantity of salt loaded into each wagon, and the warehouse wherein it is to be deposited, shall be endorsed.

5. After the salt has been loaded in the wagons the wagons shall be closed and sealed by, or in the presence of, the Preventive Officer.

6. Immediately after the arrival of the wagons at their destination, notice shall be given by the bonder or his agent to the officer authorised by the Collector of the district or by the Collector of Customs, if there be any, to supervise the transit of the salt to the warehouse. The officer shall thereupon note the date and hour of arrival, bringing any unreasonable delay to the notice of the Collector, examine the seals, and if they are found intact, take over the pass delivered by the Preventive Officer to the Railway guard, and superintend the removal of the salt to the appointed warehouse, where it shall be stored in bulk without reweighment unless the bonder or his agent shall desire reweighment, in which case it shall be made at his expense.

Conveyance of salt from shipboard in the stream, or from the Kidderpore Docks, or from the Golahs partly by boat, and partly by rail.

7. No salt intended to be conveyed partly by boat and partly by rail shall be taken from shipboard, or from the Golahs, save in bags and in a lighter provided with hatches, which are capable of being securely fastened down, and it shall be the duty of a Preventive Officer to satisfy himself that such lighter is in a serviceable condition before permitting such salt to be placed therein.

8. As soon as the bonder or his agent or servant shall notify to the Preventive Officer that he desires to proceed with any boat-load of salt, he shall obtain a boat-note, in which the name of the importing vessel and of the bonder, the quantity of salt contained therein, and the warehouse wherein it is to be deposited, shall be specified. The mouths of the bags shall be securely fastened, and the tying sealed with a stamp specially provided for this purpose, and the hatches shall be closed and sealed by, or in the presence of, the Preventive Officer. The lighter shall then be allowed to proceed in charge of a peon or other Custom House Officer deputed for the purpose by the Custom House authorities, accompanied by an agent on the part of the bonder.

9 The boat shall be made fast to the bank nearest to the place where the railway wagons by which the salt is to be conveyed to the warehouse may be in waiting, otherwise at the moorings nearest to such ghat. It shall on no account (except stress of weather) be permitted by the peon or other Custom House Officer on board to anchor anywhere else.

10. Notice of the arrival of such salt shall at once be given by the Custom House Officer to the Preventive Officer deputed by the Customs authorities to superintend the storage of the salt in the railway wagons, who shall thereupon note the date and hour of arrival, bringing any unreasonable delay to the notice of the Collector of Customs, examine and compare the boat-note delivered by the Preventive Officer to the bonder, his servant or agent, and the cargo of salt, and superintend its removal to, and storage in, the wagons.

11. The bonder's agent and peon or other Custom House Officer shall remain on board of the boat in charge, until the seals and hatches are examined and all the cargo landed and put in wagons. After the salt has been put in the railway wagons the wagons shall be closed and sealed by, or in the presence of, the Preventive Officer, who shall endorse on the boat-note the quantity landed from the boat, and placed in the wagons. The boat-note shall be made over to the Railway guard to be taken with the salt as a protective document.

12. Immediately after the arrival of the wagons at their destination, notice shall be given by the bonder or his agent to the officer authorized by the Collector of the district, or by the Collector of Customs, if there be any, to supervise the transit of the salt to the warehouse. This officer shall thereupon note the date and hour of arrival, bringing any unreasonable delay to the notice of the Collector, examine the seals, and if they are found intact, take over the boat-note delivered by the Preventive Officer to the Railway guard, and the cargo of salt, and superintend its removal to the appointed warehouse, where it shall be stored in bulk without reweighment, the bags being returned to the bonder, unless the bonder or his agent shall desire reweighment, in which case it shall be made at his expense.

Conveyance of salt in bulk direct by water from shipboard in the stream or from the Kidderpore Docks or from the Golahs.

13. All applications under rule 1 shall specify the name, tonnage and manjhi or master's name of the vessel in which the goods are intended to be conveyed.

14. Salt shall be conveyed by vessels only so constructed that the hatches and all access to the hold in which the salt is loaded can be closed by seals to the satisfaction of the Preventive Officer superintending the discharge of salt, and no other cargo than salt shall be carried in such hold. Each salt vessel shall carry a special pass in the annexed form under the signature of the Collector of Customs, covering the consignment of salt shipped by it. This pass shall remain in custody of the master or manjhi, and shall be made over by him to the officer authorized by the Collector of the district or the Collector of Customs, if there be any, to supervise the transit of the salt from the vessel to the warehouse. A copy of the pass shall be sent to the Collector of the district or to the Collector of Customs, if there be any.

15. The salt when placed on board each vessel must be stamped all over, the hatches and all access to the hold containing the salt being closed by seals during transit. Both the seals on the hatches and the stamps on the salt should be stated in the pass referred to in rule 14.

16. When the discharge of salt from shipboard or from the warehouses is interrupted, or not completed, such quantity as has been actually delivered at the time of interruption, shall be covered by a customs boat-note. The salt so delivered must also be completely stamped over, and the hatches and all access to the hold must be sealed by Customs seals to be examined by the night Customs Inspector, who must record his report of each such inspection.

17. The vessel on arrival at its destination shall be anchored as close as possible to the ghat leading to the warehouse in which the salt is to be stored, or at the nearest moorings to such ghat.

18. Immediately after the arrival of the vessel at its destination, notice shall be given by the bonder or his agent to the officer authorized by the Collector of the district or the Collector of Customs, if there be any, to supervise the transit of the salt to the warehouse. This officer shall, thereupon, note th date and hour of arrival, bringing any unreasonable delay to the notice of the Collector, examine the seals, and if they are found intact, take over the pass delivered by the Preventive Officer to the master or manjhi of the vessel and superintend the removal of the salt to the appointed warehouse, where it shall be stored in bulk without reweighment, unless the bonder or his agent shall desire reweighment, in which case it shall be made at his expense.

General Rules.

19. The bonder will be held responsible for any departure from these rules on the part of his agent.

20. All expenses connected with the removal and storage of the salt and the services of the officer or peon in charge of the salt under rule 2 or 8 shall be borne by the bonder.

21. If the officer referred to in rules 6, 12 and 18 shall have reason to believe that the salt has in any way been tampered with during its transit, he shall at once report the circumstance to the Collector of the district or the Collector of Customs, if there be any, who shall direct the salt to be reweighed, and such reweighment shall be made in the first place at the expense of Government. If there be found any unexplained deficiency in the salt in the railway wagons or vessel as compared with the quantity specified in the pass or boat-note, the Collector may call on the bonder to refund the expense of weighment, and shall exact the full duty under rule 27.

22. The salt shall be stored under proper supervision in the warehouse. The door of the warehouse shall have two locks; the key of one lock (which must be a Chubbs' lock) shall remain with the daroga or other officer deputed by the Collector, and key of the other with the bonder's agent.

23. Salt relating to different bonds shall be stored separately and distinctly. Any admixture of salt specified in different bonds shall render those bonds liable to cancelment and the holders to immediate payment of the full duty payable thereon. The daroga or other officer deputed by the Collector shall keep a separate account for the salt warehoused under each bond.
